

Harris Incorporated

IM ATHLETES OF THE MONTH

IM MANAGERS OF THE YEAR

The four athletes of the month for April are the official "IM Managers of the Year."
UNC's IM-Rec Program recognizes one person in each of the main competitive divisions, fraternity, residence hall, graduate/independent and women's, for an outstanding job in organizing his/her unit and increasing participation among his/her constituents. The unit manager is a volunteer, often an elected officer, who must be responsible for some 60 teams, and countless number of individual and dual competitors in over 80 activities throughout the year.

John Glass

What do you get when you cross a genetics graduate student with a water basketball supervisor... why, John Glass of course.
Glass, the son of Mr. and Mrs. S.W. Glass Jr. of Greensboro, is both of the above, and he is also the 1982 Graduate/Independent IM Manager of the Year.
The fact that Glass single-handedly organized this year's Co-rec water basketball league, even putting the schedule and rules on a computer program, nor that he helps run the weekly IM hash fun runs, got him this award. Those only get brownie points. The real reason Glass is recognized this year is his ability to instigate and organize a 60 percent participation within his Bacteriology department.
The facts tell it all. His Bacteriology "Samoa Blue" unit entered 17 teams this year, and all the major summer 1981 sports, won summer innertube water polo, fall grad/ind racquetball and the first annual Co-rec Super Teams in October. That 60 percent included 52 different people. A Law Mudshark basketball team can't be claimed, but Samoa's over-all performance and participation are outstanding.
Glass' background includes high school at Greensboro Grimsley High, (track and cross country), 77 BA at UNC in Chemistry/Biology, two-year stint as Avery's IM Manager, three-year IM officiating career, including admission into the Officials Association, and UNC Quiz Bowl Championship Team in '77.
After working for several years in UNC's Bacteriology and Immunology Dept., Glass returned to school this fall to work on his Master's degree in genetics.
Glass calls IM participation one of the best attributes of Carolina life. "I manage to get both the high of sports and the chance to share a cherished fellowship," he said.

Jeff Sargeant

The fraternity IM Manager of the Year is Jeff Sargeant of Chi Phi.
Sargeant, a junior Chem/Econ major from Kinston, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Sargeant.
This 1979 Kinston High graduate is very unique in IM's. It's not just that he is one of the most talented basketball players in North Carolina Intramurals, nor is it that he is the manager of the second-ranked frat in IM's, and not even that he quarterbacked his Chi Phi team to the frat and all campus tag football titles.
No, this man is unique because he is not only talented and successful, but also has consistently displayed one of the finest attitudes in the program, a trait that influences both team mates and competitors in play, and no doubt spreads to his fraternity brothers as well.
Sargeant has a list of sport superlatives that would fill any yearbook, including all tournament in the Kinston Holiday Basketball Classic for a very talented Kinston Viking team, member for two, starter for one in UNC's JV Basketball program, MVP for UNC's Chi Phi Championship team in the '82 Chi Phi Southeastern Basketball tourney, member of the '82 number-one ranked co-rec basketball squad and runner-up in the '82 one-on-one basketball championship.
Sargeant, also the Historian for Chi Phi, has entered some 50 teams this year sharing the manager job with UNC Co-supervisor of Officials Billy Sutton and has played all the major IM sports during his three years here, totalling some 200 games. The reason, he says, is his love for competition.
One can compete hard, win and finish second, too, and show class all the way through—Jeff Sargeant has proven that.

Ross Powell

It just had to go to someone in Teague.
How could you deny the Residence Hall IM Manager of the Year to anyone but a manager from the dorm that has claimed 10 of the last 12 IM residence hall point championships. For the first dozen, Teague wasn't split into A and B as it is now, but splitting them didn't seem to stop the Mamas.
Ross Powell, junior accounting major from Rose Hill, is the manager of Teague A, once again the number one ranked dorm in UNC intramurals. His colleague, Steve Potter of Teague B, would have to be a close second, as his unit is, but to the victor goes the spoils.
Powell, the son of Dr. Hugh M. and Mrs. Virginia H. Powell, was graduated in 1979 from Wallace-Rose Hill High with a basket full of school awards and a couple of golf letters in his pocket. Three years later, he can claim about 27 IM activities to his credit, including this fall's Teague A "Hairless Horsemen" residence hall championship football team.
The typically cocky Teaguer admits loving IM's and Teague, not necessarily in that order.
"By living in Teague and winning IM's, I have joined an elite group of UNC Students who have dominated UNC IM's." The reason Teague wins, he says, is the ability to take the goods and the averages and form a working team. "Often athletes that are not super can work together and maybe pull an upset or two in the playoffs over teams with more talent. That's the ultimate."
So be it, and welcome back Teague.

Linka Schiltz

Phi Mu's Linka Schiltz is the only repeater in this semester's IM Athletes of the Month, having been one of the four recognized for January.
Schiltz, a junior Physical Education major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schiltz of Wrightsville Beach.
Having been a leader in Aycock dorm's IM program, and thus jointly responsible for its success, Schiltz is a leader in an area where leading is tough. Women's participation in IM's is generally low, even lower for greek women. Schiltz' determined and enthusiastic style has increased participation with Phi Mu's IM's, and should help that sorority in its push for the initial sorority point championship.
Schiltz, a Wilmington Hoggard High graduate, has just about played it all in IM's, refereed volleyball, played on UNC's Women's Lacrosse Club, volunteered at the Burn Center and Physical Therapy/Sports Medicine clinic and coached little league girls softball and basketball.
Under her leadership, Phi Mu has been one of the most active sororities in IM's. She has participated in both Sport Days, football, track, basketball, volleyball, softball, soccer and bowling.
"Some women don't realize what IM participation has to offer," she said. "I'm glad my sorority members feel differently."

GENUINE

GENUINE

This Bud's for everyone who keeps cool when the game gets hot.

