Up Front:

- 6 Go ahead and get away
With love being in the air (and those midterms just around the corner), it's a good time to get away with your significant other or even your best friend. Mike Berardino invites you to check out Chapel Hill's own Hillcrest House. For the budget-conscious, Anne-Renee Rice offers some suggestions for low-cost getaways.
- 3 The horrifying story of a lost bet
A night of Wanda Bodine, Neil Diamond and an audience full of Toni home perms. Yes, it was scarier than this week's movie, "Crime Zone," but Joe Bob tells it better.
- 3 Persecuted pygmies on Parade
This week's wisdom reveals the truth behind some of the world's most common stereotypical myths.
- 4 A new line-up and a new attitude
And with a new album on sale at Record Bar, Majosha has it all. Allison Pike talks to this band for which attitude is definitely not a problem.
- 4 A true blues legend
Paul Stewart provides insight into a living blues legend in his review of Taj Mahal's Feb. 1, show at the ArtsCenter.
- 5 "Here's lookin' at you, kid"
Whether they're funny, bizarre, tear-jerkers or classic oldies, romantic movies are always in season. Lesley Bartlett, James Dean and Richard Smith offer you their top choices for Valentine videos.
- 8 The Fonz, Alice, Capt. Stubing and Starbuck
In this week's Edited 4 Television, Winston Lloyd encourages you to flip back to a time when "Happy Days" was the show to watch.
- 8 A lively lunch
Instead of fighting for a place to sit at Lenoir during lunch, grab something to go, and come to the Cabaret's new lunchtime shows.
- 9 With Nietzsche's blessing
Randal Bullock reviews Fugazi's energetic album, which endeavors to prove that hardcore hasn't softened up yet.
- 10 Your Fare share
Places to go, things to see — the choices boggle the mind. Make yours with Week's Fare.
- 11 This isn't Cannes
Nevertheless, we've got the latest, the greatest, the best and the worst movie listings in our little corner of the world. Just for you.
- 12 A new duo
Bryan Burns talks to Jamie Block and Sarah Levin, who are joining forces for the first time to bring a folk-flavored act to the Cabaret Wednesday.
