Thursday, Nov. 3 — 7 and 9:30

Los Olvidados Incredibly moving Bunuel film about a group of young boys growing up in the slums of Mexico. Taking a break from the usual overdose of surrealism — though he does have his moments — Bunuel creates a relentless portrait of poverty, using a cast almost completely of amateurs.

Friday, Nov. 4 — 7, 9:30 and midnight

The Big Easy Dennis Quaid stars with Ellen Barkin in this enjoyable film about corruption in the New Orleans Police Department. Though a little misdirected in parts, the film bubbles along with some hilarious characters and great music.

Saturday, Nov. 5 — 7 and 9:30

Breaking Away Don't be misled into believing that this is a movie about cycling. That's only a small part of it. Actually it is about a group of four college-age boys from Indiana, who need to find some kind of meaning to their lives. Sounds sappy, but, in fact it's extremely touching, especially in a movie theatre. Won an Oscar for Best Screenplay, and stars Dennis Quaid and Dennis Christopher.

Sunday, Nov. 6 — 7 and 9:30

Babette's Feast Last year's Oscar winner for Best Foreign film, this exquisite and beautifully made film tells the story of a maid who wins a lottery ticket and with the proceeds prepares a feast for her puritan hosts and their stiff friends.

Compiled by Richard Smith and James Dean.
