

Computer science requirement proposed

Staff and Wire Reports

A member of the UNC Board of Governors Friday proposed mandatory computer science courses in North Carolina's public universities.

Walter Davis, of Midland, Texas, told the board there was a need for computer literacy among university students even if it meant cutting back on other programs.

Davis said there were only 50,000 graduates available last year for more than 150,000 computer related jobs. "If we don't educate our university students to speak the language of the computer, we're going to be making a big mistake," Davis told the board.

Davis cited Japanese technology as a reason for students to become familiar with computers, said University secretary John P. Kennedy. The Japanese could do so much with so few employees; American students need computer literacy in order to keep up with them, he said.

There is a generation of people going through UNC who need to be able to use computers, Kennedy said.

Davis made a strong plea for computer literacy, submitting a detailed memorandum to each board member. His proposal was referred to the board's Committee on Educational Planning, Programs and Policies. Davis also submitted the plan to each member of the State Senate Thursday.

Kennedy said requirements for computer science courses would have to differ among the different majors. "Computer literacy for someone in German is different from someone in forestry," he said.

Raymond Dawson, UNC vice president for academic affairs, agreed that requirements for the program would have to vary widely. He also said the computers, terminals and faculty needed for the plan would cost a lot of money.

Davis said the era of communication and information was fast replacing the industrial era and students needed to be prepared.

Kennedy said Davis cited Research Triangle Park as an example of foresight. "Governor (Luther) Hodges saw the need for a research area near the University and jumped ahead," Kennedy said. "Now it's computers; let's get ready for that."

In other action Friday: UNC system President William C. Friday said he would make a thorough study before recommending a final candidate for North Carolina Central University chancellor. He received the names of the two finalists recommended by the NCCU board of trustees on Friday.

Friday also reported on the work of the commission on the future of North Carolina. The commission will make its final report next month on meeting the needs of the state through the year 2000.

He said that by the year 2000 the state's population will have grown from 5.9 million to 7.2 million and the percentage of people over 65 years old from 10 to 13 percent.

The board was briefed on a report to the commission by the N.C. Cooperative Planning Consortium of Special Education Programs. Since 1975, the number of colleges offering programs in special education has increased from nine to 25. The number of public school students served by special programs increased from 127,828 in 1975 to 171,009 in 1981.

Critics want harsher action Sharon resigns as Israeli defense minister

The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — The Israeli Cabinet on Sunday accepted Ariel Sharon's resignation as defense minister but retained him as a minister without portfolio, prompting opposition charges that the decision defied the Beirut massacre commission's recommendations.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin will take over the Defense Ministry temporarily after Israel's Parliament, the Knesset, approves the reshuffle Monday or Tuesday, Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor announced.

Cabinet ministers belonging to the factions in Begin's ruling coalition said that keeping Sharon in the Cabinet avoided the need for early elections.

But opposition parties protested that the reshuffle of portfolios disregarded the inquiry commission's intention that Sharon leave the Cabinet. The small Communist Party submitted a no-confidence motion to be debated this week, but the government is expected to defeat it.

The Labor Party, the largest opposition group, said it might organize public demonstrations to put "moral pressure" on the government to fire Sharon.

The inquiry commission charged Sharon with personal responsibility for failing to foresee a massacre when he ordered Lebanese Christian militiamen to mop up Palestinian resistance in Beirut's Sabra and Chatilla refugee camps last Sept. 16-18. It suggested he resign or be fired.

Sharon gave Begin his resignation after the Cabinet decided last week, after three emergency meetings, to adopt all the recommendations of the Kahan Commission, named after Supreme Court President Yitzhak Kahan who headed the four-month investigation.

Sharon's resignation letter said he would comply with the decision, but added, "I have no intention to resign from the government and I intend to serve as a minister."

Cabinet ministers said Begin wanted to replace Sharon with Moshe Arens, Israel's ambassador in Washington, but needed time to arrange this transition with his coalition partners.

The Liberal Party, a faction of Begin's Likud bloc, lost one minister when Yitzhak Berman quit over Begin's hesitation to appoint the inquiry, and Arens' entry into the Cabinet would further upset the balance by giving the dominant Herut Party another seat.

The Cabinet now has 19 ministers: eight from Herut, five Liberals and six from other parties in the coalition.

Sharon's resignation was a paralyzing setback to the career of the flamboyant general. But he has bounced back before when he was passed over for jobs as chief of staff and as defense minister, and aides say Sharon still wants Israel's top job once Begin retires.

"Those who didn't want Sharon as chief of staff had to live with him as defense minister. Those who didn't want him as defense minister will have to live with him as prime minister," Sharon's spokesman Uri Dan told reporters.

RALEIGH — A Navy plan to dump more than 100 decommissioned nuclear submarines off North Carolina's coast faces widespread opposition as public hearings on the plan begin today.

An announcement Friday by the state government opposing the plan is the latest in a string of denunciations from state and national organizations.

The Navy is conducting the hearings to get public reaction on a draft environmental impact statement for land and sea disposal of subs. The Navy admits that radioactive atoms will enter the environment as the submarines corrode and rust flakes.

No question about this Valentine's Day diagnosis — the patient is in love.

Recent medical literature indicates people are healthier when they're in love, says Susan Delaney, staff psychiatrist at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan.

Levels of lactic acid in the blood drop, making the person less tired, and endorphins, which produce a natural high or sense of well-being, increase, Delaney said.

WASHINGTON — John W. Hinckley Jr., found innocent by reason of insanity of shooting President Reagan, was hospitalized in serious condition Sunday after an apparent suicide attempt, authorities said.

Hinckley, connected to a respirator, may be in danger of dying, but "he is stable and we believe he'll be all right," said Dr. James Levy, president of Greater Southeast Community Hospital, where Hinckley was taken. "We will not be able to tell you for certain for the next 24 to 48 hours whether he's out of the woods."

The incident was at least the third apparent suicide attempt by Hinckley since he shot and wounded the president and three other men outside the Washington Hilton Hotel in March 1981.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — A day-long search of cold seas off the Virginia coast on Sunday turned up no sign of nine crew members missing after a collie loaded with 27,000 tons of coal capsized and sank during a gale, killing at least 24 people.

A spokesman said the search, which had continued non-stop since the Marine Electric began sinking early Saturday, would be resumed only if there were some unforeseen development.

DALLAS — Rep. Phil Gramm, who quit the House after fellow Democrats ousted him from a budget panel, says the special election victory that sends him to Washington as a Republican gave him his "strongest mandate" ever.

Gramm, a supporter of President Reagan's economic policies, said in a tele-

Solidarity forces protest outside Warsaw church

The Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — Several hundred police, lobbing tear gas grenades and flailing rubber batons, dispersed more than 2,000 people demonstrating Sunday night outside a church for the outlawed Solidarity labor union. It was the largest protest demonstration in Poland in three months.

Between 200 and 300 police moved into position outside Holy Cross Church in downtown Warsaw as a commemorative Mass ended for Solidarity members who had been interned after martial law was imposed Dec. 13, 1981.

A crowd estimated at between 2,000 and 3,000 moved into the street, singing pro-Solidarity songs and chanting "Down with the junta!" and "Leszek! Leszek!" the nickname of Solidarity union chief Lech Walesa.

Police fired about four tear gas canisters at the crowd and then attacked with long riot batons, chasing small groups through the downtown streets.

Western reporters saw police detain about a half dozen people.

The crowd had formed earlier outside nearby St. Joseph's Church after a similar commemorative Mass. The people left peacefully, but moved over to Holy Cross Church.

Though internment of Solidarity members ended with the suspension of martial law late last year, thousands of Solidarity supporters have been jailed or fired from their jobs. Masses still are held in most cities in this predominantly Roman Catholic country on the 13th of every month to mark the martial law decree.

The protest was the largest of its kind since Nov. 10 demonstrations marking the second anniversary of a court decision validating the charter of Solidarity, formed during strikes in the Baltic port of Gdansk in August 1980.

Meanwhile, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, in his first sermon since becoming a cardinal 11 days ago, defended himself against criticism that he has taken too moderate a stance toward the communist government.

"Some people say the primate should be more militant, should be sharper" in dealing with authorities, he said in a sermon at St. Andrew's Church, also in downtown Warsaw.

"Everyone wants the hierarchy, the episcopate, to carry out their programs, but the church must be faithful to the program outlined in the Gospel," he added.

Glemp, 54, was elevated to cardinal by Polish-born Pope John Paul II in Vatican ceremonies Feb. 2.

A new sign-up system is in effect for interviews with employers visiting campus after February 11. Students must hand in a Student Priority List by Wednesday noon indicating the employers with whom they wish to interview 12-16 days later. They must then check back with CPPS to learn if they have been selected to interview with the employers in whom they have interest. If so, they must sign-up for a time slot on the interview schedule. A resume is necessary at the time of sign-up. Details on the new system and Student Priority List forms are available in 211 Hanes.

THIS IS MY RESPONSE to all of the complaints and objections to the PLAYBOY ad that run 2/8/83 and 2/11/83 in the DTH. Because I'm on staff (business) of the DTH, my letter could not run (editorial discretion) so I'm taking up classified space.

Where are all of the people that are always screaming about personal freedom? Personally I don't believe in abortion and abortion ads and promotions assault me. However, I don't run around yelling that the DTH shouldn't run these type of ads. I figure that if you choose abortion that's your own decision. I'm not for you and your baby, but that's your right and it's not my business to tell you what's right for me is right for you. The same thinking applies to the Playboy ads. Not everyone finds Playboy (or other similar publications) offensive. A great deal of people enjoy these magazines and respond to these ads favorably. Again, what's right for you may not be what's right for them. If you find magazines like this offensive, don't read them. Requesting that the DTH not run these ads is stepping all over my right to read these ads and judge for myself. Do you really have the right to do that? Would you like me to do a similar thing to you?
