Hello, you little movie lover darlings. At last, a new movie is opening at the Varsity after the dominance of "Dangerous Liaisons" and "Women on the Verge..." for the past three months. In case you haven't seen those two wonders for the third time, they are still being kept on. Caleb Deschanel's "Crusoe" opens in the area exclusively to the Varsity, and is the Robinson Crusoe story sans Man Friday. Aidan Quinn of "Desperately Seeking Susan" and "An Early Frost" fame plays the lead.

Also opening at the Rialto is "The Thin Blue Line," Errol Morris' brilliant documentary on the miscarriage of justice that put recently freed Randall Adams in jail for the murder of a Dallas police officer. A must-see.

As usual, a star denotes a movie of exceptional wonderfulness.

CHAPEL HILL PUBLIC LIBRARY

Major Barbara
 Tuesday, April 25, at 2:30 and Wednesday, April 26, at 7.

One of the few film adaptations of a Shaw play, this intelligent British film does a good job telling the story of the young daughter of a rich armaments dealer coming to grips with her feelings about the world around her. With a brilliant cast that includes Rex Harrison, Wendy Hiller and Robert Morley.

MOVIES AT THE UNION

For the last time this semester.

Die Hard. Friday, April 21 - 7, 9:30 and midnight.

Just when you thought Bruce Willis couldn't make a good movie, this very effective and entertaining thriller came along. Willis plays a cop from New York who gets caught in an L.A. skyscraper that is being held captive by a bunch of terrorists. Excellent stunts and special effects that will certainly be diminished on video, and with a steady cast that includes Paul Gleason, Alexander Godunov and RSC actor Alan Rickman.

How to Marry a Millionaire.

Saturday, April 22 - 7 and 9:30.

I'll watch anything with Marilyn Monroe in it, so I love this film about three women who make it their duty to find themselves husbands as soon as possible. This was the first comedy to be shot in cinemascop (back then in 1953), and also stars Lauren Bacall, Betty Grable and William Powell.

Compiled by Richard Smith and James Dean.

Spike

In other matters, Lee was very outspoken. He responded to a question about Georgetown head basketball Coach John Thompson and his boycott of two games over NCAA's Proposition 42 in the following manner: "Any time you're a black man and you speak your mind, you are going to be attacked. You can say what you want to, but all of his players graduate."

And he even questioned the posters that announced his coming to UNC to speak: "Spike Lee, a.k.a. Mars Blackmon. 'It's cool.' I don't know the thinking behind that."

Spike Lee is not Mars Blackmon.

For many in the audience, this revelation may have been a little more than they were able to take. After two hours, only half the audience remained. But what they saw was the real Spike Lee - serious about the work he does, quiet, strong in his convictions and unrelenting - one who does not take any slack from anyone.

People probably left that night, disillusioned; thinking they would see the street-smart, "Please baby, please baby, please baby, baby please" Mars Blackmon; instead, they saw the hard-shelled, man-of-few-words businessman that Lee is.

"I make the films I want to make, and I hope others like what I do," he said.

"It's just blind faith in your ability and talent and knowing that what you have is good."

Spike Lee is not Mars Blackmon. Enough said.
