New Miss America begins touring

From Associated Press reports

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass. -Newly crowned Miss America Debbye Turner made the first public appearance of her yearlong tour at a new suburban mall where she was welcomed by characters from "The Wizard of Oz."

Turner, who represented Missouri when she won the crown Sept. 16, was escorted by the Lion, Tin Man and Scarecrow Saturday during her visit to the Emerald Square Mall, which has an Oz theme.

She turned down date requests and spoke of her desire to become a veterinarian as she signed autographs.

"She's a gorgeous girl," said Barbara Dumont of Plainville. "I knew she would win."

Turner make a point of playing down being the third black Miss America, but some admirers volunteered that they found it significant.

"I think the racism in this country is terrible and it's great that white people have her to look up to," Dumont said. "Look what a mixed line this is. This is great."

Football coin toss muddled

IRVING, Texas — Actress Elizabeth Taylor got veteran football referee Pat Haggerty so rattled on Sunday that he let her call the opening coin toss at the Washington-Dallas game before he was corrected by the Redskins.

"Hey, wait a minute! We're supposed to call the toss; we're the visitors!" a Washington player should after Ms. Taylor, a guest of Cowboys owner Jerry Jones, called heads on Haggerty's toss.

Embarrassed, Haggerty told Ms. Taylor, "You've got me all shook up.

He tossed the coin again and let the Redskins make the call, which they correctly predicted as heads.

The original game plan had been for Miss Taylor, in town on a promotional tour for her perfume "Passion," to flip the coin.

Picasso's daughter unfolds truth

Picasso says well-known photographs of her famous father, Pablo Picasso, playing with her on the beach and swimming in the Mediterranean Sea were a bit misleading.

"He would pretend to swim; he couldn't swim," she reveals in the October issue of Fame magazine. "I haven't told many people that he was faking swimming."

When Ms. Picasso was born in 1949, Picasso was 67. Her mother, artist Francoise Gilot, was 27.

"His mind was on his work but not all day long," the jewelry designer recalled. "The minute he turned it on to work, that was it. But then he would be on the beach for hours and hours."

Gilot left Picasso in 1953 after living with him 10 years. Ms. Picasso said she continued to spend holidays with her father, who would take her to the circus in Paris.

As for biographers' accounts of Picasso's mental abuse of his mistresses, Ms. Picasso said: "Everything is always negative. But how could he be such a monster? Why would those women have stayed? No one forced them."

State centennial gets 'Big' boost

HELENA, Mont. - Teenagers who have not been too excited by the wagon trains and cattle drives adults have been staging to celebrate Montana's 100th year as a state may be more thrilled by a visit from teen actor David Moscow.

Moscow, the 14-year-old who played the young Josh Baskin in the Tom Hanks movie "Big," will be the feature attraction at an Oct. 7 dance, thanks to the efforts of 13-year-old Rachael Jami-

"It's the centennial year, and there should be something for kids," said the eighth-grader. "So I thought I'd put it OR.

Rachael, an aspiring actress who has seen "Big" "about a jillion times," traveled with her parents to Los Angeles in April and met Moscow at a party.

"He was totally nice and everything," she said. "We mostly talked about his movies and stuff."

To help raise money for Moscow's walked from business to business until 12 companies provided $1,500. Then she called Moscow, who said he'd come and show clips from "Living Dolls," a fall TV series in which he plays the son of a modeling agent.

Rachael said Moscow, whose mother is from Great Falls, will advise students how to avoid drug abuse and that proceeds from ticket sales will go toward anti-drug programs in school.

Soviet success predicted for book

DULUTH, Minn. - A Russianlanguage version of Minnesota adventurer Paul Schurke's new book, "Bering Bridge," is expected to sell well in the Soviet Union.

That assessment of Schurke's book about the Ely adventurer's 1,000-mile dogsled-and-kayak expedition from Siberia to Alaska last winter came from Soviet publishing officials.

They recently told Schurke's American publisher, Donald Tubesing of Duluth, that "Bering Bridge" would sell at least 200,000 copies in its first Russian printing. "In America, there are 55,000 books a year published, so there's lots of competition," Tubesing said. "Not so in the Soviet Union."

When the Soviets publish something, it usually sells pretty well. "But more than that, there is tremendous interest in the Bering Bridge expedition there. They have issued a commemorative postage stamp and have a bronze bust of Paul in Moscow," he said.

The Minnesotan's expedition captured the imagination of the Soviet people, Tubesing said. It led to an agreement between America and the Soviet Union allowing Eskimos in the region to travel freely between the two countries, reuniting families long separated by political barriers.

"There's a real excitement about it (in the Soviet Union)," he said. "The Soviets are very well acquainted with Paul's partner in the project, Dmitry Shparo, who has made 18 expeditions in 22 years and has won the Medal of Lenin. The publishers ex-

Pro-choice forces appear to have seized the momentum in the nation's renewed battle over abortion, but antiabortion activists say they expect the tide to turn as legislatures — and the Supreme Court — return to session this fall and winter.

So far, a half-dozen states have emerged as early legislative battlegrounds, but most lawmakers appear reluctant to open the door that was unlocked by the Supreme Court in July. "I would say it's basically a standoff," said Lydia Neumann, a spokeswoman for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, which favors access to abortion.

In the nation's two governor's races this fall, pro-choice candidates have used their viewpoint for its potential political advantage, while anti-abortion candidates have sought to shift attention away from the issue.

In New Jersey, Republican James Courter moderated his strong antiabortion views and is widely perceived to have been hurt - either by his views Florio strengthened his pro-choice stance.

In Virginia, Democrat Douglas Wilder is aggressively advertising his pro-choice position in hopes of gaining ground on Republican Marshall Coleman, an anti-abortion candidate who is considered the front-runner.

Burke Balch, state legislative coordinator for the National Right to Life Committee, insisted that a strong antiabortion position was not a political liability. But in general, he conceded that pro-choice forces have had the upper hand in the two months since the Supreme Court upheld Missouri abortion restrictions.

"We've seen a season in which our friends on the other side have had the natural advantages with them," he said. "Because it's been a debate not about the specific legislation but about abortion in general, and with the considerable funding they've had to ... have their say in the media, they've had their innings."

He said the balance would shift this

Bush intervenes in child custody fight

From Associated Press reports

WASHINGTON - Elizabeth Morgan, jailed 25 months ago in a bitter child custody dispute, remains jailed until a nine-member appeals panel rules on the request for her freedom, her attorney said Sunday.

Attorney Adrian Roe filed the papers with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals on Saturday, just hours after President Bush signed a bill designed to free her.

promptly, but we have no guarantees," Roe said.

Morgan has been held in the District of Columbia Jail since August 1987 for failing to produce her daughter for courtordered visits by her ex-husband and the girl's father, Dr. Eric Foretich.

Morgan hid the girl after alleging that Foretich had sexually abused the girl. Foretich has repeatedly denied those charges and at one point offered

"We're hopeful the court will act a $5,000 reward to anyone who could provide information on his daughter's whereabouts.

> Elaine Mittleman, Foretich's attorney, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview it was unlikely that Morgan would be freed before court opened on Monday.

> "I would think that she wouldn't be freed until we have had time to file papers with the court stating our side of the argument," Mittleman said.

Campus Calendar

The DTH Campus Calendar is a daily listing of University-related activities sponsored by academic departments, student services and student organizations officially recognized by the Division of Student Affairs. To appear in Campus Calendar, announcements must be submitted on the Campus Calendar form by NOON one business day before the announcement is to run. Saturday and Sunday events are printed in Friday's calendar and must be submitted on the Wednesday before the announcement is to run. Forms and a drop box are located outside the DTH office, 104 Union. Items of Interest lists ongoing events from the same campus organizations and follows the same deadline schedule as Campus Calendar. Please use the same form.
