

'Curse' tedious for all but Shepard fans

It is a peculiar quality of Sam Shepard's plays that they can be insightful and compelling one moment but opaque and disengaging the next. His is a fractured style, one that weaves together abstruse, meandering monologues and ferociously witty dialogue.

Curse of the Starving Class, which opened Thursday as part of the PlayMakers Repertory Company's PlayFest '85, is, for better and for worse, a quintessential Shepard drama. PRC's rendition of it is a straightforward one that neither trims the eccentric, beat-generation playwright's excesses nor slights his more powerful moments.

Curse treads territory familiar to much of Shepard's work. It is set in a rural limbo whose inhabitants have been fully integrated into mainstream American culture but curiously forgotten by the American dream. The family at the center of this drama owns the land it lives on but derives little of value from it. The family's house is dilapidated; the refrigerator, empty.

Frank Bruni

Review

As Shepard sees it and as the four members of this family demonstrate it, America is not a land of upward mobility but of lateral stasis. Mother Ella wants to get out of both the country and her marriage through the sale of the family's land, but her efforts are doomed from the start, partly because husband Weston has similar intentions. Their daughter, Emma, is a bright student, but she gets little encouragement at home and will soon grow disillusioned. Their son, Wesley, the most enigmatic and least ambitious of this quartet of dreamers, simply wants to live off the land.

The play is at its best when these well-drawn, hauntingly familiar characters interact with each other: each cruelly debunks and ridicules the other's illusions in dialogue that is crisp and witty. Left alone, however, Weston and Wesley especially become the mouthpieces for Shepard's placebo profundities and far-out allegories. Only a few of their monologues are effective.

As Wesley, Bill Goulet must evoke the passiveness with which his character will inherit his father's undistinguished place in society. Teetering on the edge of vapidly, Goulet makes his performance work by using his entire body — its almost imperceptible slouching and twitching and stretching — to convey the turmoil beneath his character's apparent torpor.

Karen Ingenthron adds the most spice to the often murky proceedings. As the groping, griping Ella, she, more than any other member of the cast, cuts to the comic underbelly of self-delusion. That element of self-parody doesn't show up as well in Kathryn Meisle's disappointing portrait of the precocious adolescent Emma. Meisle is a bit too revved-up, often reading her lines in a hysterical, hurried fashion.

Director Gregory Boyd, whose interpretations of the tried-and-true are often irreverent and fascinating, plays it pretty conservative here, perhaps because Shepard's work contains its own elements of lunacy.

PRC's production most certainly does justice to Shepard's work. But it doesn't render his work any more accessible. Shepard fans will be satisfied, and those unacquainted with his work will be intrigued. Those who have never warmed to the musings of America's most overrated playwright, however, will find Curse tedious and tiresome.

Curse of the Starving Class will be performed by the PlayMakers Repertory Company at 8 p.m. today, Feb. 15, 20, 26 and 28, and at 5 and 9 p.m. Feb. 23 in Paul Green Theatre. Call 962-1121 for ticket information.

SPORTS

When it comes to loyalty, diehard wrestling fans can't be matched

By BOB YOUNG
Staff Writer

Wrestling fans . . . They're the most biased, most loyal, loudest, rowdiest, hardest-on-the-referee fans in the world. They'll shout U!S!A! U!S!A! at the mere sight of red, white and blue. Bruce Springsteen sings about wrestling fans.

Fans at UNC home wrestling matches are taken from the same mold. Although it's a little tougher to get a U!N!C! U!N!C! out of them (unless N.C. State visits Carmichael Auditorium), they are still the epitome of sports fandom.

"I like the action and excitement," said David Stone, a sophomore from Mt. Pilot. "I wrestled when I was in high school and once you're involved in wrestling, it's hard to stay away."

Marc Greenberg, a UNC graduate and Chapel Hill resident, agreed.

"I just love wrestling," he says. "I come to every home match that I'm in town for."

"We're just out looking for a little sports action to start the night off and we're big Tar Heel fans," say Bennett Colle and Al Gorry, freshmen from Chapel Hill and Hickory, respectively.

But Gorry has another reason to be a wrestling fan. Like many of the fans, he is linked to the Tar Heel wrestling program by family ties.

"My brother, Tom, was a senior on the team last year and my family and I would come over and watch him wrestle a lot," he said. "I still like to come out and watch the team."

"This is the second match I've come to this year," said Steve Purich, father of Todd Purich, a backup wrestler at 126 from Johnstown, Pa. "It gives me a chance to leave the snow for a couple of days." Carol Richards, wife of the Tar Heel assistant coach Dean Richards, is also a migrant from Pennsylvania, where her husband was a high school coach and led the Pennsylvania team in national high school all-star competitions.

"I just love it down here. I come to all of the matches," she said. "The area is just so positive. C'mon ref! Where are the back points? And wrestling is really starting to catch on down here."

Other fans come because they have friends on the team.

"I was roommates with Stacey Davis my freshman year," says Stanley Brown, a junior from Lillington. "So I really got involved in wrestling through him. I've been to most of the home matches since then."

Whatever their reasons for going to the matches, all the fans are extremely biased towards the Tar Heels. One fan refused to be interviewed, saying he was "too biased" to say anything worthwhile.

"This team is very young and very talented — just an excellent team," Purich says. "I'm very happy my son came to school down here."

"This year's team is the most outstanding one I've seen here," Greenberg says. "They're definitely one of the better schools in the nation and what's more, they put together a top-notch Division I schedule. They're very young and in a couple of years they're going to be contending for the national title."

And what about the losses to N.C. State this far this season?

"Just flukes," he says. "But UNC will definitely take the ACC tournament (being held in Carmichael). I'll be here cheering them on."

SCOREBOARD
Calendar
Today
WOMEN'S BASKETBALL vs. Duke at Carmichael Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.	MEN'S SWIMMING at N.C. State, 7 p.m.
Wednesday
MEN'S BASKETBALL at Maryland, 7 p.m.	MEN'S FENCING at N.C. State, TBA
Thursday
WOMEN'S SWIMMING at ACC Championship in Clemson, S.C.	BASEBALL at Stetson, 3 p.m.
Friday
BASEBALL at Stetson, 3 p.m.	MEN'S GOLF at Hilton Head Intercollegiate (Palmetto Dunes)
WOMEN'S TENNIS at Indiana Invitational, Bloomington, Ind.	WOMEN'S SWIMMING at ACC Championship in Clemson, S.C.
Saturday
MEN'S BASKETBALL at N.C. State, 1:30 p.m.	MEN'S FENCING tournament at Ferrer gym, TBA
WOMEN'S TENNIS tournament at Ferrer gym, TBA	GYMNASTICS vs. Jacksonville State and Southeast Missouri in Jacksonville, Ala.
BASEBALL at Central Florida, 1 p.m.	MEN'S GOLF at Hilton Head Intercollegiate (Palmetto Dunes)
WOMEN'S TENNIS at Indiana Invitational, Bloomington, Ind.	MEN'S TENNIS at Tennessee, 10 a.m.
WRESTLING vs. Appalachian State and The Citadel, 2 p.m.

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity
announces it will hold Formal Rush in the Club Room of the Carolina Inn

CHAPEL HILL PLAZA 3
ELLIOTT RD. at E. FRANKLIN
967-4737 $2.00 TIL 6:00 PM
2:30 • 4:45 • 7:00 • 9:15
Dudley Moore
Micki & Maude (PG-13)
2:15 • 5:25 • 8:35
Dir. by David Lean
CHAPEL HILL—DURHAM
DOLBY STEREO EXCLUSIVE
WINNER of 3 Golden Globe
Awards incl. Best Foreign Film

A PASSAGE TO INDIA
PG-13
2:45 • 5:00 • 7:15 • 9:30
Dir. by Peter Weir
Harrison Ford is John Book.
A big city cop.
A small country boy.
They have nothing in common
but a murder.
WITNESS
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Royal Park Kingswood
Estes Booker Park Creek
UNIVERSITY LAKE
Avoid the lottery bl. Apply now!
All apartments on the bus line to UNC. Fantastic Social Program. Call today for full information. 967-2231 or 967-2234. In North Carolina call toll-free 1-800-672-1678. Nationwide, call toll-free 1-800-334-1656.
The Apartment People

CLASS GIFT 1985
Seniors
OUR SPIRIT IS SHOWING NOW
"My pledge to the '85 Senior Class Gift Campaign is a way of giving back to the University a small measure of my appreciation for the benefits I've derived from being a student here."
—Sally Pistole
Vice President, Class of '85

AMADEUS 2:00, 7:00 ONLY / THE 4TH MAN 4:50, 9:50 ONLY
STRANGER THAN PARADISE 3:00, 5:00, 7:30 and 9:30
EXTRA! "BUCKAROO BANZAI" 11:45 FRI & SAT
"BEST AMERICAN FILM!"
—Nat'l Society of Film Critics
—Godfrey Cheshire
AMADEUS
WINNER—THE FOUR TOP GOLDEN GLOBE AWARDS!
HURRY, ENDS THUR "BEST FOREIGN FILM!"
—L.A. Film Critics
STRANGER THAN PARADISE
KINTEK KINTEK STEREO

1984-85
RALPH CLAY PRICE PEACE LECTURE

"How Do We Work for Peace?"
Tuesday, February 12
8:00 PM
Hamilton Hall Auditorium
The University of North Carolina
at Chapel Hill
Sponsored By
Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense
Honorable Patricia Schroeder
U.S. Representative — Colorado

AN INTERNATIONAL CONVOCATION
DUKE UNIVERSITY
FEBRUARY 11-13, 1985
THE THIRD WORLD
The Third World:
A Twenty-five Year Retrospective and Prospective:
An International Convocation at Duke University
February 11-13, 1985
Monday, February 11 6:00 pm Baldwin Auditorium, East Campus • Keynote Address by his Excellency Shridath Ramphal
Tuesday, February 12 9-12:00 Searle Center
• Development Priorities Panel
• 12:00-1:00 Duke University Bryan Center "Crisis in Opportunity" by Andrew Young, Mayor of Atlanta
• 2:30-5:00 Searle Center Panel on Authoritarianism and Military rule
Wednesday, February 13 Searle Center
• 9:00-12:00 Searle Center/Panel on International Debt
• 12:00-1:00 Duke Chapel/Presentation of Honorary Degree to Dr. Ramphal
For more information phone (919) 684-2764
Sessions are free and open to the public. Free Parking is available across Duke University Road from the Alumni Affairs Building.

JOIN THE TASTE EVOLUTION

It's a new era of great taste, when you try a delicious Subway sub or salad. Better food than you've had in an age!
The Fresh... Alternative
Franklin Centre Chapel Hill
Willow Creek Shopping Center Carrboro
SUBWAY Sandwiches & Salads

FREE TO STUDENTS
1985 NATIONAL COLLEGIATE DRIVING CHAMPIONSHIPS
The Union Social Committee presents
1985 National Collegiate Driving championships
Feb. 12 and 13
SAC lot—behind Hinton James
FREE
10am to 5pm
with ID and Drivers License
DRIVE THE 1985 DODGE DAYTONA TURBO AND WIN
SPONSORED BY
Dodge
ZAP... Over $125,000 in prizes will be awarded in the 3rd Annual National Collegiate Driving Championships brought to you by Dodge and other participating sponsors.
National Grand Finals Awards
1st Place $5,000 cash scholarship and use of a Dodge Daytona Turbo for 1 year
2nd Place $3,000 cash scholarship and use of a Dodge Daytona Turbo for 1 year
3rd Place $2,000 cash scholarship and use of a Dodge Daytona Turbo for 1 year *complete rally and prize award rules available at competition site
WITH ADDITIONAL SPONSORSHIP FROM
GOODYEAR UNION 76 ocean pacific
Newsweek On Campus
EASTERN
National Highway Traffic Safety Administration
National Safety Council
SPORTS CAR CLUB OF AMERICA