Iowa man gets bare Barr facts

From Associated Press Reports
 IOWA CITY, Iowa — Darrel Courtney's inquiring mind wanted to know if tabloid rumors about Roseanne Barr's bottom were true.

Courtney, a city council member in Iowa City, said he was sitting behind Barr and her boyfriend, Tom Arnold, at Saturday's Michigan-Iowa football game in Iowa City. Courtney asked the couple if it were true that Barr, star of the TV sitcom "Roseanne," and Arnold, a former Ottumwa resident, had tattooed their behinds with each other's name.

In answer to his question, the couple bared their bottoms.

"It's true," Courtney said.

Feminist switches focus to elderly
 BALTIMORE — Betty Friedan, a founder of the women's movement, said she has changed her focus to fight for the rights of the elderly. Senior citizens "are on the verge of the next great revolution," Friedan said.

Friedan, 68, author of "The Feminine Mystique," who often is credited with giving birth to the women's movement, was in Baltimore on Tuesday to address a conference on health-care priorities for the aging.

"The whole thing is changing so much I can't conceive of the ways we'll be thinking 10 years from now. We will redefine the values of society, and it will be a great change from this era of yuppies, when values are defined by youth."

Friedan divides her time between New York's Long Island and the University of Southern California, where she teaches journalism and women's studies.

Puppeteer to entertain adults
 ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Puppeteer Shari Lewis, who sprang to fame in the 1950s with her furry little friend Lamb Chop, is doing an "adults only" show at a hotel, but she isn't worried about losing fans.

"To an audience who is used to watching you since the time they were teenagers, they are fascinated."

Children are barred from her puppet act that opened last week at the Harrah's Marina hotel, because the room is connected to the casino.

"I have a new geriatric kangaroo who is involved with a lady in Atlantic City. I have to do something different to keep myself interested."
