for consideration, and Torgan said the congress deserved the opportunity to consider other people.

Hassel said he had chosen Lillie because he was dedicated and had experience. Also, he said, "(Lillie is) ... catching so much heat that he will be under a lot of pressure to really do the job."

In an interview after the meeting, Hassel said he would open the application process again because only one other person had applied for the position.

Lillie said that his biggest mistake in the last election was his not having enough people on the board. Because of this, he said, many mistakes were not detected.

Torgan said the mistakes of the last election caused students to lose respect for the election process.

Neil Riemann (Dist. 12) said there would always be election controversies because people want to win. "I think you have a person here who is dedicated," he said.

Steve Griffin (Dist. 5) said, "Lillie's experience on the board has not eliminated his lack of foresight."

Libya

north African nation.

The Libyans also said there were new U.S. air attacks Wednesday against Tripoli and towns south and east of the city. But the Pentagon denied it, and reporters here found no signs of new bombardments.

Tripoli has been blacked out since Tuesday's bombing. Lights around the hotel, in the port, and along the coast flashed back on after the speech.

Earlier Wednesday, the Libyan state radio angrily called again for Arab nations to attack U.S. targets.

"Kill the Americans, civilian and military, wherever you may find them! ... Kill him after you kill his children in front of him," it said.

In Beirut, Lebanon, the Abu Nidal organization, the most feared Palestinian terror group, issued a statement warning that U.S. institutions "will be the target of our retaliatory blows."

Americans 'on alert'

The threats put Americans on alert internationally.

●In West Germany, base for 250,000 American troops and site of numerous terror attacks, U.S. Army personnel were ordered to stay off the streets overnight.

●In Washington, Adm. William Crowe, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the danger to American soldiers and diplomats "is very high around the world."

●In Khartoum, capital of Libya's neighbor Sudan, a U.S. Embassy communications technician was seriously wounded when shot in the head late Tuesday near the Libyan embassy. U.S. officials said, however, there was no evidence Libya was behind the attack.

Anti-aircraft fire broke out for a half-hour Wednesday in the capital, and Libyan officials said the target was a U.S. reconnaissance plane. Reporters heard small arms and mortar fire and saw apparent street skirmishes near Khadafy's headquarters.

Radio reports U.S. raids

Libya radio claimed U.S. jets Wednesday raided the Tarhounah area, 50 miles south of Tripoli, and Allous, 40 miles east of Tripoli, and that four U.S. jets were shot down. It said the U.S. jets failed to hit their targets.

The radio also claimed four U.S. war planes were shot down in a raid Tuesday night. U.S. officials said the only American attack was before dawn Tuesday, and Pentagon representative

Fred Hoffman said Wednesday that he could not discuss U.S. reconnaissance operations.

U.S. officials said they halted a search for a F-111 fighter-bomber with two crew members missing since the attack. They said it may have crashed in the Mediterranean en route to Libya.

Pentagon sources, while refusing to be specific, said efforts have been made to survey the Libyan targets using satellites and reconnaissance planes. The sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

Khadafy failed to appear Wednesday for a promised news conference, which was to have been his first public appearance since the bombing. Libyan officials insisted he was unhurt by the bombing and denied reports he had fled Libya.

About 70 reporters in a bus were nearing Khadafy's sprawling headquarters compound for Wednesday's news conference when small arms fire started about 500 feet from the vehicle.

"Gunfire started and they wheeled the bus around and started back. I turned and saw rounds ricocheting off the street," said Associated Press correspondent Robert H. Reid, who was on the bus. He said it was not clear who was involved in the fighting.

"As we went back through neighborhoods in a rush, traffic was crazy. People were trying to get out of the way," he said.

Ibrahim Seger of the Foreign Information Department said, "It's anti-aircraft fire. When they heard an American plane overhead, they started shooting."

Western diplomats estimated the death toll from the bombing at 100. Libyan officials would say only that many people were killed, and hospitals said up to 100 people were injured in one residential area.

Khadafy compound crushed

Bombs wrecked Khadafy's house and ruined his tennis court during the raid by American warplanes that targeted the Azziziyah fortress where the Libyan leader lives and works.

The American jets devastated several buildings, but a Libyan official escorting a group of journalists to the compound said Khadafy survived the Tuesday night bombing.

"He was in his tent," not at his home during the raid, explained a white-turbaned guide strolling through a short promenade littered with shards of glass, broken palm tree branches and shrapnel.

her class. You've got to do it her way."

But Lumpkin does have another life outside of class, sports and Woolen Gym. She is involved in her church, holding Bible studies weekly. "I love to cook, read, and cross-stitch," Lumpkin added.

Lumpkin said she also relaxes by being alone. "I like to be by myself," she said. "I live in a house by myself away from the University. Sometimes, I'll go out in the backyard, sit in a lawn chair and listen to the wind whistle through the pine trees. It's a good release."

Marby said she thinks that Lumpkin is very deserving of the outstanding young woman award. "I think she should've gotten it sooner," she said. "She's a real hard worker and holds a tremendous amount of responsibility here at the University."

Lumpkin describes herself as "committed, enthusiastic, and friendly."
