El Salvadoran Romero honored

By LYNDA WOLF CARRIE SZYMECZEK Staff Writers

About 30 people gathered in the Pit Tuesday afternoon to hear speeches on the late El Salvadoran Archbishop Oscar Romero and Martin Luther King Jr. The speeches were sponsored by the Carolina Committee for Justice in Central America and are part of events to commemorate today's anniversary of the death of Richard McGough, speaker from the Carolina Committee for Justice in Central America, spoke against U.S. intervention in El Salvador. U.S. troops and money sent to El Salvador to help stabilize the Salvadoran regime are not justified, McGough said.

"The new elections needed to stabilize the regime will never be held," he said. McGough said he wanted to emphasize Romero's dedication and sense of self-sacrifice.

Marty Nathan, a representative from the Greensboro Justice Fund, spoke on terrorism and political violence. Nathan said that Romero and King were alike because they both wanted peace, equality and the right to determine one's own life.

The ultimate political violence is the buildup of a nuclear weapons arsenal, but the most feared political violence is political assassination because "it is conscious, conspiring, conceived and carried out," Nathan said. She said that like Romero, King was killed by the government.

Marion Blackburn, a representative from the Public Interest Research Group, was the final speaker. Blackburn also emphasized the correlation between Romero and King.

"Romero and King both wanted to secure basic human rights for oppressed people in society," Blackburn said. Fear of real change led to the assassination of Romero and King, she said. Developing nations must be free to choose their own form of government, and the United States should not be involved because the United States supports oppressive governments, Blackburn said.

In order to draw students and community members closer to the struggle of the Salvadorans, three Chapel Hill organizations will sponsor a memorial service and candlelight procession today. The Carolina Committee for Justice in Central America, the Carolina Interfaith Task Force on Central America and the Committee on Medical Aid to Central America are combining efforts to sponsor the events.

Both Jeff Boyer of CITCA and McGough of Carolina Committee for Justice in Central America said that students and community members are linked to the events in El Salvador and should show an interest in U.S. involvement there.

Boyer said Chapel Hill residents need to be concerned about U.S. involvement in El Salvador because the United States "is involved in a situation that keeps the killing going."

He said that drawing attention to Romero's death by commemoration will emphasize the link between the killings in El Salvador and U.S. involvement.

Today's commemorative events include a daylong watch in front of the Franklin Street Post Office. Literature and black arm bands will be provided to promote public observance of the death

At 5:15 p.m., a memorial service will be held at the Newman Center on Pittsboro Street, followed by a 7 p.m. candlelight procession to the Franklin Street Post Office, where a silent vigil will

After the vigil, short statements will be given by resident Central Americans and representatives of the sponsoring organiza-

WASHINGTON - Democratic leaders predicted victory Wednesday as the House moved toward a showdown on a 1984 budget that scales back President Reagan's Pentagon buildup, raises taxes by $30 billion and restores about $33 billion in proposed domestic spending

"We're going to pass it," House Democratic Whip Thomas Foley of Washington told reporters. House Republican Leader Bob Michel of Illinois, struggling to defeat the plan, conceded, "I can't be all that optimistic."

Overall, the Democratic plan calls for spending $863.4 billion and leaves a deficit of $174.5 billion, $4.7 billion less than the red ink in Reagan's own budget, unpopular with Republicans as well as Democrats.

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Wednesday to scuttle a major provision of a Social Security rescue plan, agreeing to delay forcing new federal workers to pay into the retirement system.

By a voice vote, the Senate agreed to an amendment by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., to postpone mandatory coverage for federal workers until Congress approves a supplementary pension plan for civil servants.

樓

The amendment was agreed to after Republican leaders failed on a 50-45 vote to dilute Long's amendment.

The issue was virtually the last thing standing in the way of passage of the $165 billion rescue plan for the troubled Social Security system. The package includes higher payroll taxes, a curb on benefits and an increased retirement age.

Once the Senate has approved the package, it will be sent to congressional negotiators, who will work out the differences with a version passed by the House March 9.

WASHINGTON — President Reagan said Wednesday night the United States will begin work on a futuristic defense system which could destroy Soviet missiles in flight and render "these nuclear weapons impotent and obsolete."

The plan, announced in a nationally broadcast speech from the Oval Office, foreshadows a major departure from three decades of strategy calling for deterring nuclear warfare with the promise of massive retaliation.

Reagan said it could be the turn of the century before such defensive weapons could be produced. Apparently, his plan envisions laser and particle-beam technology which currently exists more in theory than fact.

"Would it not be better to save lives than to avenge them?" Reagan said. He said that after consulting with the Joints Chiefs of Staff and other advisors, "I believe there is a better way ... that we embark on a program to counter the awesome Soviet missile threat with measures that are defensive."

SALT LAKE CITY — Barney Clark was placed back in intensive care and his condition was downgraded from fair to critical after he suffered a mysterious crisis Wednesday when the amount of blood pumped by his artificial heart dropped suddenly.

The change in Clark's condition was announced by Dr. Chase Peterson at an evening news conference. Clark, 62, had been in a private room and in fair condition for weeks.

"What we are dealing with then is a very sick person," Peterson said, who is suffering from at least four major prob-

Peterson said Clark, who had been upgraded from serious to fair condition Feb. 14 and placed in a private room since Feb. 24, suffered an abrupt drop in his cardiac output at 12:15 p.m. MST.
