This Week:

- 5 Cool jazz
If you missed all the jazzy fun last weekend, don't despair. The N.C. Umbria Jazz Festival, the South's only international jazz festival, is still going strong, and Anne-Renee Rice gives you a complete guide to weekend concerts.
- 5 The Big Three
Are the major TV networks crumbling to the growing power of cable? Is TV monopoly a thing of the past? Winston Lloyd rates the accomplishments of ABC, NBC and CBS in the '80s.
- 6 Cover Story: Apple Chill
Franklin Street's famous festival returns Sunday, complete with clowns, cloggers and crafts. Guinevere Ross previews the attractions which 18,000 people are expected to enjoy.
- 4 No more Southern belles
Gone are the days of Daisy Duke and Scarlett O'Hara. These are the times of intellectual, successful Southern women on TV's "Designing Women." Billy Stockard reviews CBS' refreshing show.
- 3 Spring kickoff
Whether you drive a Rolls Royce or a pickup truck, you'll feel right at home Sunday at Southern Pines' Stoneybrook Steeplechase. Set up your grill and set out your cooler with Paul Stewart.
