"I was very pleased when we drew the 10 a.m. game," Roberts said. "I felt like that would make us ready to play."
 Karpuk had his reservations at first, but adjusted quickly.
 "I haven't seen 6:30 since I was about 10 years old," he said. "When the alarm went off and I saw B.J. (one of his roommates) getting up, I couldn't believe it was 6:30. I didn't think it was time to get up. But once we got to the ballpark, we were ready. We knew we were gonna win."

 Still, none of the Tar Heels could have predicted winning the way they did.
 "We expected Duke to come after us," Bell said. "We really wanted to come out and attack them, but we didn't expect what happened to happen."

The Tar Heels likely will go with their top pitcher, Roger Williams, tonight and Clemson is expected to start George Stone.
 Today's other games are N.C. State-Virginia at 10 a.m., Maryland-Duke at 1 p.m. and Georgia Tech-Wake Forest at 4:30 p.m.
