Lawmakers say budget may be overly optimistic

RALEIGH - A legislative budget leader warned Thursday that Gov, Jim Hunt's 1983-85 state budget may be based on overly optimistic revenue estimates.

Sen. Robert Jordan, D-Montgomery, refused to disclose details of the budget but said Hunt's revenue estimates may be higher than those of legislative analysts.

"We have a commitment to adopt a realistic budget, one that's balanced and yet will provide money for programs we must have," said Jordan, chairman of the Senate Base Budget Committee, after meeting with the joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee.

He said lawmakers should remember that sharp spending cuts were required this vear because revenues fell short of budgeted amounts.

Hunt will deliver his budget and a written message to legislators Tuesday. But last week, in a speech to school superintendents and local board chairmen, Hunt said his budget was based on "estimates that are responsible and as accurate as we can be at this time."

Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, chairman of the House Base Budget Committee, told lawmakers that $100 million for lifting a freeze on state employees' and teachers' pay would be considered separately.

In other action Thursday: The House approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would make Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, Jan. 15, a state holiday. It would not be a paid holiday for state workers and schools would not be closed.

State Sen. George Marion, D-Surry, introduced a bill that would raise the tax on liquor and wine by one-third and the tax on beer by 50 percent.

Hunt spokesman Brent Hackney said the governor supports an increase in the alcohol tax but has not considered Marion's bill.

KIRYAT SEMONA, Israel -Following pressure from President Reagan, Israel and Lebanon broke a three-week deadlock Thursday and agreed to negotiate simultaneously on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Lebanon and future relations between Israel and Lebanon.

Despite agreement on a compromise agenda giving priority to neither issue. the two governments made clear that in the negotiations each would put its primary concern first.

Lebanese officials in Beirut-said when the Israeli, Lebanese and American negotiators get down to business at their next meeting Monday, their delegation would propose a comprehensive plan for withdrawal of all Israeli troops from Lebanon.

Through four semi-weekly meetings in this northern Israeli town and the south Beirut suburb of Khalde, the Israelis insisted that the negotiators first agree on normalization of relations between the two nations, while the Lebanese demanded priority for withdrawal of the estimated 60,000 Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian troops.

WASHINGTON - Some 550,000 Americans applied for unemployment benefits in the last week of 1982, a spurt of 35,000 over the previous week and a reversal of the short decline that had heartened some economists.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that for the first time in five weeks, there also was a rise in the insured unemployment rate - the proportion of the 111 million-member U.S. labor force drawing jobless relief checks. It climbed from 4.9 percent to 5.0 percent in the week ending Jan. 1.

Some private economists had cited a trend of declining applications for unemployment benefits in recent weeks as signaling a peaking of joblessness, which stood at 10.8 percent in December, the highest since 1940.

UNITED NATIONS — The United Nations would be happy to provide the necessary "shelter" for a U.S.-Soviet summit, Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said on the eve of his meeting with President Reagan today.

In Washington, a White House official speaking anonymously said the offer was premature since no such meeting is in sight. The first thing to decide is whether to hold a summit, not where it should be, the official said. "You would give thought where both sides would like it to be held."

Perez de Cuellar's invitation will be received, however, "in the positive spirit in which he offered it," the official add-

WASHINGTON - A top Pentagon official concerned with nuclear matters said Thursday "there is a very small chance" that hazardous nuclear fuel aboard a tumbling Soviet spy satellite "would survive intact to the surface" of

According to Dr. Richard Wagner of the Defense Department, the parts of the satellite still aloft are now about 130 miles above the earth and slowing down. He described as "unpredictable" the time and place where the remains of the satellite will reach earth. He held to a prediction made previously by the Defense Department that this will occur probably in the last days of the month.

Echoing an assessment given by the State Department last week, he said there is a 70 percent chance that the remains of the satellite will come down over water.

NEW YORK - While death rates for most major cancers level off or decline, lung cancer is running "spectacularly counter to trend" and will kill 117,000 Americans this year - 6,000 more than last year, the American Cancer Society reported Thursday.

In its projections for 1983, the society said lung cancer's "relentless rise" would produce an estimated 135,000 new cases this year.

Cigarette smoking causes more than 75 percent of all lung cancer deaths, the report said - 83 percent among men and 43 percent among women. While the Cancer Society noted that the number of smokers is declining, it said government statistics indicate the people still smoking are smoking more heavily.
