SCAU and Southern Bell settle out of court

, By KAREN YOUNGBLOOD Staff Writer

The Student Consumer Action Union and Southern Bell settled out of court Monday to avoid a public hearing before the N.C. Utilities Commission.

SCAU and Southern Bell were scheduled for the hearing Wednesday, after SCAU filed a complaint against the telephone company last fall. SCAU had received a number of complaints from students who discovered that custom calling services, such as call waiting, and call forwarding, had been added to their regular monthly telephone service. Some of the students receiving the services said they had been contacted by a representative from Southern Bell who said that the first month of custom calling services would be free on a one-month trial basis. Other students who received the services said they had not been contacted at all.

SCAU decided to investigate the matter and prepared a hand-out for students to help them determine if the customer-calling services had been added. The hand-out also included a questionnaire to determine the extent and manner to which students had been affected, and a petition requesting action to prevent Southern Bell from adding such services without the students' knowledge.

More than 700 students replied through the survey, and SCAU found that of those students, 40 percent had received the services without being contacted by Southern Bell, and 55 percent said they had been offered the services on a one-month trial basis. Only 37 percent of the students were informed that it was the student's responsibility to discontinue the service at the end of the month if they did not want to continue it.

The N.C. attorney general's office decided to intervene on behalf of SCAU and issued a "formal complaint," giving Southern Bell 20 days to respond. Southern Bell responded, but SCAU was not satisfied and requested a formal hear-

SCAU requested four changes in Southern Bell's billing system to avoid future confusion. First, SCAU suggested a redesign of the telephone sign-up form to include space for a signature. This would prevent students from being signed -up without prior knowledge. Secondly, they requested a list of the extra services offered by Southern Bell and the prices on a carbon paper. Southern Bell would also be required to send a confirmation letter to customers after the services had been installed. Finally, SCAU requested that regular monthly bills be itemized for the customer calling services to show customers what services they were being charged for.

Southern Bell agreed to the first three requests. In addition to this agreement, Southern Bell was required to place an advertisement in The Daily Tar Heel to inform the students of the changes made. Former SCAU Chairperson Richard Owens said that SCAU was content with the changes for now. He said he was dissatisfied that SCAU was not granted an itemization of the services. Southern Bell said that such a change would cost the company $250,000 a year.

"They would have to change to an itemized bill state-wide, not just on campus, and they said that it would cost them a quarter of a million dollars to do this. We feel this estimate is too exaggerated, but we would have to hire an economist to prove otherwise, and we don't have the

Owens said he was also dissatisfied with the management of the marketing techniques, such as the one-month free trial. Southern Bell denied ever offering such a trial and said that the students con-

Owens blamed "underhanded marketing techniques on the part of the local company" for the problem. He added that Southern Bell had been very responsible in returning the money to

Khadafy wants siege lifted From Associated Press reports

LONDON - Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy said Thursday that be would settle for "nothing else" than the lifting of the siege of his nation's London embassy.

The British govenment stuck to its demands that it be allowed to question the Libyan diplomats and search for explosives. It also denied Khadafy's allegation that British police were to blame for Tuesday's fatal shooting of a policewoman during an anti-Khadafy demonstration. Witnesses, police officers and videotapes of the incident contradict Khadafy's charges.

British officials also denied receiving a message from U.S. intelligence saying that U.S. spy satellites had intercepted a message from Tripoli to the London embassy telling the embassy to use force against anti-Khadafy demonstrators.

"We had no specific information to lead us to believe that an incident of this kind would occur," the Foreign Office said in a formal statement.

Col. Abraham Turcios, coordinator of the National Commission on Refugees, announced Thursday that refugees from Colomoncagua, the suspected camp, and San Antonia would be moved after the Easter holidays. The proposed relocation site is a 10,000 acre area on the Caribbean coast.

"The Salvadoran refugees have two choices: Allow themselves to be relocated or be expelled from Honduras," Turcios said.

Big jump in economy

WASHINGTON - The economy grew an astonishing 8.3 percent from January to March the Commerce Department reported today.

The department last month estimated that inflation-adjusted growth was 7.2 percent, far above the 6 percent estimated by most economists.

This month's preliminary estimate was based on data from January and February when government indicators showed business activity as extremely
