Heaven," an area apartment guide, and the "Franklin Street Gourmet" restaurant guide. SCAU also operates a Roommate Referral Service in the spring, a Comparison Shopper service and complaint mediation. Positions are available for students in writing, editing, complaints, the computer staff and other areas.

• Student Government, Executive Branch includes the offices of president, vice-president and executive committee members. This body researches various issues such as drinking on campus and parking problems, among many other things. Students can become involved by filling out an application in Suite C of the Student Union.

• Student Government, Judicial Branch, part of the University Honor System, comprises the Office of the Student Attorney General and the Undergraduate Honor Court, which hears the cases of student honor code violators. Applications for the staff and court are also available in Suite C.

• The UNC Anti-Apartheid Support Group is designed to educate students about the injustices being committed in South Africa. The group regularly holds protests; last year they constructed shanties on campus to simulate the conditions facing blacks under the apartheid system of government. The group meets weekly in the Student Union.

• The UNC Loreleis is an a capella singing group of 12 women that performs two concerts at UNC annually, as well as for alumni and community organizations.
