

UNC offensive tackle Donnalley drafted by Oilers in 3rd round

Staff and wire reports

Former North Carolina offensive tackle Kevin Donnalley was selected by the Houston Oilers as the 79th pick in the National Football League draft Sunday.

Donnalley, a 6-foot-5, 293-pound senior from Raleigh, was chosen in the third round by Houston in a pick the Oilers received from the Miami Dolphins.

The burly co-captain started at left tackle in both the 1989 and 1990 seasons for the Tar Heels. He played an integral role in UNC's improvement from a 1-10 record in 1989 to a 6-4-1 mark in 1990.

He is the second in his family to jump from UNC to the NFL. Rick Donnalley, an all-ACC center at UNC in 1980, played with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Kansas City Chiefs.

Monday, Donnalley, an economics major, was rewarded as the student-athlete with the highest grade-point average on the UNC football squad.

Women's hoops reaps recruits

Stephanie Lawrence, Miss Basketball in the state of Georgia, and Charlotte Smith, a first-team all-stater from Shelby, highlight a class of five Tar Heel women's basketball signees looking to lead UNC out of the ACC cellar in 1991-92.

UNC's other recruits are: Gwendolyn Gillingham, a 6-foot-7 All-San Antonio center from Floreseville, Texas; Jill Suddreth, a second-team all-state guard from Granite Falls; and Tonya Jackson, a 6-1 forward from Conway, S.C., who averaged 21 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocks a game in 1990-91 — enough to earn her South Carolina 4-A-player-of-the-year honors.

Lawrence led Morrow High School in Jonesboro, Ga., to three straight state championships, including a perfect 32-0 record this season — a year in which the 6-0 guard/forward shot 48 percent from behind the 3-point line.

Smith, the nephew of former NBA great David Thompson, averaged 25 points, 14 rebounds and four steals per game for Shelby High School in 1990-91. The 6-0 forward is reputed to be capable of dunking — something that has never been done in a regular-season women's college game.

Syracuse's Owens jumps to NBA

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — All-America forward Billy Owens said today he will pass up his final year of eligibility at Syracuse to enter the NBA draft.

"It was a hard decision, but I feel I'm ready for the next level," he said at an afternoon news conference.

Owens, a 6-foot-9 junior, is expected to be one of the top five players selected in the June 26th draft. Owens said that the prospect of signing a big-money contract as one of the top picks was not the deciding factor in entering the draft.

"I'm not really in it for the money," he said. "My dream was to be an NBA player, just to put an NBA uniform on."

The Big East Conference's player of the year in 1990-91, Owens averaged 23.3 points, 11.7 rebounds, 3.5 assists and 1.2 blocked shots a game last season.

Owens started all 103 games of his Syracuse career, finishing among the school's career leaders in every major category. His 1,818 points were seventh best in school history and left Owens as the second highest-scoring third-year player behind Dave Bing.

"He's going to be very high in the draft," New Jersey Nets' senior vice president Willis Reed said. "You can never tell. He could be No. 1."

Owens joins sophomore guard Kenny Anderson of Georgia Tech and juniors Terrell Brandon of Oregon and center Brian Williams of Arizona as underclassmen who announced for the NBA draft. The deadline is May 12.

Phillies give Leyva early exit

PHILADELPHIA — Nick Leyva was fired today as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies just 13 games into the season and was replaced by Jim Fregosi.

It was the second fastest firing in baseball history. In 1988, the year Baltimore lost its first 21 games, the Orioles fired Cal Ripken Sr. six games into the season. Ripken was replaced by Frank Robinson.

The Phillies opened this season 4-9 and looked like a loser. They had a 4.77 earned run average, wild pitches galore and made 15 errors. Leyva will not remain with the team in any capacity.
