This character in the movie "Witchboard" has the bug-eyed demon-head disease

Stop! Here are the latest confessions from the man himself — Jim Bakker

By JOE BOB BRIGGS

The Drive-In Academy Award results will just have to wait 'til next week. I'm sorry. I know many of you made plans around this year's Hubbies. But last week I went out West to the Betty Ford Center for Screwin' Your Head Back On Straight, and I asked Jim and Tammy Faye and the family to get down on their knees with me and spill their guts and stop this vicious media attack on the sanctity of their sexual relations, and then we said a little prayer together about church secretaries and it went something like this:

"I'm sorry, God, for payin' $265,000 of Your money for something that, let's face it, was worth about a quarter. We could of used that money for another log-flume ride at Jesusland Amusement Park and had some left over to fly in some white yuppie gospel singers that play the accordion and sing through their noses. Tammy could of bribed somebody to bring back her Christian recording career. We could of even fed the starvin' people that hover around the gates of our Palm Springs home saying, "Wash your Rolls for a five." It was the Devil that crept down into the evil part of my body and said to me, "What a pair of Methusalehs on that palomino! Let's play Dunkin Donuts in a waterbed!" And you know what the worst part of it is, Your Angry Highness, Sir? It lasted only 20 seconds."

Then Jimbo and me had a discussion about whether he could get some Brownie points from God on the basis of it was ONLY for 20 seconds that the Sin lasted, but we decided we better not press our luck by prayin' too much in one day, and so then we planned a series of statements to the press, givin' out the REAL facts about the situation as they were revealed to me by Jim himself, and so that's why I'm devotin' my column this week to
