Wells' power key cog for Tar Heel volleyball squad

By DAVE SUROWIECKI
Staff Writer

UNC volleyball standout Andrea Wells possesses a disarming smile and a guileless manner that belies her dominating presence on volleyball courts up and down the eastern seaboard.

The 5-foot-7 senior serves as a strong-side hitter on the UNC volleyball team. Through the first five matches of the 1988 season, she is leading the team in hitting with a .408 percentage, and is third in kills (averaging 2.20 per game).

Wells hails from Canton, Ohio, home of the Professional Football Hall of Fame, where she worked during the summer. As a senior at McKinley High School, she captained the volleyball team to a state championship, garnering all-Ohio and team MVP honors in the process.

She is a reverend's daughter and part of a large family which includes three older brothers, all of whom are married, and two younger sisters who go to college in Georgia. Wells said she found coming from such a big family made the transition to college life that much harder.

"Adjusting to being on my own was difficult," she says. "I was really overprotected when I was at home, and to have to do it by myself was really scary. But once I got the hang of it, and gained my independence, I loved it."

This is Wells' fourth year on the volleyball squad, and in 1986 she was selected first-team all-ACC. But don't ask Wells to talk about her achievements; she'd rather talk about the Tar Heels.

"Andrea is more somebody to show you by her actions than she'll ever show you by her words," says Peggy Bradley-Doppes, the UNC volleyball coach. "I certainly think that she is a really strong candidate."

In fact, not only is Wells the strongest player on the team, but she has the highest vertical leap as well. Typical of her "we, not me" attitude, she preferred not to mention her exact vertical jump, but suffice it to say that at 5-7, she can get up as high as those who are 6-2 or 6-3.

This great strength and leaping ability contribute to her outstanding power. The volleyball press guide hails her as "one of the most powerful players on the East Coast."

Andrea Wells' powerful play has opponents ducking for cover

According to Bradley-Doppes, "Andrea is really intimidating on the court. She's a fierce competitor, but controlled."

How important is this controlled player to the Tar Heels' success? Well, in last season's final practice before the ACC tournament, Wells suffered strained knee ligaments and dislocated her kneecap. Without Wells, the Tar Heels finished third at the ACCs.

Not one to rest on her laurels or dwell on what could have been, Wells is working harder than ever in an effort to become a more complete player.

"This year I'm trying to concentrate more on my defense," she says. "My coach (Bradley-Doppes) has confidence in my hitting ability, but this year my main concern is going to be defense. The more balls I can dig, the better player I feel I should be. I want to become a blocker my coach has confidence in."

When the psychology major isn't playing volleyball or studying, she likes to listen to religious music and slow romantic ballads, both of which seem appropriate for someone who is engaged. But don't look for any U2 albums in Wells' collection: "I've never heard of them," she says.

After graduation in May, Wells plans to marry and then enter a two-year nursing program, a field where her psychology major can only help. Until then, Wells will continue to bullet the Carolina blue sky with her volleyball blasts, keeping her opponents on The Edge.

U.S. athletes begin their Seoul invasion

From Associated Press reports

Mobbed like a movie queen and smiling for the cameras, Florence Griffith Joyner led the cast of U.S. track and field stars to the Olympics on Thursday, while leading man Carl Lewis went into hiding after a cocky vow of victory.

Hurdler Edwin Moses, too fast to let anyone catch up with him, flew in from Japan with Griffith Joyner, more than 90 teammates and U.S. wrestlers, kayakers and synchronized swimmers.

World-record triple jumper Willie Banks, sprinter Calvin Smith and miler Steve Scott, named captains of the men's track team earlier in the day, also arrived, along with the women's captains, sprinter Evelyn Ashford and high jumper Louise Ritter.

Lewis made his grand entrance a day earlier, garbed in a white silk suit and boldly vowing to reclaim the title of the fastest man alive.

DTH Picks of the Week

Well sports fans, Week One of the great football follies is completed and, surprise of surprises, Mike (The Boss) Berardino jumped out to the early lead, successfully predicting nine out of the 10 games.

Andrew (Frattybaggerwannabe) Podolsky and Dave (Watkins) Glenn are close behind with .800 records, and — thanks to last week's picks — Chris (Carolina Blue) Spencer dwells in the cellar with a .500 ledger. But alas, this week's schedule finds not a Tar Heel in sight, as UNC prepares for next week's edition of the lambasting of Louisville. But an even more important game has our panel split.

The 10th-ranked Florida State Seminoles travel to "Death Valley" to battle the third-ranked Clemson Tigers in a battle of top national powers. Of course, this game will have serious implications on who will come out of week two unscathed.

Games	Mike Berardino (9-1-0) .900	Chris Spencer (5-5-0) .500	Andy Podolsky (8-2-0) .800	Dave Glenn (8-2-0) .800
