UNC wrestlers topple Tigers, 28-12, for eighth win

By BOB YOUNG
Staff Writer

The beginning was tight, but in the end, the North Carolina wrestling team finished with an easy win over Clemson, 28-12, Wednesday night in Carmichael Auditorium. Coach Bill Lam saw this victory as a very important one for the Tar Heels.

"Considering the loss to N.C. State (21-12 last Friday in Raleigh) was very tough on the team's spirit, we needed a good win," he said.

But things are not going to get much easier for the Tar Heels in the next week. North Carolina, now 8-5 overall and 2-1 in the ACC, has two matches in the next four days and must prepare for a rematch with the Wolfpack next Thursday in Chapel Hill.

"I think we're all thinking about that match (N.C. State) in the back of our heads," Lam said. "We're going to be ready for them. But first we have to get past this weekend."

The Tar Heels must face George Mason Friday night in Carmichael Auditorium (this match has not been cancelled as previously announced), and then must wrestle Virginia Tech at home Sunday at 2 p.m.

Against Clemson, now 8-6 overall and 0-2 in the ACC, UNC got off to a quick start as Chip McArdle won at 118 by a score of 10-9, and the Tigers forfeited at 126. McArdle's match was particularly interesting as the sophomore scored two takedowns in the final minute, including one with eight seconds left in the match, to defeat Kirk Koffman. Wes Hallman was the Tar Heels' winner at 126.

Then North Carolina hit a dry spell, as Clemson's Jody Taylor defeated Billy-Christie at 134 by a score of 10-4 and Joey McKenna beat Tim Platt at 142 by a score of 13-5.

Those two Clemson victories brought the Tigers to within two, with the score at 9-7. And after UNC's Jon Cardie tied Clemson's Tom Carr, at 150, the Tar Heels started to show their colors.

Tad Wilson had a big second period as he pulled away from Doug Gregory of the Tigers to take the victory at 158 by a score of 10-2.

Bill Gaffney, who is headed to Iowa City, Iowa, this weekend to compete in the East-West mid-season All Star against Clemson's Mark Litts, winning by a score of 21-0.

In the 167 division, UNC freshman Craig Spivey held on in a close match to defeat Pete Georgoutsos at 177 by a score of 2-1. This victory sealed the team title for UNC.

At 190, Bob Shriner put a little icing on the cake as he scored seven points in the final period to easily overcome the Tigers' Gary Nivens, 13-1. Nivens, who usually wrestles at 177, was moved up in the hope that he might be able to surprise Shriner.

At heavyweight, Clemson got its first points since the tie at 150, with Brian Raber coming from behind to defeat Tommy Gorry by a score of 8-7.

Men's fencing team gets victory over Duke; women's team loses

By MIKE WATERS
Staff Writer

North Carolina's fencing teams traveled to Durham Tuesday night to take on Duke. The men's team left with a 14-13 win, but the women didn't do as well, losing to the Blue Devils, 9-7.

The final score didn't accurately reflect the men's match, but the Tar Heels' performance was still far from impressive. "There's a difference between being psyched up and being ready to fence," coach Ron Miller said of the men's play. "They had to discover that during the course of the meet."

"Our guys going into the meet had a tendency to take Duke too lightly. Coming immediately off a long road trip (to Ohio State on Sunday) and without practice we weren't very sharp."

The win lifted the Tar Heels' record to 6-2 overall. Captains Lonnie McCullough and Amiel Rossabi led the way, each going 3-0. The epee division bounced back from a disappointing weekend in Ohio. Weapon leader Bobby Bosworth won both of his bouts, and Scott Echols fenced well, winning two of three matches.

"They (the epee team) made a good comeback and fenced very well," Miller said. "Bobby (Bosworth) definitely got his confidence back."

Karen Marnell was one of the few bright spots in the women's loss to Duke. Marnell won all four of her bouts, but no other Tar Heel had more than one victory.

The Tar Heels fell behind, 3-1, after the first round, but battled back to tie the score at 6-6 after three rounds with one round of fighting to go.

"We were very tight and didn't loosen up until the third round," Miller explained. "The girls showed a good attitude, but didn't finish it off."

Both the men's and women's squads now turn their attention to this weekend's important tournament at Penn State. The Nittany Lions will play host to the men's and women's teams from UNC, Northwestern and Carnegie-Mellon. William Patterson's men's team will also be there, as will the women's team from James Madison.

Penn State will provide the most competition for both Carolina squads. Penn State's women's team is currently the top team in the country and the men's team is among the best in the nation, too.

"If we fence as well or a little better than we did last weekend against Notre Dame," Miller said, "we should have a good chance of beating (Penn State)."

Tigers

"Obviously, we'd like to have Kenny, because he's such a great player," Doherty said.

"We're just going to have to do without him for a while. We have quality players to put in there. I knew Steve could play like that. He's played like that all year. And Buzz is obviously out of the slump he was in."

"It's a good thing coach Smith decided to play more players this year. If not, we could have had a problem."

Clemson coach Bill Foster was generous in his praise of the Tar Heels.

"They're definitely the best team in America," he said.

"They shot the ball very well in the first half. We wanted to collapse down low and try to keep them away from the outside, but they just hit everything they threw up. That was the story."

The win boosted the Tar Heels to 18-0 overall and 8-0 in the ACC, while Clemson dropped to 11-7 and 2-4.
