

Virginia beats UNC, 6-3

By EDDIE WOOTEN

Playing in 40-degree weather with winds gusting as high as 40 mph, the North Carolina men's tennis team was beaten by Virginia 6-3 Tuesday in an Atlantic Coast Conference match in Charlottesville, Va.

Carolina's Josh Sarnier, at the No. 5 seed, defeated John Murray in three sets, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1. No. 6 John Grigg beat Steve Wilson 6-3, 6-2 in the other Tar Heel singles win. The lone doubles team to win was the No. 3 pair of Robbie Bach and Ken Whitaker, who beat Steve Wilson and Tom Kimball 6-3, 6-4.

The Tar Heels were beaten in each of the first four singles matches. Mike Einsider defeated Ray Disco 6-2, 6-1 at No. 1. Second-seeded John Dokken beat Ron Erskine 6-4, 6-3. No. 3 Jay Horine topped Ken Ludwig in three sets, 7-6, 4-6, 6-2, and No. 4 Darrell Wilburn beat Whitaker 6-2, 7-6.

Virginia also took wins in two of three doubles matches. At the No. 1 position, Einsider and Dokken disposed of Disco and Ludwig 6-2, 7-6. In a three-set match, Horine and Wilburn beat Erskine and Grigg 6-2, 2-6, 7-5.

On Monday, the Tar Heels recorded their fourth shutout of the season by blanking William and Mary 9-0 in Williamsburg, Va.

Eight of the nine matches were won in straight sets. The exception was in the No. 2 singles match. Erskine beat Paul Meehan 6-2, 4-6, 6-4. In other singles matches, Disco beat Greg Miller 6-3, 6-1 at No. 1; Ludwig topped Gordon Diamond 6-1, 6-4 at No. 3; Sarnier routed Rod Macklin 6-2, 6-1 at No. 4; Grigg beat Don Robbins 6-1, 6-3 at No. 5; and No. 6 Robbie Bach beat Bruce Phillips 6-4, 6-4.

The Tar Heels had an easy time in the doubles matches. The top-seeded team of Disco and Ludwig defeated Miller and Diamond 6-3, 6-4. Erskine and Grigg, playing at No. 2, beat Robbins and Phillips 6-4, 6-2, and the No. 3 team of Sarnier and Bach whipped Macklin and Meehan 6-2, 6-1.

UNC, 2-2 in the ACC and 11-10 overall, plays non-conference foe West Virginia today at 2 p.m. on the Hinton James courts.

The Tar Heels will meet Wake Forest Thursday in an ACC encounter. This will be a crucial match, according to Coach Allen Morris.

"Wake Forest is a big one we'd like to have," he said. "If we could go into the ACC Tournament losing only to Clemson, that would be super."

Speer keys win in softball split

By MIKE DESISTI
Staff Writer

It was the afternoon of the sacrifice, not only for the players but for the few spectators who braved the cold to watch the UNC softball team come from behind to take a 7-6 decision from visiting Lenoir-Rhyne.

Pitcher Sharon Speer's ninth-inning sacrifice fly ended four hours of bone-chilling ball for the Tar Heels, who had dropped an earlier 6-5 decision to UNC-Wilmington.

Freshman Dori Kovanen led off the final inning with a single to left, and scored after successive sacrifice flies by second baseman Kay Holt and Speer and a timely error by the Bears. Speer's loop to left center gave her the win and upped Carolina's record to 26-10-1 for the year.

UNC saw extra-inning action in their first game as well, taking UNC-Wilmington the distance before bowing out in the ninth. The Seahawk's Sharon Castleberry knocked in teammate Robin Campbell with a single to left center for the winning run.

UNC-W scored early and often, opening up a five-run lead before the Tar Heels got on the board with two runs in the fourth.

Kathy MacFarlane and Kovanen led off that inning with consecutive singles. MacFarlane scored when first baseman Marsha Brown hit into a fielder's choice. Kovanen advanced to second on the play and came across with run number two when Holt lined a single.

Men's gold stays home while women go north

By STEPHANIE GRAHAM
Staff Writer

The UNC men's and women's golf teams will both be competing again this weekend, but the women travel to Columbus, Ohio. The men stay at home to host the second annual Tar Heel Invitational at Finley Golf Course.

Men's coach Devon Brouse said that he was happy to bring his team back to Chapel Hill after successful appearances in tournaments in Florida, Mexico, Alabama and South Carolina.

"We're excited about the second Tar Heel Invitational," Brouse said. "We will be playing two five-man squads and I'm glad that the people in Chapel Hill can watch the entire team play."

Last year the Tar Heels scored their first tournament victory of the season at Finley, and the team used that momentum to propel them to an ACC championship in the conference tournament the following week.

This year the ACC championship also falls one week after the Tar Heel Invitational.

"It's really a nice thing to have this tournament a week before the ACC's," Brouse said.

Though the Tar Heels have failed to capture a title this spring, the team has played well while finishing in the top 10 in each of its four tournament appearances. These finishes included two second-place showings.

"There have been some bright spots this year," Brouse said. "We've been very consistent, but we haven't played as well as we can. Our consistency has come from a lot of experience and some good senior leadership."

"We've been close several times; we just have not put it all together yet." UNC will have to play well to defend its title this weekend in a field that is substantially improved over last year's field, Brouse said.

The district's top-ranked team, Tennessee, as well as the second-ranked team, N.C. State, will be in Chapel Hill as will other strong squads like Louisiana State and Clemson.

Brouse hopes that the state's cold and blustery weather will clear up before tee time Friday morning for the three-day, 54-hole tourney.

"I'm afraid the weather isn't supposed to be as good as it was last year," he said. "But the course is in good shape, so that won't be a factor."

Weather might be more of a factor when women's coach Dot Gunnells' team journeys to frosty Columbus Friday for the 54-hole Lady Buckeye Invitational.

"We're really looking forward to going up to Ohio State," Gunnells said. "The tournament is played on the Scarlet Golf Course, which is one of the best courses we'll play all season."

The Tar Heels could be seeing the Scarlet Course again this year. The AIAW national tournament will be played in Columbus in June.

The field of 21 teams in this weekend's tournament will be another tough test for a UNC team which has already faced rigorous competition while finishing in the top 10 twice in three tournaments.

Highly-regarded teams traveling to Ohio include Georgia, Kentucky and all of the Big Ten schools. "It's a really good field," Gunnells said.

Though Gunnells is not completely satisfied with the team's performance thus far — UNC is ranked in the nation's Top 10 — she thinks things may be gelling.

"I've been a little bit disappointed," she said, "but we're about to get it together."

If hard work on the practice tee means anything, she could be right.

"We had an intra-squad tournament last week at Finley," Gunnells said. "The girls are all hitting the ball stiff to the pin. I just hope we can keep it up."

Freshman Page Marsh, who carded the team's lowest score two weeks ago in the Lady Paladin Invitational, shot a 69 in that practice session.

Joining Marsh and Mescan in Columbus will be Jill Nesbitt, Cathy Reynolds and Kathy Ayers.

UNC to host Carolina Relays

By TOM BERRY
Staff Writer

Perennial track power Fairleigh-Dickinson heads a field of 38 teams scheduled to compete Saturday afternoon at Fetzer Track in the 20th annual Carolina Relays.

Because the meet is Carolina's only home outdoor track classic this season, some of the region's and nation's top stars will be present. Competition starts at noon with the women's field events. The first running event, the 110-meter high hurdle semifinals, will begin at 12:30.

"Quality-wise, this should turn out to be one of the best meets we've ever had," track coach Hubert West said. "Fairleigh-Dickinson has some of the top collegiate athletes in the country."

The Fairleigh-Dickinson men finished ninth in the recent NCAA indoor track championships. They are led by nationally-ranked steeplechase runner Solomon Chebar of Kenya; Richard Ouma, fourth in the 1982 NCAA indoor half mile; and sprinter Ephraim Serrette, who has a personal best of 10.2 in the 100-meter dash.

Included among the 21 men's teams are Maryland, Delaware, William and Mary, Norfolk State, Old Dominion, Pembroke State, East Carolina, Winston-Salem State, Liberty Baptist, Campbell, St. Augustine's and North Carolina A&T.

Triple jumper David McFadden of Virginia State will be one of the top participants in the field events. He has jumped 54-5 and finished in the top six in the NCAA indoor championships.

Eighteen women's teams will be represented, including Fairleigh-Dickinson, Old Dominion, Villanova, Richmond, James Madison, William and Mary, St.

Augustine's, Virginia State and Hampton Institute.

Candy Young heads a strong Fairleigh-Dickinson women's team. Perhaps the top hurdler in the country, Young will run only in the 400 on Saturday. Other top individuals are sprinter and longjumper Robin Taylor of Old Dominion, Richmond's Jo White, the 1981 AIAW 1000-meter champion, and half-miler Dana Wright of Old Dominion.

UNC will count on solid performances from Chris Mand in the pole vault, Steve Flynn in the shot put, James Harris in the long jump, Bobby Wilson in the high jump, Marquita Brown, Yvette Morehead, Kelly Houk and Lauren Lewis in the hurdles and Lisa Staton in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Assistant track coach Don Lockerbie said the Carolina distance runners would compete in races different from their specialties in order to better prepare for the ACC Championship the following weekend at Charlottesville, Va.

"We are using them to tune up for the ACC meet," Lockerbie said. "Most of the distance runners will be in events shorter than normal to get some speed work in."

Jimmy Cooper, normally a steeplechase runner, will run in the 1500 and Todd McCallister will move down to the 800. McCallister, one of the nation's top 1500-meter runners, welcomes the change of events.

"I've always wanted to do the half mile (800 meters) but I don't do it enough," he said. "I think I could've qualified (for the NCAA nationals) in the half last year if I had run it some more."
