Omnibus

This Week:

- 6 Cover Story: Reggae in the Triangle
From record stores to clubs, the Caribbean creation of reggae music seems to have taken a hold in Chapel Hill. Billy Stockard looks at the unique and ever-popular music and how it has fared in the Southern Part of Heaven.
- 3 Seniors beware
Omnibus design editors Laura Ross and Lisa Reichle pay a last tribute to our graduating seniors.
- 4 Cheers to the number one TV show
Winston Lloyd reveals his pick for the top show of the '80s. . .
- 4 Essential guide to 'General College'
Andrew Lawler provides a valuable service to "General College" fans with an overview of what happened this year, including a few tidbits from the past.
- 5 Movies, music and much sun
Bryan Burns gives some helpful suggestions of ways to spend your summer days, including summer movies and concerts.
- 8 Shipwrecked movie
"Crusoe," a new film based on the Robinson Crusoe tale, achieves what it sets out to achieve, according to reviewer James Dean. However, the movie's main strength seems to be in cinematography rather than plot development.
- 9 Keep an eye on Spot
Guinevere Ross suggests enjoying Stephen King's thriller "Pet Sematary" in a crowded, well-lit room. And don't forget to keep a tight leash on your pets!
