

Letter from The CAA President

The Carolina Athletic Association was established in 1894 before transportation made intercollegiate athletics viable. At that time the CAA's role was to encourage, develop and maintain athletics at Carolina. At first athletics at Carolina were solely intramural, but as transportation improved and neighboring schools became more accessible, the CAA sent Chapel Hill into the world of intercollegiate competition. Competition against other schools was a successful addition to Carolina's extracurricular makeup so that athletics and the CAA quickly became more important. As athletics evolved more and more, it became necessary for the student-run CAA to pass the administrative responsibilities over to a professional athletic administration.

Today the CAA is the student group responsible for linking the student body to the administration on athletic issues. Specifically, the CAA is responsible for devising and implementing a ticket policy for the distribution of student football and basketball tickets, and for organizing and executing Homecoming. What is done beyond these two responsibilities is a measure of the vitality of the CAA. This year, we will develop the centrally located CAA office (Suite A of the Carolina Union) as an information center of everything athletic that is happening in Chapel Hill. We will also determine what roles may be available for our student body in the 1987 National Sports Festival which will be held in the Chapel Hill-Raleigh-Durham triangle. Most important though, we will be available to bring any suggestions that you may have on ways to improve Carolina's Athletic opportunities to the administration. Since we are your representatives, this is our responsibility—so hold us to it.

To be successful the CAA needs a good strong team, and in our game,

Letter from The Educational Foundation

The Educational Foundation, Incorporated, of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was chartered December 7, 1938 to provide assistance to the University for the following:

1. To offer financial aide to worthy young men and women seeking an education at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill;
2. To support University programs by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

The Foundation operates in compliance with all rules and regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

During the 1985-86 school year, the Educational Foundation will help 400 young men and women attend the University through its athletic grant-in-aid program. In excess of 1.8 million dollars will be provided in scholarship funds under the Foundation's auspices in the coming year.

The diverse intercollegiate athletic program at Carolina, consisting of 26 varsity sports (13 for men and 13 for women) benefits from its association with the Educational Foundation. The outstanding work of the participants, coaches and staff annually results in outstanding national recognition for UNC athletics and high placings in ACC and NCAA competition.

In the 1980's alone, UNC teams have won seven national team championships—one in men's basketball, four in women's soccer and two in lacrosse.

strength comes from both quality and numbers. The Homecoming committee will need the most help. Joe Stewart and Marc Wright are leading this group and encourage a lot of help. They plan a major concert, a traditional parade, several parties scattered all over campus and many special events to make RAMPAGE '85 a success for students and alumni alike. Gene Krcelic, the editor of this newspaper, heads the Publicity group. He will need people to handle everyday publicity, Homecoming publicity, ticket distribution publicity and he will need a dedicated group to compile a new edition of this paper for the Spring. Spero Papadopoulos is in charge of Special Projects, which includes the 1987 Sports Festival and any improvement in the system which students suggest. Vanessa Pope leads the Ticket Committee, and while she doesn't need manpower, she encourages suggestions. Maurice DeBerry handles our finances and is always looking for legal ways to raise funds. Angie Smits and I will help where help is needed and will take care of everything else. We will all hold office hours and will look forward to hearing from you.

While many of you may be too busy to work with the CAA, I'm sure you'll take advantage of Carolina's incredible athletic facilities and opportunities. Whether you compete intercollegiately on a Varsity, JV or Club team, whether you compete with a group of friends in the Intramural Program, whether you take a P.E. class or, most importantly, whether you're a TARHEEL SPORTS FAN (TSF), you'll be participating in Carolina athletics. Have a good Fall semester, and bring us your suggestions.

Mark H. Pavao
President

NCAA individual championships have been won by swimmers Sue Walsh and Barb Harris, wrestler C.D. Mock, golfer John Inman and fencer John Friedberg. National Player-of-the-Year accolades have been awarded to basketball stars James Worthy and Michael Jordan, lacrosse player Tom Sears, baseball phenom B.J. Surhoff and women's soccer stalwart April Heinrichs.

All of these accomplishments have been helped made possible by the generous support of the members of the Educational Foundation.

Letter from The UNC Athletic Director

The University of North Carolina has a wealth of athletic opportunity on our campus. We hope you will avail yourself of the broad range of athletic participation be it as spectator of any or all of the 26 sports that we field, or personal exercise on the many levels of competition that the University of North Carolina so proudly makes available. The 1985-86 year would be incomplete without some involvement on each of our student's part in our athletic program. We wish you a very successful and enjoyable year, both in your athletic and academic involvement.

John D. Swofford
Director of Athletics

Letter from The Editor

"UNC Sports" is a comprehensive sports newspaper to inform every Carolina student about the wealth of athletics available at UNC. Whether you are interested in Varsity Football or Waterpolo, "UNC Sports" will help you decipher the complicated world of find-it-yourself by giving you the essential facts on more than 75 sports [sports not only at the Varsity level, but junior varsity, club, intramural and recreational sports, as well]. The newspaper is designed to make it easy to locate the sport or sports that interest you most and give you easy access to them by supplying numbers and names for your convenience.

Even though in the first few weeks of school you will be inundated with countless newspapers and paper work, most of which will inevitably find file 13, "UNC Sports" is a publication that you should consider keeping. It will supply you with schedules, rules, important dates, maps, names, numbers and countless other sources of information about sports at Carolina. We tried to design the newspaper so it will be easy to read, understand and find what you are looking for in a hurry.

If, at any time, you have trouble finding information about athletics, Homecoming, ticket distribution or anything that somehow relates to sports, call the Carolina Athletic Association at 962-4300 and the staff members will help you to the best of our ability. If we can not answer your question, we will guide you in the right direction to get you what you want to know.

I hope this newspaper is valuable to all who are fortunate enough to get a copy. Good luck this year and we hope to see you involved with Carolina sports.

Gene Krcelic
Editor

Thanks to all the people who helped to make this newspaper a success, primarily, Mary Fields. Without her the paper would have been far behind schedule. Thanks to Joe Stewart, Vanessa Pope, Ken Brown, Moyer Smith, Mark Pavao, James Wellons, Steve Camp, Mike Schoor, Glenn and Tom, and everyone else who made this newspaper possible. I hope it serves its purpose and helps all the students of Carolina.
