

BRIEFLY

From Associated Press Reports

WASHINGTON — The Education Department said Monday it is extending until Sept. a grace period for male college students to sign forms certifying they have registered for the draft before they can obtain federal grants or loans.

Congress passed a law last year requiring the 2½ million male student-aid recipients to sign such compliance forms. It took effect in July after the Supreme Court lifted a federal judge's injunction.

The Education Department last month, when it was still uncertain whether the law would take effect announced that it would give students until August to sign the compliance forms. On Monday the agency said it was extending the grace period until Sept.

"This takes a little pressure off the financial aid offices," said Duncan Helmrich, a department spokesman. He said the colleges can begin processing or paying out the students' loans or grants, but the students must sign and return the compliance forms by Sept. or whenever their next aid installment is due after that date.

TOKYO — Former President Carter said today that the use of his confidential debate briefing books by Ronald Reagan's campaign staffers in 1980 was "not the kind of issue that will prevent Mr. Reagan from running for reelection, nor should it be."

Interviewed by a Japan Broadcasting Corp. reporter, Carter was asked, "Do you know who the mole in the White House was?"

He laughed and replied, "No, but I'll be interested in finding out."

Carter said he accepts President Reagan's statement that he did not personally have access to Carter's briefing book for the debate that preceded Reagan's election victory over Carter.

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Richard Pryor, who nearly died of burns three years ago cracked jokes as he helped evacuate a nightclub when fire swept through an adjacent vacant building owned by singer Rod Stewart.

"Mr. Pryor was very calm and very relaxed and was being very funny," said Lily Mariye, who helps "run the floor" at the Comedy Store nightclub. Pryor's routine there was cut short just after midnight Sunday when firefighters asked that the club be evacuated.

Pryor spent six weeks at the Sherman Oaks Community Hospital Burn Center after setting himself afire at his Northridge home on June 9, 1980. He said the accident followed a drug and alcohol binge, and that he has since sworn off liquor and drugs.

"He just very calmly asked everyone to leave," Ms. Mariye said. "Then the piano player started playing sort of soft, tinkly exit music and he and Pryor started improvising a song about how we were all going to burn up."

RALEIGH — The PCB landfill, where hundreds of protesters were arrested last year, is complete and the landfill has been accepted by the state, state officials said Monday.

"A final inspection of the landfill was made by state officials Friday," said William M.

Phillips, assistant to the secretary of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety. "We are satisfied that the landfill is working as planned and that it will protect the citizens and environment of the area."

Protesters claimed the PCB, which causes cancer in laboratory animals, was placed in Warren County because the area has a large proportion of blacks and little political clout.

SPACE CENTER, Houston — "I recognize that I'm the guy who's setting the pace for the people who fly behind me," says the first black astronaut scheduled for a space shuttle mission. "I just don't feel I have to be perfect as well."

Guion S. Bluford, an Air Force lieutenant colonel with 44 Vietnam combat missions on his record, says he understands the attention focused on him for the space flight he takes next month "but I also anticipate that this will become more routine that one day there won't be as much attention paid to it."

The eighth space shuttle flight, with Bluford and four crewmates, is tentatively scheduled to begin Aug. 20. It will be the first nighttime shuttle launch and landing.
