

Swimmers top Clemson

By GLENN PETERSON
Staff Writer

North Carolina's men's and women's swimming teams each came away with an ACC victory Saturday as the men defeated Clemson 64-49 and the women routed the Tigers 96-44.

The women's results were not surprising, but the men were expected to have a closer battle. "Clemson (men) had swum the best times in the conference coming into the meet," coach Frank Comfort said. "One coach had told me earlier that Clemson had the best dual meet team in the conference in the last five years, and Clemson came in thinking they were also going to win against us."

But UNC jumped out to a 7-0 lead when the team of Eric Ericson, Doug Sawyer, Dirk Marshall and Geoff Cassell won the 400-yard medley relay in a time of 3:25.22.

After the win in the relay race, UNC freshman Clay Wellborn set a school record by swimming the 1,000-yard freestyle in 9:27.5. Wellborn and his Clemson opponent stayed close throughout most of the race, but Wellborn pulled away in the final lap.

Duke

"I think I deserved a technical foul at the end of the second half, and I think the coach of the opposing team deserved a technical foul at the end of the first half," he said.

Freshman guard Tommy Amaker had been put at the foul line with 0:11 remaining in the first half with Duke ready to take the lead for the first time.

North Carolina's Steve Hale was eventually charged with the foul, but not before one referee came over to the scorer's table calling Perkins' number. Perkins had two fouls at the time; Hale had one.

Dean Smith expressed his displeasure with the referee by pointing an accusative finger

Two other Tar Heel swimmers won races by pulling away in the last lap. Chris Stevenson took the 200-yard butterfly, and Danny Flack won the 500-yard freestyle in similar fashion.

Coach Comfort said the strong finishes were the result of learning from a previous defeat. "We learned a lot when we lost to Tennessee last week," Comfort said. "We realized that we needed to have more aggressive starts and that we needed to swim better in the last 20 percent of the race."

UNC went on to win nine of the 13 events. Stevenson won the 200-yard freestyle, Billy Williams took the 200-yard IM, Cassell won the 100-yard freestyle, Ericson was first in the 200-yard backstroke, and Todd Deckman, Ericson, Marshall, and Cassell won the 400-yard freestyle relay. Clemson stayed in the meet by taking numerous second and third places.

Comfort said he believed this victory would give UNC momentum as it faced the rest of its ACC opponents. "Clemson thought they were a better team, and we responded to their challenge," Comfort said. "We had 14 different swimmers getting points in this meet. This was the best we've swum this year."

UNC's women also swam well Saturday as they took 13 of 16 events. The women opened with Sue Walsh, Jenny Strickland, Betsy Mitchell and Sue Scott winning the 400-yard medley relay.

After Clemson won two freestyle races, Mitchell took the 100-yard backstroke, Strickland won the 100-yard breaststroke, Martha McCann was tops in the 200-yard butterfly, and Amy Pless took the 50-yard freestyle to help the Tar Heels jump out to a 42-19 lead halfway through the meet.

In the second half, the Tar Heels won every event except the 500-yard freestyle. Janice Dalrymple won both diving events, Pless won the 100-yard freestyle and Walsh won the 200-yard backstroke. Also, Strickland took the 200-yard breaststroke, Mitchell was first in the 100-yard butterfly, McCann won the 400-yard IM and UNC won the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Both the men and women will take on Virginia Saturday in Chapel Hill.

and discussing the matter in front of the scorer's table.

"You cannot allow people to go around pointing at officials and going on the court and yelling at them without technical fouls being called," Krzyzewski said. "That is just not allowed."

Smith would just as soon forget about the game, which was the second nail-biter in a row for North Carolina, directly following Wednesday's three-point win over Virginia in Carmichael Auditorium.

"Fortunately, I don't have a tape of Duke-Carolina to watch," he said. "Thanks to Season Ticket."

Wrestling team sinks Navy

From staff reports

The crowd that assembled might have been more interested in getting good seats for the basketball game against Georgia Tech, but it was also treated to an excellent wrestling match as UNC beat Navy, 23-13, at Carmichael Auditorium Saturday.

Coach Bill Lam was happy with his team's performance. "Navy was ranked 18th in the nation, but they've beaten some top 10 teams," Lam said. "To beat them as handily as we did was great for our team spirit."

The individual winners for the Tar Heels were Chip McArdle (118), John Aumiller (126), Tim Plott (142), Tad Wilson (158), Bob Shriner (190) and Stacey Davis (heavyweight).

The next match for the Tar Heels will be against Duke 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Carmichael Auditorium.

North Carolina upped its record to 14-2 in women's basketball Saturday, defeating the University of the District of Columbia 60-54. Senior guard Eileen McCann, making her first start of the season, led the Tar Heels with 13 points.

"McCann had a successful offensive game and it was good for the team to see her shooting," UNC assistant coach Mike Peckham said.

Tress Brown, the ACC's leading scorer and rebounder, did not play against UDC because of a sprained ankle, but coach Jennifer Alley said that playing without Brown might have helped the team in the long run.

"Playing the majority of the game without Tree and Pam Leake (who played only 11 minutes because of a bruised neck) gave our players confidence in themselves," Alley said. "We got a solid performance from everyone."

Dawn Royster added 11 points and led UNC with seven rebounds.

The North Carolina men's and women's track teams turned in impressive performances Friday and Saturday at the Eastman Kodak Invitational in Johnson City, Tenn.

For the UNC women, freshman Diane Thomas set a new school record in the 60-meter hurdles with a time of 8.19 while advancing to the semifinals of the event.

The UNC women set a new school record with a time of 3:36.6 in the mile relay. Mary Mulvihill, Kelly Houk, Yvette Morehead and Alisa Murray made up the record-setting foursome.

Junior Jack Morgan led the way for the UNC men with a third-place finish Saturday in the mile with a time of 4:12.5.

In other distance races, coach Don Lockerbie was impressed with the performance of freshman Walter Deneen, who ran a personal best of 9:22.8 in the two-mile run in front of a hometown crowd.

The distance-medley relay team which Lockerbie has high hopes for, finished ninth with a time of 10:05.

Next weekend individuals from the men's and women's teams travel to New York City to compete in the Millrose Games.

North Carolina's women's fencing team split two matches with William and Mary and Virginia in Williamsburg, Va. Saturday.

The Tar Heels lost to William and Mary in the opening match. UNC entered the last round of bouts with an 8-4 advantage but the Indians swept the four remaining bouts to tie the score at eight. William and Mary earned the victory by outscoring the Tar Heels, 62-60, on touches.

"We had trouble in the last round with our concentration and being consistent," coach Ron Miller said. "It was a disappointing loss."

UNC came back after the narrow defeat to soundly beat Virginia, 13-3. Over the weekend, the Tar Heels were led by Karen Marnell (6-2), Beth McMahon (6-1) and Eva Compton (5-2).

Carla Pigford, Laura Gamble, Lindy Evans, and Rita Gaskins all went undefeated in junior varsity action. Pigford moved up to the varsity and recorded a win against Virginia.

WHY WOULD AN MBA GO INTO SALES?

Because It's Smart!

The smart MBA recognizes that selling provides an ideal career start. It puts you on the "firing line" in a competitive marketing environment. It offers an exposure to the problems and benefits of a company's product line. It's a groundfloor education into overall corporate operations. And it's a fast track into management.

Many an MBA has started in sales and ended up in the boardroom. But they were smart. They chose their first employer on the basis of industry strength and potential, of market share and product quality, and of progressive management. That's why in 1984 the smart MBA is taking a long hard look at the Diagnostics Division of Abbott Laboratories.

WHY WOULD AN MBA SELL DIAGNOSTICS?

Because It's Smart!

Medical diagnostic products are used internationally to identify specific illnesses and monitor the effect of therapeutic treatments. They are changing the face of modern medicine, and are one of the fastest growing areas in the health care products industry. By 1990 diagnostics will grow from $4 billion to $9 billion. And a major reason for that growth can be attributed to the sophisticated products created by Abbott Diagnostics.

WHY WOULD AN MBA SELL FOR ABBOTT?

Because It's Smart!

When you look at Abbott Diagnostics, you're looking at Number 1, the undisputed world leader in medical diagnostics. You're looking at a company that spends millions of dollars on product research and development. A company whose advances in fluorescent immunoassays and enzyme immunoassays have created a significant demand for newer and faster products. A company with an exceptional reputation for quality, pricing and product support. What's more, you're looking at a company in its infancy, but with extraordinary potential and opportunities.

WHY WOULD AN MBA INTERVIEW WITH ABBOTT?

Because It's Very Smart!

For professionals just beginning their careers, Abbott is a name worth investigating. We're experienced, aggressive and financially strong. But the only way to really explore this unusual career opportunity is to talk with an Abbott representative. Sign up sheets for Abbott Diagnostics interviewing schedule are being posted now. Meet with us and find out just how promising a career in medical diagnostics can be.
