	UNC	Edge	Maryland
Backcourt	Lebo is still doubtful for Sun. King Rice will lead an up-tempo attack from the point. Steve Bucknall has the defense, the shot and the attitude of a big-time player.		This might be the worst backcourt in the ACC. Greg Nared can't shoot, but handles the ball well. John Johnson is a good shooter, but not a very complete player.
Frontcourt	Kevin Madden could have a big day against bigger, but slower, opponents. S. Williams and J.R. Reid must hit the boards & limit the Terps to 1-shot possessions.		6-9 freshman forward Jerrod Mustaf, who was recruited by UNC, is already a good one. T. Massenburg is steady at center. D. Dickerson is not starter-quality.
Depth	Rick Fox may have found his role in the offense on the break. Pete Chilcutt gets a lot of rebounds in limited minutes. H. Davis is hitting the long jumpers.		6-9 center Cedric Lewis is tough at the defensive end, but offers little else. Freshman G Jesse Martin is still learning. 6-8 forward Walt Williams is a solid big man.
Defense	Williams, Reid and Chilcutt match up well with the Terps' big men. While the Heels can have trouble with a quick guard, they'll be OK because Md. doesn't have one.		Lewis, Mustaf and Massenburg are quality shotblockers. The Terps have decent numbers at first look, but they give up more than 80 ppg in ACC competition.
Coaching	It's been awhile since we listed some of Dean Smith's basketball innovations. Well, how about the four corners offense, free-lance passing & the scramble defense?		Bob Wade lost only 24 games in 11 years at Dunbar High School. At Md., he lost 24 before he won 24. A sign? The most disorganized offense in the ACC.

Track teams gear for ACC meet

By MARK ANDERSON
Staff Writer

The North Carolina women travel to the ACC indoor track championships this weekend in Johnson City, Tenn., with something to defend, while the men have something to prove.

The women are looking to capture their second consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference crown, after defeating Virginia 172-69 last year.

"We're the favorite and I accept that," said head coach Dennis Craddock. "But we can't get too satisfied."

The Tar Heels return all of their ACC individual champions from last year.

Along with the mile and two-mile relay squads, others looking to defend their titles are Sharon Couch (long jump, 55-meter hurdles), Kendra Mackey (55 and 200 meters), Shelby Moorman (400 meters) and Michelle Faherty (800 meters).

Craddock, however, said he is worried about the women's mental adjustment to last year's big win.

"After winning by over a hundred, it's hard for them to believe that our program can make up that much ground in one year," he said.

Craddock said UNC's major challenge will come not from one specific team but from the ACC's depth. He said the only way for the Tar Heels to lose is for each school to take away potential places.

"I'm worried that other schools will branch out and try to cut us up," he said.

Virginia will be smarting after its first-ever loss to the Tar Heels last year. Craddock also said he feels Clemson and Maryland have enough talent to take points away from UNC.

The men are coming off a fourth-place finish last year, but Craddock said he would like to see them accomplish more this time around.

"I would love to see them get a taste of sweet championship victory," he said. "They were so close last year in outdoor and I really think they just need that one time."

To do this, Craddock said they must rally around each other. Gone are last year's big point-scorers, leaving the team with no front-runners.

The men's favorite is Clemson, followed closely by N.C. State. Craddock said UNC is in a pack with Georgia Tech, Virginia and Maryland right behind the leaders.

Individually, the Tar Heels have already put together some impressive performances.

For the men, Tim Goad has qualified for Nationals in the shotput.

The women's national qualifiers include Couch (long jump and 55-meter hurdles) and the two-mile relay team (Faherty, Mia Pollard, Monica Witterholt and Kari Krehnbrink). Kim Austin has also had an outstanding season, qualifying in three events (triple and long jumps, 55-meter hurdles).

"She's the only one in my coaching career that has accomplished that," Craddock said.

The women's strength is in their number of front-running athletes. Their only casualty is Couch, who will not be 100 percent for the meet. She has an injured quadricep and has not competed for three weeks.

The women's only weakness looks to be in the 3,000- and 5,000-meter events, where Craddock said he hopes Jeanne Petersen can score points. Programs such as Clemson, N.C. State and Wake Forest concentrate their efforts on the distance events.

The ACCs are held in conjunction with the SEC meet, with each conference alternating events.

Wake Forest

minutes.

North Carolina, already without senior guard Jeff Lebo (injured foot), received a scare when Scott Williams threw out his troublesome shoulder just one minute into Thursday's contest. Williams left the game, but returned with five minutes left in the half, finishing with six points in 18 minutes.

Ivy, Wake's heart and soul, went to the bench with his second foul just 2:25 into the game. Still, the Deacons made it to the first TV timeout trailing just 11-7.

When play resumed, UNC exploded into an 11-0 run. Forwards Kevin Madden and Pete Chilcutt had two buckets apiece and Bucknall capped the surge with a pullup three-point bomb from the right side to make it 22-7 with 12:51 left.

Ivy returned to end Wake's slide with a dunk, but he quickly went back to the bench after picking up his third foul at the 12:22 mark.

Wake guard Cal Boyd kept things respectable, however. Back-to-back Boyd treys quickly whittled the deficit back to 10, at 25-15, and the 6-1 lefty gunner got two more of his rainbows to drop as the Deacons loitered between 14 and 10 points away.

But King Rice tossed in six quick points in the final 1:37 to help North Carolina grab a 49-34 halftime lead.

Boyd, who finished with a game-high 24 points on eight three-pointers, helped bring Wake within 50-39 early in the second half. But another 11-0 Tar Heel burst was enough to turn the final 14 minutes into garbage time.

Madden hit a 15-footer, Fox dropped in a short bank shot and J.R. Reid kissed one home from eight feet. Junior reserve Jeff Denny then capped the run with a pair of free throws and a bonus bomb from the right wing.

Madden wound up with 15 points, while Denny finished with a career-high 13 points on 4-of-5 shooting. Reid, meanwhile, fouled out with 3:58 remaining after scoring a mere nine points. That snapped his string of 37 straight ACC regular season games with 10 or more points.

"We're a more unselfish team, that's why we're hard to play," Smith said. "We're not taking that first shot anymore."

Tigers swim to early lead

By ERIC WAGNON
Staff Writer

The host North Carolina women's swim team, ranked 13th nationally, finds itself trailing the sixth-ranked Clemson Tigers going into today's competition in the three-day ACC championships. "Obviously, Clemson dominated things," UNC head coach Frank Comfort said, referring to Tiger victories in five of the six events held, on the first night of the meet.

UNC senior Kim Beattie's win in the 50-yard freestyle was the only result breaking a Clemson sweep. Beattie, the defending ACC champion in the event, clocked in at 23.60 seconds, edging out Tiger Diane Bravis with a time of 23.62 seconds. Tar Heel freshman Melissa Douse and sophomore Jill Benda placed third and fourth, respectively.

"We've recognized from the beginning that Clemson's one of the best teams in the country," Comfort said.

Although Clemson swam very strongly, the team finished the first day of the meet with a team score of 266, just 32 points in front of the second-place Tar Heels with 234 points.

"Frankly, considering how many events they won, it's delightful to be within 32 points of them," Comfort said. Virginia, ranked 14th nationally, followed in third with 204 points.

Comfort said he felt that the Tigers were still within striking distance, saying, "I've seen more difficult things accomplished."

"The bottom line is, we had a very fine day of swimming, especially in the morning," Comfort added. "If you don't swim well in the morning, you don't get to swim at night (in the final heats)."

"I intended to make top eight and I did better," said UNC freshman diver Heather Clevely, following her third-place finish in the one-meter event. Clevely's score of 425 left her just behind Clemson's Jennette Gravis (459.81) and Mandy Meek (443.82).

"It's good that I did well tonight. It just gets me going," Clevely said, looking forward to the three-meter event on Saturday night. "Actually, usually I'm stronger on three-meter, so I'm really looking forward to it."

UNC's 800-yard freestyle relay team of Beattie, Melanie Budde-meyer, Melissa Douse and Hannah Turlish finished third in the event behind Clemson and Virginia. Virginia held the lead in the third leg. However, Clemson's Mitzi Kremer denied a Cavalier victory when she came from behind in the last length of the final leg.

Kremer, the ACC record-holder, set a Koury Natatorium and ACC meet record in winning the 500-yard freestyle in 4:45.66. Turlish, the former pool record holder in the event, was the top UNC finisher with a sixth-place time of 5:00.65.

In the 200-yard medley relay, Clemson, with a time of 1:44.51, broke North Carolina's 1987 ACC meet record time by one-hundredth of a second. Ironically, the 200 medley relay, the first event of the evening, mirrored the eventual overall results through the entire conference. UNC's relay team of Karin Andren, Wendy Powers, Budde-meyer and Benda clocked a second-place time of 1:45.95.

Baseball wins first

From staff reports

Junior right-hander John Thoden allowed just four hits and one run through six innings and senior reliever Chris Cornacchio retired all seven batters he faced to lead UNC to a season-opening victory over Coastal Carolina Wednesday.

The Tar Heels (1-0) scored single runs on an error, a sacrifice fly, a wild pitch and a solo homer by left fielder Todd Nichols.
