3 The young and the restless

Dean Smith's youngest team in years is also one of his thinnest, which means very little pine time for J.R. Reid, Jeff Lebo and the rest of the starters.

4 Rice and Rick should find ACC jungle nice and thick

King Rice and Rick Fox are the newest Tar Heel freshmen, and judging from recent experience, Rice should get his minutes while Fox should taste the grapes of ACC action.

By ANDREW PODOLSKY

7 Leave it to Lebo

After going through a physically draining stint with the Pan American team this summer, junior guard Jeff Lebo is rejuvenated and ready to fire that trusty 16-foot jumper of his all year long.

14 The All-American

Everybody's sure J.R. Reid is the best player this side of Lawrence, Kan., except him. Reid's off-court humility is no act, but between the lines, he's downright offensive.

15 From out of the shadow

Playing alongside J.R. Reid can be a curse as well as a blessing. Scott Williams hopes confidence and a year's experience will help him find his own identity and escape the sizable shadow of his sizable teammate.

By MIKE BERARDINO

26 He's back, he's bad

Kevin Madden spent last year on the sideline working on his grades. This year he'll be back in action and looking to make the grade on the court.
