

Some Marines to move offshore

The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — All "non-essential" staff from the Marine contingent in Beirut will move to U.S. warships offshore because of the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing at the airport, Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said Monday.

He said the latest casualty toll from the truck-bomb that destroyed a Marine installation at the airport is "over 230 dead, over 70 wounded." He said search operations were nearly complete.

"We're fairly confident we've got just about everybody," Jordan said. One or two bodies may still be in the rubble of what had been the four-story headquarters of the Marine Battalion Landing Team, he said, "but indications are we've found everybody we're going to find."

A simultaneous bombing at the headquarters of French forces killed at least 58 soldiers. The French and Americans are part of a multinational force deployed in Beirut for more than a year at the government's request to help keep the peace in Lebanon, wracked by years of civil war.

The Reagan administration has accused Iranian-backed terrorists of engineering the blasts and has vowed unspecified retaliation. Iran denies involvement. Lebanese police say they have no clues about the identity of the terrorists and have made no arrests.

In Geneva, leaders of Lebanon's warring Christian and Moslem sects began a long-awaited reconciliation conference Monday in attempts to settle old feuds and agree on changes to give the Moslem ma-

Majority more political power. President Amin Gemayel, a Christian, presided over the meeting.

Gemayel was the only one of nine delegates to address the opening session, Lebanese officials said. The conference, expected to last four to seven days, adjourned until today after he spoke.

"If the Lebanese fire is not put out now, before it is too late, only God knows where this fire will spread and how much it will threaten the Arab world and the world as a whole," Gemayel said.

"This conference is a unique opportunity to snatch Lebanon, the region and the world from this dangerous dilemma and dark tunnel," he said. "This opportunity must not present itself again."

Jordan said "non-essential personnel" — clerks and maintenance crews — with the 1,600-man Marine contingent at the airport will withdraw to American 6th Fleet warships stationed off the coast. He did not disclose how many people were involved.

"Some of the non-essentials will be on a commuting basis," he said. "When their services are needed, they'll come in, then they'll go back out."

Since the bombing, several U.S. congressmen have demanded that the entire American force retreat to the ships, saying security conditions at the airport base made them highly vulnerable to terrorists.

Asked whether the change was a result of the truck bombing, Jordan said: "The situation has changed, and we respond to the change."

He said between 150 and 200 Marines based at Camp Lejeune joined the Marine base in Beirut on Sunday to bolster security and that some have moved to frontline posts.

Three-hundred Marines arrived last week to take over some duties of servicemen killed in the airport blast.

Along with moving some people back to ships, Jordan said, the Marines were "relocating and rechanneling traffic" to improve security, but did not explain what that meant. He also said "many other initiatives are going on, most of which we will not announce."

Jordan said the latest bodies retrieved from the U.S. bombing site were a Navy sailor Saturday night and a Marine early Sunday.

In Frankfurt, West Germany, the Air Force said a serviceman wounded in the blast died at a U.S. military hospital there early Monday.

The Marine spokesman also said the Americans were loading some equipment onto ships in preparation for the mid-November departure of the 24th Marine Amphibious Unit, deployed in Beirut since May.

Marine Cpl. Brad Trudell, 21, of Camden, N.Y., said he is eager to leave Beirut. He stood guard at the bombed-out headquarters building Monday wearing a helmet with the slogan "Peacemaker."

"Americans can't understand this kind of terrorism," he said, pointing to the wreckage. Jordan said bulldozers eventually will level what is left of the wrecked building and work crews will pave it over. He said "it will be as smooth as a parking lot when we get done with it."

State and Nation

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate on Monday rejected 58 to 40 a resolution calling for the United States and the Soviet Union to reach agreement on a mutually verifiable freeze on the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons.

The vote was the high water-mark so far on a grass-roots movement to put pressure on both Soviet and American leaders to halt the arms race by simply calling it off.

A similar resolution was approved in the Democrat-controlled House earlier this year, but until now, there had been no vote in the full Senate.

The resolution was attached to a critical debt limit bill which must be approved for the federal government to continue to borrow funds, and thus continue to operate.

The freeze proposal, opposed by President Reagan, came to Congress after hundreds of local organizations around the country gathered petitions, and raised money to get the idea taken seriously in Washington.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A federal judge on Monday threw out a $500,000 verdict won by former anchorwoman Christine Craft and ruled that her demotion by a TV station was not the result of sex discrimination.

U.S. District Judge Joseph E. Stevens Jr. said the jury verdict on Craft's allegations of fraud against Metromedia Inc. was the result of "passion, prejudice, confusion or mistake," and ordered a new trial.

The former anchorwoman, in Milwaukee on a speaking tour, said she was appalled by the decision and vowed to pursue the case to its highest level.

RALEIGH — Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt would beat U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., in the 1984 Senate race if the election were held today, according to a recent poll of registered voters.

The North Carolina Opinion Research Inc. poll indicates Hunt would get 47.3 percent of the vote and Helms 41.1 percent, while 2.6 percent would not vote and 9 percent would be undecided.

Neither man has announced his candidacy for the Senate, but the fight is expected to be fierce.

The 6 percentage-point difference is a smaller gap than most previous statewide polls predicted, but is closer to the expectations of Helms and Hunt staff members.

RALEIGH — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green said Monday that there was no doubt he would seek the Democratic nomination for governor in 1984 now that he had been acquitted on bribery charges.

"Of course I'm going to run for governor," Green said. "The only question is when I will formally announce."

A Wake Superior Court jury Friday acquitted Green on charges of twice agreeing to accept bribes of $10,000 a month, agreeing to accept a $2,000 bribe and receiving a $2,000 bribe. Prosecutors voluntarily dismissed a fifth charge of conspiring to receive a bribe.

Green, relaxed and smiling, met with reporters Monday in his legislative office. There were several large flower arrangements set by supporters, and the desk was covered with mail and telegrams.

At the entrance to the office was a green balloon, green crepe paper and a sign with green letters saying, "Congratulations Gov. Green."

ROBBINSVILLE — More than 90 people from around the United States, some carrying as much as $100,000, were arrested in a police raid on a dogfighting arena disguised as a country church, police said Monday.

Law enforcement officials in rural, mountainous Graham County borrowed deputies from neighboring counties to make the arrests Sunday as about 150 spectators stampeded into the countryside, leaving behind guns, brass knuckles, clubs, money, alcohol and drugs.

"Everybody had plenty of money," said Sheriff A.J. Peterson. "One guy had $100,000 in a bag... and several people had $16,000."

One boy, among 15 children under the age of 16 at the fight, was treated and released from a hospital for a hand-piercing nail wound after he was trampled by spectators trying to escape.
