2/The Daily Tar Heel/Tuesday, February 14, 1984 U.S. to withdraw Marines by mid-March

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration has set in motion plans to withdraw the U.S. Marines from Lebanon before mid-March, officials said Monday.

"The White House has made a decision to get the Marines out of Beirut and on the amphibious ships offshore within 30 days from last Saturday," said an administration official who spoke only on condition he remain anonymous.

The official said the decision was made after Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger delivered the Pentagon's proposal for withdrawing the Marines to the White House last Friday.

Such a timetable would bring the 1,200 to 1,300 Marines serving in the multinational force from their positions at the Beirut International Airport to the ships by March 12.

Officials said last week that a relatively small number of U.S. military personnel, perhaps 200 or so, would remain to guard the U.S. embassy, train the Lebanese army and handle communications and other tasks.

Earlier Monday, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said President Reagan was moving toward a withdrawal of the Marines to the ships within 30 days and that "we will do so if it is consistent with the political and military situation."

On Sunday, Weinberger said in an interview with NBC News that "substantial numbers (of Marines) should be out by the end of this month, and probably it's perfectly feasible that the entire operation can be completed within less than 30 days."

However, like Speakes, Weinberger did not say that a definite decision had been made on the timing of the withdrawal, although he made it clear that he wanted the Marines back on the ships within 30 days.

Sources said Weinberger presented three options to the White House on Friday for withdrawing the troops - one for a brief pullout lasting a few days, a second for a withdrawal taking 30 days and a third that would stretch the process out, possibly over several months.

As these sources described it, Weinberger would have preferred somewhat more time for coordination.

There were indications from some sources that the State Department previously had favored a longer withdrawal period, presumably to avoid the impression that the United States was backing away from its commitment to the troubled government of Lebanese President Amin Gemayel.

Some sources said the State Department ultimately agreed to the shorter withdrawal timetable on condition the United States demonstrate its commitment by broadening use of firepower by the U.S. fleet offshore. The two days of heavy shelling by guns of the 6th Fleet last week served that purpose, the sources said.

Those barrages were aimed at gun positions and command posts in Syrian-controlled areas in the mountains overlooking Beirut, the Pentagon has said.

Reagan administration officials have been debating whether to pull the Marines out of Lebanon since the Oct. 23 suicide truck-bombing killed 241 American servicemen at the airport.

Officials said the administration had leaned toward phasing out the withdrawal over a three-month period but that the speedup in the timetable was triggered by the resignation of the Gemavel government's Cabinet some 10 days ago accompanied by apparent deterioration of at least part of the U.S.-backed Lebanese army.

Weinberger and the Joint Chiefs of Staff never have been happy with first committing and then maintaining a Marine force ashore in positions which were shown to be vulnerable to hostile fire.

Meanwhile, in Lebanon, scattered exchanges of sniper fire between the Lebanese army and Moslem militias crackled through the Lebanese capital Monday, and the army for a second day allowed dozens of trucks to carry food and fuel to the trapped residents of west Beirut.

Brig. Gen. Lutfi Jaber, Shiite commander of the army's 6th Brigade, ordered his soldiers to report to duty in west Beirut within 48 hours and take over security of the beseiged Moslem sector of the capital. The spiritual leader of Beirut's Shiites called for "absolute cooperation" with the brigade to restore law and order.

The move will give the army its first presence in the predominantly Moslem sector since militiamen took control a week ago in heavy fighting. The 6th Brigade had refused to fight at the height of the battle.

The move came a day after President Amin Gemayel called for a national reconciliation conference within two weeks and put forth a plan to reunite the war-torn nation. The plan includes equal representation for Christians and Moslems in Parliament, which is now dominated by Christians.

Police said only scattered exchanges of sniper fire broke the lull in fighting between government troops and Moslem militiamen across the rain-swept "green line" that divides Beirut into Christian and Moslem halves.

No injuries were reported, and there were no reports of fighting around the U.S. Marine base at Beirut's airport to the south.

"I think we heard a machine gun once this afternoon in the distance," said Army Maj. Don McClary, 39, of Fort Charlotte, Fla. "The rain and wet weather apparently has dampened the spirit for fighting."

Meanwhile, the Foreign Ministry said Brazil, Colombia, Uruguay and Chile have "temporarily" transferred their embassy's operations to Cyprus or Greece. The Japanese Foreign Ministry said in Tokyo it has decided to close its embassy temporarily.

Last week, the United States, Canada and several other countries sharply reduced their embassy staffs and evacuated those nationals who wished to leave Beirut.

WASHINGTON - The largest corporate merger in American history won tentative approval Monday from the Federal Trade Commission, which voted to allow Texaco to buy Getty Oil Co. for $10.1 billion.

Shortly after the FTC acted, Texaco, the nation's third-largest oil company, bought 44.4 million shares of Getty's stock for $5.68 billion. That gave it control of 56 percent of Getty, the nation's 14th largest oil company.

The purchase was made in two steps. First, Texaco paid $4.49 billion for the 35.1 million Getty shares that stockholders had submitted for payment under Texaco's offer of $128 a share. Texaco then bought the 9.3 million shares held by the J. Paul Getty Museum under terms of a contract signed in early January. The museum's stock was purchased for the same $128 a share, or $1.19 billion in all.

FORSYTH, Ga. - The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Monday he has been invited to Nicaragua next Tuesday to help celebrate the rise to power of the leftist Sandinista regime there and will decide by the end of the week whether to go.

If he goes, the visit would come one day after the Iowa caucuses and exactly a week in advance of the New Hampshire primary, where Jackson is pushing for a strong showing.

Jackson said the invitation came from the Nicaraguan ambassador to the United States.

Asked whether the timing had political overtones, the Democratic presidential candidate told reporters traveling with him on a voter registration sweep through Georgia, "I didn't invite me to go to Nicaragua, and I didn't set Feb. 21st as the date for celebration."

JOHNSON SPACE CENTER, Houston - Engineers checking launch platforms in the cargo bay of space shuttle Challenger said Monday they found no clues to the failure of two communication satellites to reach their proper orbits during the last flight.

The $75 million satellites were released from the shuttle during the eight-day mission that ended Saturday with a landing at its launch site in Florida.

Meanwhile, Challenger's commander, Vance Brand, led his four crewmates Monday into their first debriefing session with officials at the Johnson Space Center here.

The shuttle, the first ever to make a Floriday-to-Florida round trip, was opened for examination after it was rolled into a hangar at the Kennedy Space Center.

RALEIGH — Advertisements by Republican Sen. Jesse Helms should not erase Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt's work to improve education or Helms' votes against public schools, two educators said Monday.

In a news conference at state Democratic Party headquarters, former N.C. Association of Educators presidents Loretta Martin and John Lucas attacked Helms for using public schools "as a political pawn for his own gain."

The comments came in response to a series of radio ads released last week in which the Helms for Senate Committee challenges Hunt's record on education. Claude Allen, a Helms' campaign spokesman, said he wasn't surprised at the criticism directed at the Republican senator.

"The NCAE is a member group of the radical NEA which supports noneducational issues such as the nuclear freeze and the $5 billion a year Martin Luther King holiday - issues that have nothing to do with improving the quality of education in North Carolina," Allen said.

SCOTT B., THANK YOU for putting up with me for so long. Not many intelligent, good-looking men would put up with a rugby-playing, weight-lifting woman! Love ya! Sara.

Frankenberg

Frankenberg's wife, Susan C. Frankenberg, is an oriental antique dealer, specializing in Chinese porcelain, and owns a shop in Hillsborough, Frankenberg said,

His daughter, Elizabeth, is a UNC sophomore and a proposed geography major. This semester she is studying in Paris, France, Frankenberg said. His son is a senior in high school and interested in a technical career, Frankenberg said. "There's really not much else that I do that doesn't relate to my family or profession in some way," Frankenberg said

Judging from his work activites and family life, that appears to be more than most people could manage. Frankenberg was associate professor of zoology at the University of Georgia from 1962-1966. He then went to the University of Delaware for one year, before returning as a professor at the University of Georgia from 1967 to 1974. He has also worked in Washington, D.C., as director of the Biological Oceanographic Program for the National Science Foundation, director of the Division of Ocean Science and worked for the National Academy of Science.

TIM K .- HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY to my favorite STUDENT-ATHLETE! We've had our ups and downs, but maybe we can work something out this time! I'm willing to give it my best shot-even though you are so busy these days! Keep smilin'! Love, Wendy.

QUINT, GARY, MARK, & BRAD: Happy Valentine's Day to the greatest Astronomy lab partners! Thanks for letting me be part of the group! Ya'll even make looking at little specs in the cold, dark night pretty fun! Same place, same time, every other week -see ya! Wendy.

Because of the two of you I just couldn't be happier! Happy Valentine's Day and thanks for everything! Love, Wendy.

GREG P.: IS IT REALLY your birthday? I can't believ

you're 22 years young-you'll never grow up! Thanks for all the fun this year, you've been the best big brother anyone could ask for-not to mention a terrific friend too! Kidnappings, cookies, serious conversations, chip-wiches, studying

(or at least trying to!), silly talks, breakfast at your place, plc-

tures, late-night/early morning surprise visits, etc. And you keep smiling through it all! Happy Birthday—hope it's your best yet! Love ya! Your Little Sis, Wendy.

KDO HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY! Even though things have been rough rately remember, you're still my sweet-heart. I love you! SKC.

I LOVE YOU BUMPKIE, thanks for always being there.

DENISE, I LOVE YOU so much! Happy Valentine's Day! Love Always, Chris.

ARTIDON, HAPPY VALENTINE'S. Hope your loose days are over. You're me best sissy poo and I Love you lots! Love form Scandalous #2 in Connor.

M.E.B. YOUR PEACOCK CAN be red, both your eyes are blue, frozen yogurt can be sweet, and the eighth floor can be too! Happy Valentine's, A Secret Admirer.

DA-RREN JUST REMEMBER-whatever you decide to do

I'll be here waiting for you! I love you now and always will!

ZGROUP: GENIA, GINA, LAURA, Kent, Randy: from the steps of Carroll to "the office" and Purdys Happy Hour-you guys are great! We have to enter the "real world" soon, so let's keep in touch to make things easier! Who knows-someday we may all be rich and famous! Happy Valentine's

DELL MARIE: IT'S VALENTINE'S Day and I'm sending a personal to a DAMN Zeta! Who would ever have believed it! Seriously though, it doesn't really matter
