as hard as I can" for passage.

On Thursday, ERA supporters also gained another boost when the Legislative Research Commission approved the amendment bill, guaranteeing that ERA at least will be considered by the full General Assembly.

And on Friday, former first lady Betty Ford told about 250 ERA backers at a Durham reception that North Carolina could "break the logjam" of opposition to the amendment.

"By ratifying ERA, North Carolina can tip the other states we need," Ford said. "North Carolina was the first in flight. It can also be the first in support of equal rights for women."

Ford said that another 2-year extension of the deadline for ratification of ERA might be possible if supporters fail to win the necessary approval of three more states. The chances of another extension seem remote, however.

The fact that North Carolina may be the first testing ground for the 1982 push increases the sway that the General Assembly could hold over other states. Victory in this conservative Southern state could mean victory nationally, since the amendment has not been passed by any state since 1977.

This week backers gained another boost when at least one of the 28 solid votes against ERA appeared to be wavering. Sen. J.J. "Monk" Harrington, D-Bertie, one of the most active opponents in the Senate leadership in past fights, said he now was maintaining an "open mind" and might support approval.

Woman released

A young Chapel Hill woman was released unharmed after she was abducted Wednesday morning near Eastgate Shopping Center.

Jenny Burford, 18, of Chapel Hill was forced into a car in Chapel Hill and taken to an unknown location in Carrboro, where she was allowed to call her brother, Mark to say she was all right.

Burford was released shortly after the telephone call.

A Chapel Hill man and woman were being questioned by Chapel Hill police Wednesday in the incident. Police declined to release their names.

ERA, budget up in state house

RALEIGH—The Equal Rights Amendment and the 1983 state budget should dominate the short session of the General Assembly when it convenes June 3.

According to state law, sessions of the General Assembly set for even-numbered years ideally center on consideration of budget matters. But politically urgent proposals, such as ERA, and an increased workload from regular sessions mean that legislators sandwich other business in between debates on spending.

Daniel Long, a staff attorney for the N.C. General Assembly, said any legislative proposal still alive from a previous session could be considered.

Voter registration deadline June 1

Orange County residents have less than a week to register for the June 29th primary election to elect three county commissioners, county sheriff and state senators. Five proposed amendments to the State Constitution will also be on the ballot.

Barbara Strickland, elections supervisor for the Orange County Board of Elections, said Monday that Chapel Hill and Carrboro residents can register to vote through June 1 at either the Chapel Hill Municipal Building on South Columbia Street or the Carrboro Town Hall on West Main Street.

Residents may register between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday and on Tuesday and Thursday from noon to 8 p.m. Strickland said a special Saturday registration will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at University Mall in Chapel Hill and at the Carrboro Town Hall.

Strickland said a new option is available to area residents who wish to participate in the voting but have failed to meet the June 1 deadline. Beginning June 2 and running until June 24 a "one shot" option will be offered, allowing county residents to register and vote at the same time at the Board of Elections office on East Margaret Street in Hillsborough. The Board of Elections office is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Students or residents who have moved may re-register by mail by making a written application to the chairman of the Board of Elections. A voter qualified to vote by absentee ballot may apply for ballots no later than 5:00 p.m. Wednesday before the election.
