

Student Congress Candidates

Scott McDonald

Scott McDonald, the other candidate for District 12, did not attend the DTH interview session.

District 13 (2 seats)

Dave Davidson

Dave Davidson is a freshman political science and English major from Longmeadow, Mass. A South Campus escort system and a computer facility based on South Campus are programs Davidson would like to promote.

He also wants to print a district newsletter regularly. "I want students to know what's going on," he said. Davidson said he wants to install a forum to give students in his district an opportunity to bring up ideas they would like congress to address. Davidson has worked on the academic affairs and special interests committees of the executive branch. He is also on the membership committee of the Campus Y.

Edward Fischer

Edward Fischer is a sophomore applied mathematics major from Washington. On-campus parking is the main issue affecting students, Fischer said. The student body must resist having further parking lots taken from them and resist plans for a $2 parking fee in specified lots in the evening, he said.

The construction of a cultural center only for blacks will counteract the purpose of such a center, Fischer said. The center should be multicultural and function on a petition system requiring groups wanting to use the center to get a required number of petitions to be recognized, he said. Smaller cultural groups could form together to fulfill the requirement. Fischer is also in favor of funding for the Carolina Gay and Lesbian Association.

John Lomax

John Lomax, a sophomore business administration major from Hickory, is running for reelection. Lomax said he wants to restructure budgeting for The Daily Tar Heel, he said. The DTH is constitutionally funded, and now receives 16 percent of student fees. The money allocated for the DTH should be distributed among all campus publications, not the DTH exclusively, Lomax said. This measure would spread out the newspaper's budget, reduce the budget required for other publications and make more money available to other campus organizations, he said. Lomax said he plans to create a South Campus escort program and a computer lab for South Campus residence halls. Consolidating campus food services under one company and eliminating the mandatory $100 meal plan are Lomax's goals to reach students on the entire campus, he said.

Ian Schiller

Ian Schiller is a junior music education major from Poughkeepsie, N.Y. He said separation between North Campus and South Campus should be eliminated. A third-year resident of South Campus, Schiller acted as South Campus liaison to Student Congress this year. Schiller and Residence Hall Association presidential candidate David Smith thought of the idea of a liaison to congress to be a watchdog, Schiller said. He said he supports a $13 student fee hike to fund a student recreation complex that would house the Wellness Center, weight rooms and aerobic rooms. "I'm open-minded on most programs," Schiller said. "I will evaluate each program on an individual basis."

Jill Nystrom

Jill Nystrom, the other candidate for District 13, did not attend the DTH interview session.

District 14 (2 seats)

Samuel Bagenstos

Sam Bagenstos is a sophomore political science major from Durham. Bagenstos said his two years as a South Campus resident and experience as a Morrison floor president have given him extra insight into the needs of that part of campus. "The concerns of South Campus are really ignored by Student Congress," he said. "What I want to do is get specific proposals done that are going to have specific benefits for South Campus." Staff parking lots on South Campus often have empty spaces that could be given to students, Bagenstos said. "It's a real waste that there are spaces that sit open all day," he said. Extra lighting on walkways and more police patrols on South Campus would make the campus safer, Bagenstos said.

Phillip Thompson

Phillip Thompson is a junior geography major from Providence. Thompson said his three years living in Morrison Residence Hall will help put him in touch with students so he can fairly represent them. He also wants to work closely with those in residence hall government. Parking and food services are issues especially important to his district, Thompson said. He said he would like to see Chase Dining Hall opened on Friday evenings. "I want to go out to get input and not make the students have to come to me," Thompson said.

District 15 (2 seats)

Peter Hans

Peter Hans is a sophomore political science major from Hendersonville. Hans said he is concerned with the problems of parking for his district and that students who live there are too often ignored. Student Congress should move in a less radical direction, Hans said. "The district is huge," he said. "I have friends at each apartment complex that can keep me in touch, and I will let everyone know that they do have a representative."

Bill Stallings

Bill Stallings is a sophomore political science major from Fairfield, Conn. Stallings said he would work to improve bus service to his district on the T line. There is no late-night service, and that should be established, he said. "I think I have the ability to change the policy and work to get it done," he said. Stallings opposes the proposed $2 North Campus night parking fee. Stallings served as an honor court justice.

District 16 (2 seats)

Gene Davis

Gene Davis, a junior speech communications major from Raleigh, is running for reelection. Students should make themselves heard as a voice in the University community, he said. "Students should have input in decisions that affect their lives, and we as students must not stop badgering the administration until they realize that we, too, are members of this community." Minority concerns such as recruitment, enrollment and retention deserve special attention from Student Congress, Davis said. Davis has served as chairman of the congress rules and judiciary committee, as a member of the ethics committee and as a member of the committee on student conduct.

Gerry Hayes

Gerry Hayes, the other candidate for District 16, did not attend the DTH interview session.

District 17 (2 seats)

Bret Batchelder

Bret Batchelder is a sophomore business major from Raleigh. Batchelder said his district needs better representation in congress. "There wasn't a feeling that our opinions were being represented fully," he said. "I would like to break that barrier a little bit more." He said he would like to work with the other congress representative in the district to "get a general feeling of what the people in our district think." "I've got a good feel for what it's like to live off campus and the problems it can pose," he said. Batchelder is a co-chairman of the Campus Y Habitat for Humanity program and treasurer of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Jill Gilbert

Jill Gilbert, a junior biology major from New Orleans, is running for reelection. Campus parking is an important issue to her off-campus district, she said. The proposed $25 parking maintenance fee should be used to expand public transportation, she said. She said she opposes the $2 night parking fee proposed by the chancellor's ad hoc parking committee. Gilbert said she would support more funding to patrol groups like SAFE Escort service and Student Patrol that contribute to making the campus safer. Her experience living on and off campus makes her a good candidate, Gilbert said. "I recognize how things work, what needs to be worked on and how to get things done," she said. Gilbert is a member of the Student Congress Student Affairs Committee.

Kimberly Hight

Kimberly Hight is a freshman pre-law student from Monroe. Hight said there is not a lot of involvement from her off-campus district and she would like to change that. She wants to get students interested in the decisions that Student Congress is making. "I'm very interested in being involved," she said. "I'd like to be a voice." Hight worked in student government in high school.

Chris Peeler

Chris Peeler, the other candidate from District 17, did not attend the DTH interview session.

District 18 (2 seats)

Thornton Long

Thornton Long is a senior RTVMP major from Statesville. Long said he is concerned for students and is aware of the issues affecting the student body. "The role of the administration is to give the student body what they need, and I will work toward those needs," he said. Long said he is opposed to parking fees and efforts to take away more student parking spaces. He said he favors funding the Black Cultural Center and the Carolina Gay and Lesbian Association. Long said he also favors looking into construction of a multicultural center.

Carole Yost

Carole Yost is a junior political science and criminal justice major from China Grove. Yost said she wants to encourage more campus involvement from students who live off campus.

"Student affairs are just as important to off-campus students as they are to those on campus," Yost said. She said her plans include increasing student participation in all elections on campus and working with University officials and administrators to fulfill students' ideas.
