AMERICAN

Weekend slate features Smith Center contests

By DAVID HALL

Depressed over the cold winter weather? Or are you itching to do more than get drunk and catch a nosebleed while watching the men's basketball game against Tech? This Saturday's smorgasbord of Tar Heel sports action can help cure the winter

The action starts at 8 a.m. as the men's and women's fencing entourage travels to Duke to take on the squads from Wofford, Fairleigh Dickinson and the much hated teams from N.C. State and Duke. The men are led by sabre fencer Carl Elmore and freshman sensation Pete Farquhar, while the women are headed by the brilliant All-American Nhi Le.

Meanwhile, back in Chapel Hill, the Tar Heel men's and women's track teams inaugurate their home schedule by engaging in a dual meet against the Bulldogs from Georgia. (Remember Jan Kemp?) The competition will take place at the sparkling Hilton Indoor Track Complex, adjacent to Fetzer Field, at high noon. The men feature the talented sophomore Brad Sullivan, who already has qualified for the NCAA Championships in the 60yard dash, while the women are led by freshman track goddess Mia Pollard.

If, however, you feel it's too cold for track, then you can hop on over to Carmichael Auditorium for a gymnastics meet. The Tar Heels will be hosting teams from State and George Mason University. North Carolina, coming off of its seasonopening drubbing of James Madison, is headed by 4-11 junior All-American Stacy Kaplan of Rochester, New York. The fun and festivities begin at 1 p.m.

At 2 p.m., the North Carolina women's basketball squad will engage in a battle with the Yellow Jackets from Georgia Tech. UNC's balanced attack is led by center Dawn Royster while Georgia Tech features its leviathan All-ACC center, Delores Bootz. This game will Huey Lewis, be hip.

Dawn Royster

. . . leads women vs. Tech

The climax of this great day in Tar Heel athletic lore will occur, naturally, with the men's basketball game against 9-5 Georgia Tech. Though Tech is having a somewhat disappointing year, as evidenced by their one-point, last-second loss to

Stacy Kaplan

. . . UNC's top gymnast

Clemson, they always play UNC tough. The Tar Heels are headed by their brilliant point guard, Kenny Smith, and freshman sensation J.R. Reid, while Tech is led by the triumvirate of Tom Hammonds, Bruce Dairymple and Duane Ferrell. Ferrell is the ACC's leading scorer. This clash can also be seen at the awe-inspiring Dean Dome at 8 p.m.

As can be seen, there is plenty of action in the land of the Tar Heel this weekend, so find your favorites and be there. Don't be hip.

3 named to field hockey teams

Two players and an assistant coach from the UNC field hockey team were named recently to to three U.S. national teams following tryouts last month at Rutgers University in Piscataway, N.J.

Louise Hines, 23, a fifth-year senior who served as an assistant to coach Karen Shelton-Scroggs in 1986, will play for the U.S. National team. Hines was a two-time AllAmerica while playing at UNC and was a member of the 1986 Junior National team.

Lori Bruney, a first-team All-America selection in 1986, will compete for the U.S. Junior National team. The Tar Heel junior is a native of Alphretta, Ga.

team All-America pick last season.

Wake

"Coach Smith got on us and said we just weren't enthusiastic like we had been in earlier games," said Reid, who scored 13 points on 6of-7 shooting and pulled down seven rebounds. "We knew we had a job to do and we just did it better in the second half."

Jeff Lebo and Dave Popson contributed 14 and 12 points, respectively, to the UNC effort, nullifying a 22-point performance by Wake's talented freshman Sam Ivy. The Tar Heels' leading-scorer Kenny Smith had only three points, but held Deacon point guard Tyrone "Muggsy" Bogues to two points, 12 below his average, on 1-for-10 shooting. "It seemed like Muggsy and I had the same assignment," Smith said. "We were just to keep each other out of the game and let the rest play 4-on-

Bogues did have 15 assists, however, and as always was the waterbug that skirted through and around the UNC defense. "We probably could have beaten another team tonight, but this was Carolina," Bogues said.

Wake was still in the game with 10 minutes left, only down 55-47. But Lebo hit a three-point play, Wolf followed a missed shot and Lebo drilled one from the top of the key to give UNC a 15-point lead, 62-47. Wake only scored six points in the last 10:40, and Dean Smith's human victory cigar, Marty Hensley, even hit a 15-footer for the Tar Heels' final points.

"I thought we played an excellent game for 20 minutes," Deacon coach Bob Staak said. "North Carolina has better depth than we do, and I

ACC Standings

from page 1

Team	ACC	Overall
UNC	5-0	16-1
Clemson	4-0	17-0
N.C. State	4-2	12-4
Duke	3-2	13-3
Virginia	2-2	12-4
Georgia Tech	1-3	9-6
Maryland	0-4	4-6
Wake Forest	0-5	8-7

Thursday's Results Virginia 61, Ga. Tech 58 UNC 79, Wake Forest 53

thought that was the difference down the stretch."

Another difference was UNC's shooting percentage. The Tar Heels hit 60.4 percent for the game, and 15-of-24 shots for a 62.5 mark in the second half. Wake Forest, on the other hand, hit only eight-of-33 attempts for a 24.2 percentage in the final 20 minutes, and shot only 36.5 percent for the game.

UNC 79, Wake Forest 53

Wolf 8-13 3-3 19, Popson 5-8 2-2 12, Reid 6-7 1-5 13, Lebo 4-9 5-5 14, K. Smith 1-6 0-0 3, R. Smith 2-32-26, Hunter 3-40-06, Williams 1-10-12, Bucknall 1-1 0-0 2, Hensley 1-1 0-0 2. Totals: 32-53 13-18 79. WAKE FOREST (53) lvy 10-13 2-2 22, Cline 7-13 1-2 18, Keith 0-1 0-0 0, Black 3-15 0-0 7, Bogues 1-10 0-0 2, Boyd 0-3 0-0 0, Dickens 2-3 0-2 4, Kitley 0-3 0-1 0, Johnson 0-2 0-0 0. Totals: 23-63 3-7 53.

Halftime: UNC 39, Wake 33. Three point goals: UNC - 1-5 (Lebo 1-3, K. Smith 1-2), Wake - 4-12 (Cline 3-6, Black 1-2, Bogues 0-4). Rebounds: UNC 38 (Wolf, Popson, Reid 7), Wake Forest 28 (Ivy 7). Assists: UNC 21 (Lebo 5), Wake Forest 19 (Bogues 15). A - 4,500.

UNC Athlete of the Week

This week's somewhat belated UNC Athlete of the Week is not, we repeat NOT, J.R. Reid. We'll give him an honorable mention for tying the UNC freshman scoring record of 31 points Sunday against N.C. State.

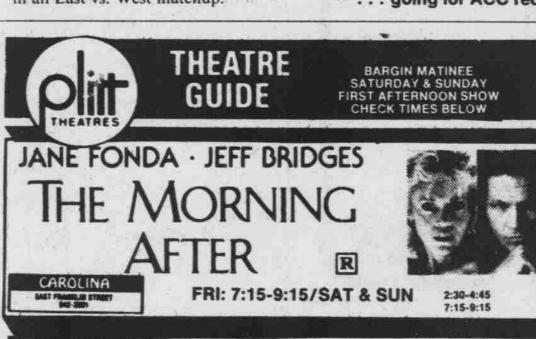

But the honoree in this installment of the UNCAOTW is on the verge of a more impressive record. Al Palacio, the nation's top-ranked wrestler in the 118-lb. division is only two wins shy of an ACC record for career victories. Palacio is 29-0 this season, bringing his collegiate record to 110-17-3. Clemson's Greg Snyder compiled 112 wins in his career.

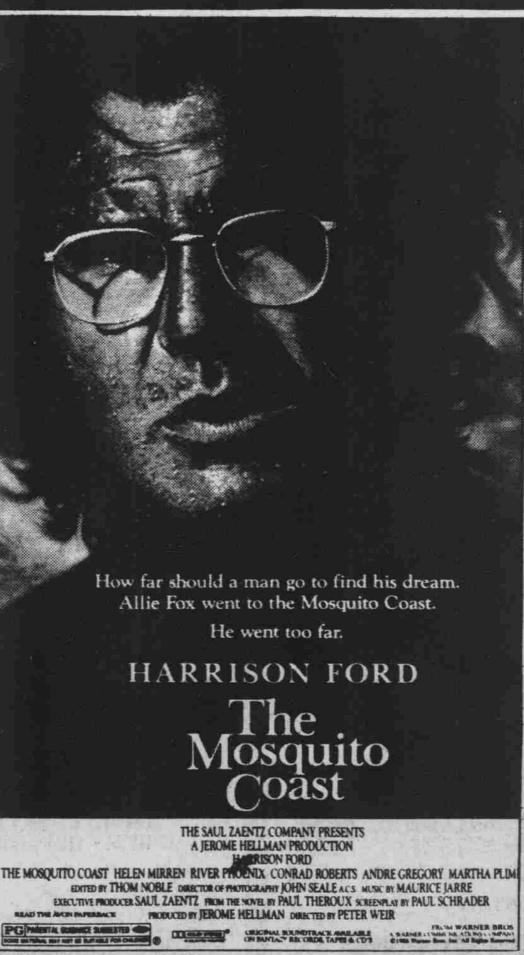

Also, Palacio, along with teammate Rob Koll, has been selected to compete later in the year in the National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Star Classic, which features the best wrestlers from each coast in an East vs. West matchup.

Al Palacio

... going for ACC record

FRI SAT&SUN

7:00-9:30

CAROLINA

EAST FRANKLIN STREET 942-3061

SPRING SEMESTER 4 FOR THE DISCOUNTS

CHAPEL HILL'S MORNING NEWSPAPER!

F ~ LOC/ ATIONS: DA

FREE SUBSCRIPTION

묾

N FRONT

NCNB PLAZ

BUREAU

2:00-4:30 7:00-9:30

mark the second time that the women will play in the immaculate "House that Dean Built," so plenty of good seats will be available. Be there or be square - or, if you're

Tracey Yurgin, a sophomore from

Smyrna, Del., was named to the U.S. Under 21 team. She was a second-

Ticket distribution imperfect

By PHYLLIS A. FAIR

You can please some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can never please student basketball goers at UNC.

Lately many students have expressed their dissatisfaction with the present basketball ticket distribution system, saying that it is not fair, said Mark Pavao, president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Pavao said the CAA's goal was to create a policy that would be the most convenient for most of the student body. "We realize that we're not going to please everyone, but our aim is to please as many people as possible. "I think the policy as it stands now, I'm talking about the physical policy, is the best policy I've seen in the last four years that I've been here," he said. In the present policy, student tickets are distributed on Mondays beginning at 6:30 a.m. The tickets are randomly distributed, meaning that a student who camps out for tickets has no advantage except an assurance of receiving one of the 7,500 CHECK student tickets allocated.

Some students disagree with Pavao's assessment. "I think getting tickets on Mondays is a crock," said Derrick Cole, a junior computer science major from Charlotte. "This policy isn't structured right. The old policy - first-come first-serve for the lower level and random upper level is better.

"The fans who are really dedicated to the sport are the ones who should get the good seats," he said. "The first system was great."

Michael Hauser, a third-year law student and a ticket distributor from Tobaccoville, said he liked the present system. It was better than having to wait up all night to get tickets, and "one's dedication isn't commensurate to staying up all night."

Although Hauser likes this system better, he said he didn't like getting up early in order to distribute the tickets at 6:30.

Some students suggested that distribution should return to the weekends. "There is a conflict with some students with classes," said Mike Harris, a junior education major from Henderson.

"I don't think there would be a conflict if it was on the weekends." he said.

Several students seemed pleased with the new system, because it allows students to have more time and days to go get tickets, and they don't have to wait in long lines like they did in the past to get tickets.

"I think it's better than the system we had last year, because we don't have to camp out for tickets," said Valerie Williams, a sophomore political science major from Warsaw.

"The time period is good," she said. "They need to leave the system like it is."

One student said she didn't think the system's random distribution was actually that. "I don't like the distribution because it doesn't seem to be really random," said Jill Hershman, a senior psychology major from Reidsville "The way they did it in Carmichael was a lot more fair, where the tickets were in the pockets and you couldn't see the tickets," she said. "Separating the tickets beforehand is more random than it is now." According to Pavao, however, all of the tickets except for the buffer zone ones are random. The first thing the ticket office does is set aside the number of tickets that will go in the blocks and randomly mix the upperand lower-level tickets.

All remaining tickets are then grouped either in fours, sixes, or twos, put into envelopes and thrown into the air to obtain a random distribution, he said.

Ruth Prescott, a fourth-year pharmacy student from New Bern, said that there has to be a better way of distributing tickets, because getting up early on Monday mornings is hard.

"I have an eight o'clock class, and it's kind of hard to get here and get tickets," she said.

The CAA picked the 6:30 starting time so students could get tickets before classes began. "Just because the ticket office opens at that time does not mean that students who don't get there at that time won't get tickets." Pavao said.

Babies Don't Thrive in Smoke-filled Wombs

ELLIOT ROAD at E. FRANKLIN

UNTIL 6 PM DAILY . ALL DAY TUES. (EXC. HOLIDAYS) "One of the year's 10 best." Rex Reed, 3:00-5:00 7:10 9:20

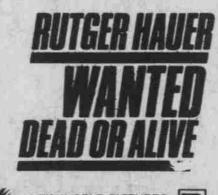

And nothing is what it appears to be through...

A romantic thriller in the tradition of the master of suspense. 3:00-5:10 7:20-9:30 RELEASE DEC

3:10-5:15

R HESTRICTED SP

Terrorism has never hit home until now

NEW WORLD PICTURES R 7:30-9:40