Marines expected to stay in Beirut

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Legislation authorizing U.S. Marines to remain in Lebanon is expected to be introduced in the Senate next week and win ready approval, as lawmakers demand more of a voice in the administration's commitment of troops, but show little inclination to curb it.

Sources said Reagan administration officials indicated at a White House meeting with congressional leaders Sunday that they welcome such a measure. So far, however, the administration has refrained from offering its own bill in order to avoid a confrontation over the War Powers Act, another source close to the GOP leadership said.

That act, passed in 1973, requires the president to notify Congress whenever troops equipped for combat are sent abroad and sets time limits on troop deployment without congressional approval.

The White House meeting took place before Tuesday's shelling attack in Beirut that killed two U.S. Marines, raising the number of U.S. combat dead to four since the Marines were sent to Lebanon as part of a 5,400-man peacekeeping force 11

The sources, who spoke on condition that they remain anonymous, said the rising death toll could stiffen congressional resistance to keeping the troops in position in and around Beirut.

So far, however, few in either the House or Senate have followed the lead of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in demanding withdrawal of the 1,200 Marines.

"I don't think there is a sentiment to pull them out," an aide to an influential Democrat in the House said. "The only caveat I would add is that the guys (congressmen) will be coming back from their districts and the death of the Marines over the last few days may have changed public opinion on that question."

Pressure for a congressional vote on troop presence in Lebanon had been mounting even before the recent Marine deaths. Some members claimed that continues deployment of Marines there is a violation of the War Powers Act.

Republican sources in the GOP-controlled Senate also said they detected little support for pulling the troops out, and it was uncertain whether the latest killings would increase such

The sources said they did not know who will introduce the legislation, which they said would specifically authorize the troops to remain. Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Charles Percy, R-Ill., is known to favor that kind of measure and is a likely candidate to offer the bill.

The sources said amendments might be offered putting restrictions on the use of the troops, and the administration was hoping to stifle those kinds of limitations.

Under the War Powers Act, when troops are sent into actual or threatened hostilities, the president is required to report to Congress within 48 hours.

One section of the act requires congressional approval for the troops to stay longer than 60 days. The president may obtain a 30-day extension beyond the 60-day limit to allow time for safe withdrawal.

Probable cause hearing held

Evidence found to try student on burglary charge

Sufficient evidence to hold a trial on a first-degree burglary charge against Danny Nathan Allison, a 22-year-old UNC student, was found at a hearing Wednesday in Chapel Hill District Court.

Allison is being held in the Orange County Jail in Hillsborough on $35,000 bond. He is charged with committing five sexual assaults, one felonious breaking and entering, seven first-degree burglaries and three larcenies which occurred during the period from March 5 to Aug. 6.

All of the incidents occurred in the residence hall rooms or apartments of UNC women students.

His attorney, Orange County public defender Robert Mahler, said he expects a grand jury to indict his client Monday morning on all of those charges and send the case to trial.

At the hearing Wednesday, Tammie Griffin, a UNC senior art major, testified that she struggled with an assailant for about two minutes in the early morning of June 14 after he had broken into her Foxcroft apartment.

Lt. Arthur Summey, who investigated the case, testified that after Allison was arrested on Aug. 6 in connection with a break-in at Foxcroft Apartments, he and other detectives found the address of Griffin, who said she had never met Allison, in Allison's wallet. A search of Allison's Northampton Plaza apartment produced twine, tape and two air pellet guns, Summey said.

The materials were used in several of the incidents, Assistant District Attorney Ellen Scoutin said.

SAN VICENTE, El Salvador — Military commanders briefed Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger on their Vietnam-style "pacification" strategy of driving out guerrillas and resettling the land. He told peasant refugees Wednesday there will be more U.S. aid to help them get a new start.

A firefight between leftist guerrillas and an army patrol broke out six miles away a few minutes after Weinberger left by helicopter for the battleship New Jersey as part of his tour of U.S. military installations in Central America.

Col. Dionisio Hernandez, the army commander for San Vicente province, said he had no reports of casualties in the skirmish in the village of Chilillo, which did not affect Weinberger's departure.

After the visit to the New Jersey one of about 40 U.S. Navy vessels deployed off Central America's east and west coasts - Weinberger and his party were to visit Honduras, where thousands of American and Honduran troops are conducting land exercises.

Strikes by more than 11,000 teachers in seven states Wednesday disrupted classes for 222,000 students. The largest walkout was in St. Louis, where 3,400 teachers and 1,100 other workers seeking higher pay crippled the city's voluntary desegregation plan.

But most schools opened for fall term, and thousands of teachers worked without contracts rather than strike. That continued a pattern of labor peace that many analysts say is the result of lower inflation and more generous school

There were five districts on strike in the state of Washington and four in Rhode Island - accounting for onefourth of that state's students and teachers. There were two strikes each in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois.

EVERETT, Wash. - Vice President George Bush and nearly half the U.S. Senate joined about 1,400 other mourners Wednesday in bidding farewell to Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson as he was buried in this waterfront mill

Meanwhile, controversy was already brewing over appointment of an interim successor to the Washington Democrat, and over plans for a winner-take-all November election to fill his seat - an election that could help determine control of the entire U.S. Senate.

Jackson "wanted his nation to be strong because he knew the terrible danger of the age in which we live," Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said. Jackson, a veteran of 43 years in Congress, was known nationally for his support of a strong defense. He died Sept. 1 at age 71 after a blood vessel near his heart ruptured.

Mourners included former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger; Sens. John Tower, R-Texas; Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.; Majority Leader Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn.; Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., and Washington state's entire congressional delegation.

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt Wednesday declared three days of official mourning for the 269 people killed last week when a Soviet fighter shot down a Korean airliner.

"Flags will be flown at half-mast today through Friday," said Hunt's deputy press secretary, Brent Hackney.

Meanwhile, memorial services were held for two people with ties to North Carolina who were killed in a crash

Aug. 31. Duke University held a service Wednesday afternoon for Sirena WuDunn, a rising junior and computer science major who had been on her way to Hong Kong for a year's study at Chinese University. Duke officials said her parents, two sisters and a brother attended and that relatives and friends were planning a scholarship fund in honor of the straight-A student.

A memorial service was scheduled in Newton later Wednesday for James Burgess, 55. Burgess, a Newton native living in Seneca, S.C., had been flying to Korea on business as a self-employed sales representative for several textile companies.

SYLVA - Former Superior Court Judge Lacy Thornburg said Wednesday he would abandon his race for governor and instead seek the Democratic nomination for state attorney general.

"I've been running for governor, but everywhere I go people are telling me I've been winning the race for attorney general," Thornburg told a hometown crowd at a morning news conference on the steps of the Jackson County Courthouse. He made a similar announcement later Wednesday at the state Democratic headquarters in Raleigh.

"During my campaign, it has become clear to me that the issues I know about and care about are the ones the attorney general can do the most about," Thornburg said. "That's why I want to be the lawyer for the people of North Carolina."
