

New BOT officials chosen by Trustees

From staff reports

S. Bobo Tanner III was elected the new chairman of the Board of Trustees Thursday, and two other officers were elected in the BOT's first meeting of the school year.

Tanner, the Board's former vice chairman, was elected to a one-year term, taking the seat held by J. Clint Newton Jr. No other members were nominated, and after a motion was made to make no other nominations, Tanner was declared the winner by acclamation.

Tanner, 59, is chairman of the board of Tanner Companies Inc., a Rutherfordton clothing firm. A UNC trustee since 1981, the Charlotte native attended UNC from 1945-49.

The board also elected Robert C. Eubanks as vice chairman, filling the position vacated by Tanner. Earl N. Phillips Jr. was the other nominee.

Eubanks, 48, of Greensboro is president of McMillan/Eubanks Co., an investment-counseling firm. The Durham County native graduated with a bachelor's degree from UNC in 1961.

The board also re-elected Elizabeth S. "Pepper" Dowd to the secretary post after no other nominations were made.

Dowd, 55, of Charlotte has long been active in UNC affairs and civic activities in Mecklenburg County. She attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College and graduated with a bachelor's degree from UNC in 1953.

The board also re-elected Eliza-research universities with whom we must compete daily," he said.

The BOT also discussed this year's enrollment statistics. More than 22,000 students are enrolled in UNC classes this year, including 3,300 freshman. The freshmen were drawn from a pool that had increased by 21 percent over recent years. About 87 percent were in the top quarter of their high schools.

The freshman class is made up of more women than men, about a 60-40 ratio, and 313 are minority students. "They make a great addition to the University," Fordham told the board.

Alcohol policy discussed

Donald A. Boulton, dean of Student Affairs, told the Trustees about UNC's revised policy on drugs and alcohol. The University has always had a policy consistent with state and federal laws, and the policy was revised to comply with the Sept. 1 drinking-age hike, Boulton said. UNC's policy went into effect Aug. 17, the day students returned to school.

Judith R. Cowan, director of Student Health Service, said that Student Health is organizing education efforts, "recognizing that reliable health information leads to positive changes in attitudes." Drug and alcohol use is a widespread societal problem, and this campus is no exception, she said.

Applications for hardship parking available from Student Government

By STEPHANIE BURROW
Staff Writer

Students who are used to parking long-term in metered spaces downtown should take note of the increased ticket fines for overparking in Chapel Hill.

Since April 15, violations that were $1 have been $5, and tickets have been handed out more frequently, according to Keith Lohmann of the Chapel Hill Police Department.

"We have also staggered the late fee penalty so that the penalty increases as delinquency increases," he said.

Fines are now raised $5 for each additional 10 days after payment is due. After 30 days, the fee is $5 per month.

The collection procedure for fines also has changed, Lohmann said. Using civil courts instead of criminal courts will help speed up the process and allow the town to keep more of the revenues, he said.

Rates for parking meters were raised in April to a penny a minute, Lohmann said.

Using the old rates, between $80,000 and $100,000 was brought in annually from parking tickets, Lohmann estimated.

"The purpose of the new policy, however, is not to increase town revenues," Lohmann said. "The purpose is to discourage storage parking."

Even if more money has been put into a meter, an officer will give the driver a ticket if he recognizes that the car has been parked in the space over the time limit, he said.

Drivers seeking longer-term parking can use one of the four municipal lots. Two are on East Rosemary Street, one is on West Rosemary, and one is on West Franklin Street near Yates Motor Company.

Formerly, any customer who was parked for a fraction of an hour was charged for a half-hour.

They will now be charged for a full hour of parking, he said.

Lohmann said the available downtown parking should be adequate.

"The lot on West Franklin is never full; it almost always stays empty," he said.

Marriot bypassed by drought effects

By BETH WILLIAMS
Staff Writer

But the Marriott Corporation, which oversees food service on-campus, has done a few things voluntarily to conserve water. During the summer session, salad bar arrangements were changed to conserve ice. Marriott also is offering paper cups and plates to students and faculty wishing to use them.

Dux said no compromises on sanitation or food handling will be made in any circumstances.

If the water shortage worsens, Marriott may use paper products, which would cost a great deal of money.
