AP nabs Reid for nation's best

From Associated Press reports

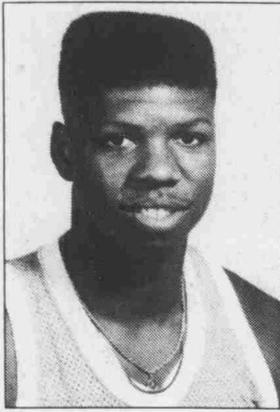

NEW YORK — Danny Manning of Kansas was named to The Associated Press All-America basketball team for the second straight year Monday and was joined by Hersey Hawkins of Bradley, Sean Elliott of Arizona, Gary Grant of Michigan and J.R. Reid of North Carolina.

Manning was the only non-senior on the first team last season, and the 6-foot-10 forward managed a fine year despite the injuries and academic problems that plagued the highly regarded Jayhawks.

Hawkins, a 6-3 guard, enters tournament play with a 36.0 scoring average, the highest since Freeman Williams of Portland State averaged 38.8 in 1977. He's also the first player to score 1,000 points in a season since Williams in that season.

Elliott averaged 19.0 points and 5.8 rebounds for the Wildcats, who were ranked No. 1 for six weeks this season and are 31-2 and the top seed in the West.

Reid enjoyed a solid sophomore season for the Tar Heels. He averaged 17.9 points and 8.7 rebounds while shooting 61 percent from the field as UNC went 24-6 and was tabbed the second seed in the West.

"He had an excellent year and has improved in all areas of his game from last season," Tar Heel coach Dean Smith said.

The team was selected by a 20-member panel of sportswriters representing the AP and member newspapers.

Hot bats, Edmonds' cold-day relief lead 10-6 Tar Heel win

By KEITH PARSONS
Staff Writer

For eight innings yesterday, UNC's baseball game at Boshamer Stadium against Coastal Carolina was not even close. However, the Chanticleers almost made a game of it in the ninth.

But behind the superb relief pitching of senior Jeff Edmonds, the Tar Heels squelched the rally and came away with a dominating 10-6 victory.

North Carolina took batting practice in the first five innings, scoring all of their 10 runs in the process. Junior Tom Nevin led the way with a two-run homer, his third of the year, and junior Darin Campbell collected three hits, all doubles. UNC finished the game with 14 hits, including eight doubles.

John Thoden got the victory, as he went six innings and gave up seven hits. Both Coastal runs were earned, and he walked and struck out two to even his record at 1-1.

The Tar Heels got things going in a hurry, scoring two runs in the bottom of the first. Nevin led off the inning in resounding fashion, pounding a hanging curveball into left field for a single. Campbell then ripped a shot down the third base line that went for two bases, moving Nevin to third. Chris DeFranco followed with another double, this one to right, scoring both Nevin and Campbell for UNC's first two runs.

"I was very pleased with the way we swung the bats," said Tar Heel head coach Mike Roberts, whose team upped their record to 6-8. "We were aggressive today, which is something we have lacked so far this year."

Ryan Jackson came on to pitch a relatively quiet seventh and eighth innings for North Carolina and had little problems with Coastal Carolina, which fell to 13-5, at that time. Then came the ninth.

Jackson walked the first three men he faced that inning, then gave up an RBI single to left. He quickly got behind on the next batter, and Roberts was forced to use the hook.

Edmonds then took the hill and promptly walked the batter he inherited, forcing in another run. The Tar Heels then got what they needed, a tailor-made double play ball, but the umpire ruled the Chanticleer runner safe at first on a close play.

After Edmonds struck out the next batter for the second out, a Tar Heel error gave the Chanticleers their last run. He slammed the door on Coastal by getting the last batter on a pop-up to end the game.

"Jeff's been doing the job for us all year," Roberts said. "I did not want to have to use anyone else in the ninth inning because it was so cold, but he got warm quickly and we were able to use him."

"This win generates confidence for us, which is something we needed," he added.

South Carolina, No. 21 in the nation, invades Boshamer tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Smith says little about incident

From staff reports

Dean Smith's press conference Tuesday morning was supposed to focus on North Texas State, UNC's first-round opponent Thursday in the NCAA Tournament, but instead he faced questions about the rumored fight between team members J.R. Reid and Steve Bucknall last Saturday night.

Sports director Ron Savage of WTVB-TV in Durham reported Monday that Tar Heel starters Reid and Bucknall got into an argument while at a team dinner at Slug's At The Pines in Chapel Hill and then went outside and engaged in a brief scuffle before teammates intervened. Savage said a customer at the restaurant told him the story. The customer wouldn't identify himself, only saying he was a Tar Heel fan. He also said he had been asked not to talk about the incident, but he was unsure whether a team official or a restaurant employee had requested his silence.

As for the fight, Smith wouldn't comment. "Our policy on what I call team dynamics has been that we don't comment on them," he said. "That's why our practices are closed, for example."

"We're family, and anything that happens stays there."

Smith said that after the Tar Heels' semifinal win over Maryland Saturday in the ACC Tournament the team had scheduled a meal for later that night at Slug's.

Assistant coaches Dick Harp and Roy Williams stayed in Greensboro, but the team returned to Chapel Hill Saturday night, Smith said. The meal was scheduled for Saturday night from 7-8:30.

In Sunday's 65-61 loss to Duke in the ACC final, Reid was held to a season-low seven points, none in the first half. Bucknall scored but four points.

Smith, speaking before the Tar Heels departed for Salt Lake City, Utah, the site of their first-round game, declined to further comment on the incident.

Tar Heel pitching leads to sweep

From staff reports

The North Carolina softball team swept a doubleheader from Winthrop College Tuesday at Finley Field, winning by 10-1 and 3-1 scores.

UNC moved to 9-9 on the year with the wins. Winthrop fell to 4-10.

In the first-game romp, the Tar

Heels used a six-hit, six-run fifth inning to blow the Eagles off the field. For the game, they amassed eight hits and took advantage of four Winthrop errors, as half of the Tar Heel runs were unearned.

Freshman Tracey Brower threw a five-hit complete game for the Tar Heels to up her record to 5-3.

The big bats for UNC in the first game were junior Gina Elmore, who went a cool 3-for-4 with two runs scored, and senior Patti Gerckens, who was 1-for-2 with two RBIs.

The second game was close until the third inning, when sophomore Tracey Narwid roped a two-run double that broke a 1-1 tie and put the Tar Heels ahead to stay. She finished 2-for-3 and scored a run in the game.

Junior Regina Finn did her part for the squad, too, mesmerizing Winthrop with a two-hitter to raise her mark to 3-5.

The Tar Heels next play a doubleheader at UNC-Charlotte, but they don't face the 49ers in both contests. They open up with George Mason at 2 p.m. Thursday, then take on UNCC afterwards.
