

Women's soccer opens with four shutouts

By SCOTT SMITH
Staff Writer

This weekend at Fetzer Field the North Carolina women's soccer team may have gotten off to the quickest 4-0 start in history.

Four consecutive shut-outs in two days of the North Carolina Invitational Tournament gave the Tar Heels a dose of early-season momentum.

It started Friday as UNC hosted N.C. Wesleyan in the inaugural tournament's first game. The Tar Heels responded with a 4-0 win, their closest contest of the weekend.

Amy Machin, Joan Dunlap, Emily Pickering and April Heinrichs all scored first-half goals to give the UNC the first shutout.

The second romp came that afternoon against Warren Wilson. Dunlap and freshman Aja Parsons each scored three goals as UNC cruised to a 9-0 victory.

Things weren't any more difficult on Saturday. In the first game, junior striker Jo Boobas exploded for three first-half goals to help UNC coast to another 9-0 victory, this time over Methodist College. Sophomore midfielder Marsha McDermott also chipped in two goals to help out the cause.

The fourth shutout came later against Guilford College. In that one, senior midfielder Emily Pickering put two balls in the back of the net and assisted on another goal to give the Tar Heels an 8-0 win.

UNC outscored its opponents by a total of 30-0 and outshot them, 95-4 over the two days.

Coach Anson Dorrance was pleased after witnessing the sweep, but he wasn't surprised.

"We have enough experience to be able to do that (win back-to-back doubleheaders)," Dorrance said. "With the number of players we had coming back and the newcomers I don't think scheduling four games in two days was a problem."

Of his regulars, Dorrance was most impressed with sophomore striker Dunlap, who had five goals and three assists, plus a hat trick against Warren Wilson. "She showed that she is really excited about the season," Dorrance said. "Joan has come back with a really good approach on how to improve her game. I was really impressed with her play." Dunlap's attitude seems to reflect the feelings of the entire team. After this weekend's tournament, it looks as if there will be no letdown after last year's third straight national championship. Enthusiasm was at a peak on the Tar Heel bench both days.

"In general, the girls are really excited about this season," Dorrance said.

Aja Parsons scored three goals Friday.

McEnroe dominates Lendl in U.S. Open

The Associated Press

John McEnroe again proved himself the number one men's singles player in the world as he dominated Ivan Lendl in the finals of the United States Open tennis tournament Sunday, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

For McEnroe, it was his fourth U.S. Open victory in last six years and his first since 1981, when he defeated Bjorn Borg. This one's outcome was never in doubt. McEnroe used his strong serve-and-volley game to hold serve every set, while refuting speculation that he might be too tired to play well after Saturday's marathon five-setter against Jimmy Connors, which did not end until 11:15 p.m.

Martina Navratilova won her second straight U.S. Open women's title and captured her 55th consecutive victory Saturday with a 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Chris Evert-Lloyd.

exist." Hunt said more new plants were announced in the state last year from American companies than any other state, and more than half the new plants from overseas came to North Carolina. "I go out and work hard for it and Sen. Helms votes against it," Hunt said. "I work for it and you vote against it every time, Jesse." Hunt said Helms is "the only senator I know of that wants to do away with the Social Security plan."
