

BRIEFLY

WASHINGTON — President Reagan decided Wednesday to propose a "sub-minimum wage" under which businesses could pay teen-agers $2.50 an hour — 85 cents less than the current minimum wage, administration sources said. The lower wage could only be paid for summer jobs.

The proposal, debated and approved at a Cabinet council meeting, is one of several administration initiatives which officials hope will curb high unemployment, according to the sources.

These sources, who insisted on anonymity, said sub-minimum wage jobs would be available to as many as a half-million 16- to 20-year-olds, but only during the summer months. This limitation apparently is designed to head off stiff opposition by congressional Democrats and organized labor.

The current minimum wage, for adults and teenagers both, is $3.35 an hour.

Wednesday and sponsors predicted approval without major revision.

The bill would consolidate existing laws on alcohol-related traffic offenses, raise the legal drinking age for beer and wine from 18 to 19 and make tavern and bar operators civilly liable for damages in automobile accidents caused by drunken drivers or under-age drinkers they had served.

Driving under the influence and lesser charges, such as careless and reckless driving after drinking, would be rewritten into a single driving while impaired offense.

WASHINGTON — Eugene V. Rostow, director of the embattled U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, resigned Wednesday under pressure from the White House and a small group of conservative Republican senators.

Congressional sources said President Reagan would nominate Kenneth Adelman, deputy to U.N. ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, to take Rostow's place.

The resignation, third by a major administration official in two weeks, came amid mounting confusion about Reagan's objectives in ongoing arms control negotiations with the Soviet Union and sometimes conflicting stands by Rostow and other principal officials.

At the same time, one of Rostow's top negotiators, Richard Staar, also was stepping down, according to the congressional sources, who asked not to be named. Staar, based in Vienna, was in charge of negotiations to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact ground forces in Europe.

WASHINGTON — President Reagan plans to ask Congress in his State of the Union Message to overhaul and simplify the federal income tax code by lowering rates and narrowing deductions, administration sources said Wednesday.

The proposal, described by one official as long-term "major tax reform," is expected to be one of the major themes of the address Reagan will make to a joint session of Congress on Jan. 25, according to the sources, who did not want their names used.

The officials said Reagan has no specific plan in mind, preferring instead to develop some firm proposals with Congress. But they said the thrust of his thinking is along the lines of proposals that have become known as "flat-rate" income tax plans.

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday he will appoint former state Sen. Henry Frye to the North Carolina Supreme Court, making him the first black to sit on the state's highest court.

Frye, 50, a Democrat from Guilford County, will take office Feb. 1, when Associate Justice J. Phil Carlton steps down.

Carlton said Tuesday that he would resign at the end of this month after 13 years on the bench so that he can go into private law practice.

For the record

In the Chapel Hill Town Council story, "Town development ordinance revised after council wades through proposals" (DTH, Jan. 12), the Daily Tar Heel incorrectly reported that council member Bev Kawalec sponsored an amendment to the development ordinance concerning the procedures used to notify grievance applicants. Kawalec sponsored an amendment regarding earth stations. The DTH regrets the error.

some committee members said later that the referendum initiated the special meeting.

Finance Committee member "Doc" Droze (District 22) — who previously had voted down concert financing — said the petition signers' enthusiastic response changed his mind about the concert's feasibility.

The referendum was not a pressure tactic, but it "speeded up the process," Droze said after the meeting.

But Finance Committee member Kim Cottle (District 14) questioned the validity of the petition as an indicator of overall student support for the concert.

"They did it (collected student signatures) at drop-again, when everyone was all lined up," she said. "I don't know if that's a legitimate (mandate)."

And Finance Committee Chairperson Charlie Madison (District 23) said the referendum influenced him negatively about passing the proposal.

"I would have felt better about discussing it if there hadn't been a petition," he said after the meeting. "It throws a shadow on our decision." The committee was going to reconsider the concert proposal anyway, he said.

But Finance Committee member Mark Martin (District 15) said after the meeting that the referendum was very important in the committee's reconsideration of the bill.

"It wouldn't even have come up again," he said.

Martin, a long-time proponent of the concert, told the committee that it was lucky to get a chance to approve the proposal.

"At least this way we're getting Article Five," he said. Article Five of the bill gives the CCG the power to cancel the concert at a later date. "If it goes to the students, they (the Spring Concert Committee) have full control.

Happy Late 21st, Allison.

Sorry, gang: No 'Peanuts' today

Because of mail delivery problems, the DTH had not received Peanuts by press time. But stay tuned. Snoopy, Charlie and all their friends will return soon.

Because of a proofreading error, the announcement titled "New class offered" (Wednesday, Jan. 11) incorrectly reported that Romanian 101 will be offered this summer. In fact, the unlisted course will be offered this semester. The class requires a prerequisite of Latin or another romance language, and will focus on the history, culture and language of Romania. Time and place for the weekly three-hour class will be announced. Interested students should contact Professor Augustin Maissen in 328 Dey Hall. The DTH regrets the error.

ing by the Town Council and the Board of Aldermen scheduled for Jan. 31.

"I think there are some things that need some work," she said of the plan. "If controversial parts of the plan are adopted, I think it's important to take citizen concerns into consideration and to minimize them," Boulton added.

The current thoroughfare plan is not the first attempt to update the 1965 proposal. A computer plan developed in 1978 from a N.C. Department of Transportation study contained several controversial proposals and was dropped in favor of developing an alternative plan.

Will Denning, planner for the city of Carrboro, said his staff had confidence in the data that was used to develop the new plan and named several reasons why the new plan might be more acceptable than the 1978 proposal.

"The new plan makes better use of existing roads, the cost is not as high and most important, it will do the job."

Pleasant said the new plan takes into account all modes of transportation including the transit system, bicycles and walking.
