

Lottery ticket tip pays off

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Waitress Tami Wolf often receives Indiana Lottery tickets as tips, but it was never a big deal until a week ago.

A customer dropped a ticket into the tips jar at the tavern where she works and Wolf, 27, took a minute and scratched off the ticket to see if she won anything.

"Either I'm crazy or I just won

$10,000," Wolf told the people at the bar on Nov. 30.

"It was instant shock. I was bouncing off the walls the rest of the night.

"People would tell me what they wanted to drink and by the time I walked over to get it I had forgotten what they wanted. I must have looked at the ticket 500 times. I was ready to sit on the other side of the bar and have a few."
