Old Dominion

Reid and sprinted downcourt with seven seconds remaining in the half. After quickly looking up at the clock, Rice pulled up and buried a 21-footer at the buzzer to give the Tar Heels a five-point halftime lead.

"I think that might have affected them a little bit," Rice said. "We came out real hard in the second half and jumped on them early."

And jump on the Monarchs they did. The shocked ODU squad opened the second half slowly as UNC pulled out to a 58-48 lead just four minutes into the period.

But the Monarchs crept back into the game behind Carver's treys and a valiant effort by ODU guard Darrin McDonald, who had watched from the bench with four fouls as the Tar Heels stretched their lead to 10.

When McDonald, who finished the game with 19 points on 8-of-13 shooting, drove the lane for two points with six minutes remaining, the Monarchs faced a three-point deficit at 71-68.

From that point on, the Tar Heels ate up the clock on each possession and took the ball to the hoop with the shot clock running down. Four Tar Heel free throws, coupled with erratic shooting down the stretch by Carver and McDonald, left the UNC lead at 79-72 with two minutes to play.

The Tar Heels then went to their four corners offense with Rice leading the charge. Quick passes from Rice to Steve Bucknall to Fox ended in a Fox jam that put the final touches on the Tar Heel victory.

"We made some mental mistakes down the stretch," said ODU coach Tom Young. "We were in the game until the last three minutes, but we didn't play smart, and our kids played a bit too emotional."

In a quick-paced first half, ODU jumped out to an 8-2 lead just two minutes into the game.

The score then see-sawed back and forth until a 17-17 tie at the 12-minute mark, but some sloppy UNC ballhandling led to four consecutive Monarch hoops and a 25-17 ODU lead.

The Tar Heels battled back to tie the score at 32, and when Rice hit Fox for a fast-break slam seconds later, Fox had his 12th point of the half and UNC took its first lead of the game at 34-32.

The Monarchs came back to tie at 41, but two Bucknall free throws and Rice's three-pointer secured UNC's 46-41 halftime lead.

Freshman Denkins adds flair to Tar Heel gymnastics squad

By BETHANY LITTON Staff Writer

Take a world-renowned gymnast who has been unable to compete for two years. Give her free reign on a balance beam, a floor exercise mat, a vault and two uneven parallel bars. The resulting effect is like a fireworks show — explosive and vibrant. And the spark that causes it is Angela Denkins.

What a spectacular show it is. In her first five meets back from two years of injuries, Denkins, a freshman from Willingboro, N.J., has won three all-around titles and set two school records, proving that her two injury-ridden years are far behind her.

Denkins said she feels more mentally prepared now than she ever has, and the period of rehabilitation only served to fuel her determination to do well.

"It felt good to get back out. I missed it a lot," she said. "I'm really hungry and ready to go."

Gymnastics coach Derek Galvin said that Denkins' potential contribution to the UNC program is already evident.

"She's already shown that she can make her mark as one of the outstanding, if not the most outstanding, gymnasts we've had to date," he said.

In 1986, the last year Denkins competed before she was struck with ankle and shoulder injuries, she was one of the top gymnasts in the country. She was the U.S. National Beam Champion and sixth overall in the country, standings that would have assured her a spot on the Olympic team had it been an Olympic year.

Angela Denkins

She went instead to the Goodwill Games in Moscow, a prestigious international competition which Denkins said was the highlight of her gymnastics career so far.

"She was really well received in Moscow," Galvin said. "They keyed in on her and realized that not only is she an outstanding athlete but a very unique personality."

Denkins has also traveled to Bulgaria, China, Switzerland, France and Italy for competitions and exhibitions.

Despite her considerable accomplishments, Denkins is a true team player. She's just another one of the team, she said, working hard to earn points and help the Tar Heels (2-0 on the year) win meets. Her main motivation to succeed is the closeness of the team, she said.

Galvin said she has an excellent attitude in the gym, keeping things positive and fun and doing whatever is asked of her in practice.

"I like to keep everybody happy, just to let them know it's not the end of the world if something goes wrong," she said. "There's always another time."

Adds Galvin: "Angela takes it seriously in that she wants to give her best. When she's competing, she's performing. But she doesn't take it so seriously that it devastates her when she makes a mistake."

Denkins has a "mental toughness" that is only found in the most exceptional athletes, Galvin said. Not only does she have considerable talent, she has confidence in her ability to succeed.

Denkins said determination and confidence, as well as the support of family and friends, are the factors that have given her the discipline and focus gymnastics requires.

Because the training of an elite gymnast is so intense, she was "kind of isolated" in high school, she said, and she missed out on a typical teenager's social life. But she's found it easier to strike a balance at UNC.

Denkins came here for a number of reasons, including encouragement from her coach in Willingboro and the prestigious education UNC offers, she said.

An RTVMP major, Denkins hopes to be a television and movie producer after college, and she also enjoys dancing and meeting new people.

"I think she's the kind of personality that will reflect well on the University," Galvin said.

Denkins' accomplishments this season include setting three school records — in the all-around, the balance beam and the floor exercise — and tying one in the vaulting event. Her goals for the year are for the UNC team to go to nationals and for herself to become an All-American gymnast.

Denkins said her favorite event is the balance beam, but she is starting to enjoy the floor more as she begins to take more creative liberties with her routines.

UNC wrestlers pin Duke, 31-8

DURHAM — The North Carolina wrestling squad assured itself of at least a tie for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference regular season with a 31-8 victory over Duke Tuesday in Cameron Indoor Stadium.

Pete Welch and Erik Keyser opened the match by tallying pins in the 158-pound and 167-pound weight classes, respectively, to give the Tar Heels a 30-0 lead. With the win, the grapplers ran their record to 16-4 overall and 5-1 in the ACC. UNC is currently ranked sixth in the National Wrestling Coaches Association poll.

Senior Enzo Catulo won an 18-7 decision for his 11th victory in a row. Catulo now has a 23-3 mark on the season and is ranked eighth in the country.

John Welch downed his opponent 21-6 while gaining a technical fall victory.

North Carolina will be in action Saturday at Navy.
