

Loan contingent on 50-cent fee increase

Finance committee okays $22,000 STV loan

By STEVE FERGUSON
Staff Writer

The finance committee of the Campus Governing Council voted unanimously Monday night to loan the Student Television $22,000 if the 50-cent fee increase passed Tuesday.

In order for the 50-cent fee increase referendum to have passed, 20 percent of the student body must have voted and two-thirds of the voters must have approved it.

"This is probably one of the best fee increases to come along," said Fred Baker (District 9), CGC finance committee member. Without the finance committee vote, STV would have to wait until next fall for the money to come in, when the fee increase would go into effect.

Baker said. STV plans to buy a camera, editing bench and some protective equipment with the money, Baker said. They will repay the loan as money comes in from student fees in the fall and next spring, he said.

If the referendum did not pass, then the loan will not be given, Baker said. "Then STV is sort of up a creek without a camera," he said.

"I don't think there is going to be a problem with this passing," said John Wilson, STV program director, before the votes came in. The full CGC will meet next Wednesday to decide on the recommendation of the finance committee. "I'd like to see a lame-duck CGC (approve) this," he said.

STV's next equipment addition will be a camera costing about $7,000, Wilson said. They will also request that the Deep Jonah room in the basement of the Union be given to them as a studio room and will push for installation of cable TV in the dorms, he said.

"I'm gung-ho for it," Baker said, before the votes from student elections were tallied. "I think it will pass.

"It will keep a bunch of hard-working, energetic people going," he said. "STV is a nice media alternative. It adds to the diversity of communication at Carolina and has a lot of exciting possibilities.

Events in the Pit, speakers and campus election coverage are among the ideas to which STV is considering giving coverage, Wilson said.

Also among those possibilities is coverage on Student Government meetings, Baker said. "Even CGC meetings, God forbid," he said.

Attorneys make opening statements in Allison trial

Opening statements were made today in the trial of Danny Nathan Allison, 22, of Chapel Hill, who is charged in connection with seven sexual assaults against UNC women students last spring and summer.

Allison faces charges of first-degree burglary, felonious breaking-and-entering and first- and second-degree sex offenses in the series of assaults. The current trial centers on only one of the incidents, in which he is charged with breaking-and-entering and a first-degree sex offense.

District Attorney Wade Barber and

Bob Mahler, the public defender for Allison, were each allowed 30 minutes to make their statements — a forecast of what they believe evidence in the case will prove.

Barber said that on June 5, 1983, a black man entered the Morrison dorm room of a UNC student, taped her eyes and mouth shut, tied her hands behind her back and sexually assaulted her at gunpoint.

Allison was arrested on August 6, 1983, after being under police observation, and the woman identified Allison in connection with the crime, Barber said.

Mahler said in his opening statement that the case was one of mistaken identity. He stressed the importance of the jury's keeping an open mind.

"You haven't seen any side of this case until you've seen both sides," he said.

Evidence against Allison is not solid, Mahler said. He said Allison could have looked familiar to the woman because Allison had led a Bible-study group in Morrison dorm at least once every week, as well as having previously lived in Morrison for three years.

Mahler also said that of the pictures shown to the woman when he was identified, Allison's was the only one that could have resembled her attacker because the men in the remaining shots either had facial hair, or were of large build, Allison being the only one slender and clean-shaven.

The jury for the trial was chosen before the opening statement. The jury consists of five women, seven men and two alternates. The display of evidence begins today at 9:30 a.m. at the Orange County Superior Court in Hillsborough.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak on Tuesday called for "direct dialogue" between the United States and the Palestine Liberation Organization, but the Reagan administration immediately rejected the advice.

"You can't control the statement of a departing chief of state," said a senior administration official. "You don't endorse it by just standing there."

Mubarak and King Hussein of Jordan had concluded talks with President Reagan when the Egyptian leader delivered his prepared statement at a farewell ceremony in the White House East Room.

"The Palestinian people are entitled to your support and understanding," Mubarak said. "There is no substitute for a direct dialogue with them through their chosen representative, the PLO."

MOSCOW — The premier of France said after a meeting with the Soviet Union's new leader Tuesday that Moscow wants more authority for United Nations forces in Lebanon.

Pierre Mauroy said that during a 30-minute talk with Konstantin U. Chernenko it was clear that "the analysis of the situation was similar" on both sides when discussing the Middle East. Both France and the Soviet Union, he said, want U.N. troops to regain more authority in Lebanon.

France is pressing for the U.N. Security Council to dispatch U.N. troops to Lebanon to replace the multinational force sent in by the United States, France, Italy and Britain. A council meeting was scheduled on the request for Wednesday at U.N. headquarters in New York.

RALEIGH — Southern Bell needs an immediate $22-million rate increase to recover losses from the breakup of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., a phone company attorney told the state Utilities Commission Tuesday.

But lawyers for the commission's Public Staff, the attorney general's office and the Carolina Utility Customers Association Inc. said the request should be rejected because Southern Bell's needs can wait until a general rate increase hearing.

Southern Bell filed a request Jan. 16 for a $121-million rate increase that would boost its annual revenue by 22 percent.

The utility simultaneously asked to put $22 million of the request, or 18 percent, into effect immediately. That amounts to a monthly increase for residential customers ranging from 93 cents to $1.17.

RALEIGH — The General Assembly should stop amending state laws through its budget bills, a private policy research group said Tuesday in a report on the state's budget process.

The North Carolina Center for Public Policy Research Inc. also criticized the state's executive branch for putting money to expand existing state programs in the budget for continuing operations at the current level.

The report says the 1983 General Assembly inserted 57 "special provisions" in the budget to amend laws instead of direct spending.

BUTNER — Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt has been moved from a California prison to the Federal Correctional Institute in Butner, officials in Butner said Tuesday.

Charles Stewart, executive assistant to the warden at Butner, confirmed Flynt's arrival but declined further comment.

Flynt's brother, Jimmy, said Larry Flynt was moved out of the Terminal Island correctional facility in Los Angeles Sunday night.
