Lineman Mark Wiley of Virginia recovered the loose ball, and later called Horton's bobble the turning point of the game.

It took Virginia only three plays and 16 seconds before Howard Petty jumped over from the one for a 17-14 Cavalier lead.

Several North Carolina drives were stalled in the fourth quarter as the Cavalier defense rose to the occasion in the gray cold of the afternoon. On one play early in the final period, Scott Stankavage threw a bomb to Smith at the Virginia 15-yard line, but it tipped off his hands.

"It hit my left hand," Smith said. "I should have caught it. It was catchable."

Wiley intercepted a Stankavage pass with 1:25 left in the game to assure the Virginia victory. "I was covering Horton out in the flat," Wiley said. "Stankavage looked right at him (Horton) and then threw it right to me."

After the game, the emphasis was on the Cavalier defense, which had surrendered 69 points in the last two weeks in losses to Georgia Tech and Wake Forest. "We'd gotten tired of being kicked around," linebacker Charles McDaniel said. "We knew if we concentrated and played with intensity, we could stop anyone."

"They didn't have any respect for our defense," McDaniel said, referring to UNC's decision to go for a first down four times on fourth down. "We stopped them three of those times."

North Carolina coach Dick Crum talked about the game in the disconsolate locker room.

"Quite simply, Virginia deserved to win the football game," Crum said. "They made the plays in the second half and we didn't make the plays we had to make."

"If we had won late in the game, we would have been very fortunate. Virginia did a better job than we did."

UNC tailback Tyrone Anthony slips by a Virginia defender in Saturday's 17-14 loss.

After standing at 7-0 and third in the nation just three weeks ago, North Carolina's chances for even a mediocre bowl bid were slim following the team's third loss in a row — at least according to some of the players.

"I think this erases it," offensive tackle

Brian Blados said. "We are not playing well enough to go to a bowl."

Tyrone Anthony, who scored two touchdowns and rushed for 146 yards on the day, summed up the game. "The first half we were playing real well," he said in an almost inaudibly soft voice. "I just don't know what happened."

Field hockey team eliminated by Old Dominion

From staff reports

The 10th-ranked North Carolina field hockey team fell to second-ranked Old Dominion 8-0 Sunday in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament in Norfolk, Va.

Old Dominion, the defending national champion, used four first-half and four second-half goals to hand the Tar Heels their fourth defeat of the season. Old Dominion attempted 26 shots on goal to only two for the Tar Heels.

Sunday's defeat marked the third time this season that North Carolina has fallen to Old Dominion. The first two games ended in scores of 3-1 and 1-0.

North Carolina had defeated 11th-ranked California-Berkeley 2-1 Saturday to advance to the quarterfinals.

In that game, California scored first, but Louise Hines scored later in the first half on a penalty stroke to tie the game. Midway through the second half, Sandy Smith scored to give the Tar Heels the victory.

North Carolina finished the season 13-4-3.

North Carolina's volleyball team concluded its regular season by winning one of three matches in the Tar Heel Coca-Cola Volleyball Classic held in Carmichael Auditorium and Fetzer Gymnasium Nov. 10-12.

UNC dropped matches with Rhode Island and 15th-ranked Florida State but rebounded to defeat Georgia on Saturday.

Rhode Island downed the Tar Heels 16-14, 15-7 and 17-15. UNC lost another close match in three games Friday as Florida State overcame UNC leads to win 15-13, 15-12 and 15-10.

North Carolina finally broke into the win column with a 15-4, 15-6 and 15-13 victory over Georgia on Saturday.

UNC and N.C. State will be competing in the ACC tournament Nov. 18-20 at Duke for a berth in the NCAA championships.

North Carolina's wrestling team opened its 1983-84 season with a second-place finish in the Eastern Nationals Wrestling Tournament in Norfolk, Va.

The Tar Heels scored 132 points, trailing only the LSU Wrestling Club in a 20-team tournament.

LSU's Wrestling Club finished with 176.75 points to take the title. UNC outdistanced third-placed Appalachian State by 56 points.

Coach Bill Lam thought the tournament would serve as "a good learning experience for our younger wrestlers and break the ice for our returnees."

UNC returns 12 lettermen from last year's 12-6 team, which finished second in the ACC and 17th in the NCAA championships.

Women's cross country team headed for nationals

By GLENN PETERSON Staff Writer

North Carolina's women's cross country team finished fourth Saturday at the NCAA District III Championships in Clemson, S.C., and reached its goal of going to the national championship race on Nov. 21.

Tennessee, N.C. State, and Clemson took the first three places in the team race while State's Betty Springs took first place individually with a time of 16:47 for the 5,000-meter race.

Joan Nesbit finished first for the Tar Heels in eighth place with a time of 17:18. Holly Murray came in 14th, Madlyn Morreale in 17th, Karol Dorsett in 30th and Heather Zimmermann in 40th. Zimmermann's performance was a slight surprise; she came back from a stress fracture she suffered earlier in the year.

The national championship race will be held at Bethlehem, Pa.

"We're really excited about going to this race," Morreale said. "We have to get serious about the race now. There's a fine line between enjoying the last race and getting ready for the next one."

Murray thought the team performed well in Saturday's race. "We all ran real well — especially our back girls," she said. "Going to the nationals is like a dream come true. There's going to be no pressure on us. We're all just going to run our race. We could really improve our ranking with this race."

UNC's men's cross country team came in 13th place at the district race. Clemson, East Tennessee State and Virginia were the top three finishers. No members of the UNC team will be going to the national championship race because they did not finish high enough.

Jim Farmer, a freshman, finished 48th in the race and first for the team. Tom Bobrowski finished 60th, Mike Currinder, 63rd, Dave Schorrenberg, 79th and Dick Larson, 88th.

Everyone on the men's cross country team will be back for next season except Larson.

Women's soccer tops California, advances to NCAA semifinals

By SCOTT SMITH Staff Writer

The second-ranked North Carolina women's soccer team took a big step forward in its quest for a third straight national championship Saturday by overcoming an early deficit and going on to defeat fifth-ranked California, 5-2, in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament at Fetzer Field.

The victory moved UNC to the semifinals of the tournament, which will be played this weekend at Orlando, Fla.

Seldom do the UNC women find themselves trailing during the first minute of play, but shortly after the opening kickoff, the Tar Heels were gazing at a Fetzer Field scoreboard that read: HOME-0 VISITOR-1.

The early California lead came as a result of a throw-in by Golden Bear forward Katharin Gustafson. With only 56 seconds gone in the first half, Gustafson took the ball out on the right sideline and threw it in front of the UNC goal to a waiting Tucka Healey, who headed it past North Carolina goalkeeper Beth Huber.

There was concern on the UNC squad after Healey's early goal, but according to North Carolina midfielder Betsy Johnson, it was a confident concern.

"Yes, we were worried," Johnson said, "but that wasn't the first time we would have been behind in a match. I felt we would have the poise to come back."

Johnson said coach Anson Dorrance told the team that the Golden Bears were inexperienced and that "if we came at them hard it would intimidate them."

Apparently Dorrance was right, as UNC went on to control the game the rest of the way. The Tar Heel scoring barrage began with 33:35 left in the first half, as Johnson erased the short-lived California lead when she gained control of a loose ball outside of the California penalty area and nailed a 30-yard shot into the upper left corner of the goal.

Approximately 23 minutes later Amy Machin took a pass from Joan Dunlap in front of the Golden Bear goal and pushed it past onrushing goalkeeper Ady Balog into the right side of the net for a 2-1 UNC halftime lead.

The Tar Heels put the game out of reach midway through the second half, when freshman April Heinrichs picked up a loose ball directly in front of the California goal and blasted it past a charging Balog from 10 yards away to give UNC a 3-1 lead.

Joan Dunlap and Jo Boobas added late insurance goals for the Tar Heels to give the UNC women their 17th consecutive win, after a season-opening loss to top-ranked Connecticut.

According to Johnson, the Tar Heels are ready to defend their title.

"Oh yeah, I think we're ready," she said. "We figured this (California) would be one of our toughest games and we are really up for meeting UConn. again because of the loss — yeah, we can do it all."

UNC-Duke football game to be televised

The North Carolina-Duke football game will be regionally televised Saturday, with kick-off time slated for 3:47 p.m., CBS-TV announced Sunday.

The game was originally scheduled for 1 p.m., and because of the late kick-off time, temporary lighting will be installed at Kenan Stadium.
