List of CGC voting districts and candidates

Redistricting and the process of funding campus organizations will be top issues facing the 67th session of the Campus Governing Council after its representatives are elected tomorrow, according to representative Wyatt Closs (Dist. 10). Elections Board Chairman Edwin Fountain worked with the CGC to temporarily redraw CGC districts last month, stressing that the new districts were only for this election and would be changed as soon as the new council was in session. The districts had to be redrawn to comply with the student constitution.

On Feb. 19, Closs, who is running unopposed for his second term, said he would present the council with a set of criteria for judging campus organization's requests for money.

Closs said the council also needed to concentrate on its credibility. Representatives really don't represent their constituents, he said, and are considered a joke by many students.

Following is a list of CGC candidates:

- District 1
Chuck Shafer, 112B Purefoy Road, Law Student
 Goal: To represent the law school and district one as fairly as possible
