

Shuttle has first night launch, landing

The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The Challenger astronauts, awed and delighted as any Earth-tied spectator by their night ride into the sky, faced the major money-making task of their mission today, launching a satellite that will beam telephone calls and television across a million square miles of India.

The launching, like everything else on this eighth shuttle mission, was to take place while most of America was asleep. For the astronauts, who see a sunrise or sunset every 45 minutes, it was one of the first items on Day 2 of their six-day flight.

"Just generally, a great time is being had by all," commander Richard Truly said Tuesday as the astronauts were preparing for bed. At Mission Control, in Houston, it was only midday.

By then, mission specialists Dale Gardner and Guion Bluford were well along in a living-cell separation experiment that holds the promise of new treatment for diabetics. Bluford is the first black American in space, a fact that President Reagan said, "We acknowledge proudly."

Challenger was 17 minutes late getting off the ground early Tuesday because the launch area had been buffeted by thunder, lightning and rain. The storm cleared out in the nick of time; officials already were prepared to postpone the liftoff by at least a day.

The shuttle brought a temporary down to the Kennedy Space Center four hours early as its twin rockets burned with light that rivaled the sun. The sound of 6.5 million pounds of thrust made the ground quake.

Truly described the ride to orbit as "driving through a fog bank." Pilot Dan Brandenstein said the light from the rocket boosters made them feel as if they were inside a bonfire. And Gardner thought "it looked like we were totally enveloped in a ball of flame."

Gardner said that from what Truly said and what he's heard from other shuttle astronauts, this first night launch of a shuttle was "a whole different ball game, but it was fun."

Because of the bad weather, the ascent was not seen from as far away as predicted, although the flame was visible as a small red-orange glow in Miami, 200 miles south. Even at the launch pad the flame was in view for less than three minutes.

The fifth crewman aboard Challenger is Dr. William Thornton, whose job it is to continue research into the space sickness that has afflicted nearly one of every two shuttle astronauts. The 54-year-old physician, the oldest American ever to go into space, set right to work, conducting tests on himself and fellow crewmen.

A television picture showed Thornton floating through an opening off the mid-deck, and Truly joked: "There goes Dr. Bill into his office."

Because of the celestial geometry involved, the satellite called Insat had to be deployed precisely at 3:49 a.m. EDT. That made a night launch necessary, and also set up the shuttle's first night landing, early Monday at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — U.S. special envoy Richard Stone, who held a secret 90-minute meeting with two leaders of El Salvador's rebel movement Monday, might continue the talks Tuesday, a source close to the meeting said.

The Monday meeting was Stone's second encounter with Salvadoran leftist leaders. El Salvador's Peace Commission also met with rebel representatives Monday, in the first such effort between government officials and leftists since the civil war began 46 months ago.

The stepped-up efforts by all parties to sit down together followed a statement Sunday broadcast over the guerrillas' Radio Venceremos saying they were willing to negotiate a settlement to the conflict that has claimed more than 43,000 lives.

RALEIGH — Doctors removed Gov. Jim Hunt's gallbladder during a 45-minute operation Tuesday and said they may have a hard time keeping him calm while he recovers.

Hunt's doctors said at a news conference that the 46-year-old, two-term governor would remain in Wake County Medical Center for about a week and then be asked to take another three weeks off for rest and recuperation.

But Dr. Larry Tyree, the governor's personal physician, acknowledged that it will be difficult to keep Hunt from resuming some activities. He said Hunt was recovering in good condition.

Gary Pearce, the governor's press secretary, said Hunt had brought a stack of paperwork to the hospital with him.

ASHEVILLE — Former Superior Court Judge Lacy Thornburg says he's thinking about dropping out of the governor's race and instead running for state attorney general.

Thornburg, a Democrat, said Monday he had been urged by his friends and political allies to make the change. He said he would announce his decision within the next 10 days.

"Everywhere I've gone in the past few days, an overwhelming number of friends and supporters have told me that I belong in public service and that I would be the leading candidate in the attorney general's race," Thornburg said.

Thornburg, who resigned his judgeship in February to become the first candidate to announce for governor, would face a considerably smaller field with a switch in races.

NEW BERN — A federal prosecutor says that Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green could not be charged with crimes alleged by a former employee because a five-year statute of limitations has expired.

Assistant U.S. Attorney J. Douglas McCullough said Monday that tobacco fraud and other crimes that Sandy White Jr. linked to Green in statements to federal agents occurred too long ago for prosecution.

UNC choir auditions may be arranged

Students who missed last week's auditions for the UNC choirs may still arrange for an audition this week. Dr. Larry Cook announced yesterday. Cook is director of choral activities in the UNC department of music.

Cook said that new student response to the auditions was exceptionally good this year, but some openings still remain in the Carolina Choir and the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs.

The Glee Clubs rehearse separately two days a week and combine for two other weekly rehearsals. The Glee Clubs will be featured in a Christmas Concert Dec. 4.

The Carolina Choir, a mixed chorus, meets for four rehearsals a week. The choir will perform works by Schutz, Brahms, Ives, Copland and Vaughan Williams on a Nov. 20 concert. Other choir activities include a concert at the University of Virginia Oct. 15 and three April performances of the Verdi Requiem with the North Carolina Symphony.

To arrange for an audition, students should see Cook in 106 Person Hall or call 962-1093. Students may also contact Michael Tamte-Horan in 225 Hill Hall regarding auditions. No preparation is necessary.
