

HAMMERLOCK PINS "BUMPS" TURNER

Hanson Victor After Sixteen
Minutes of Wrestling.
Swede Went Down First

In one of the prettiest wrestling contests ever held locally Fritz Hanson won from "Bumps" Turner at Lumina last night. After losing the first fall to his opponent, Hanson came back like a raging lion, and made a short finish of his opponent, winning the second and third falls with the deadly hammerlock.

The contest was one of the cleanest and tastest seen hereabouts since wrestling was started and Turner made a fine impression. The visitor worked splendidly and displayed a thorough knowledge of the game. It was his misfortune that he chanced to secure the first fall. The effect of this upon Hanson has been witnessed once or twice before.

In each instance the unlucky duck who took the first fling found himself the loser. So it was last night. When the Swede came back for the second fall it took less than four minutes for him to pin his heavier antagonist's arm with a hammerlock and Turner quickly gave up. The third fall went for twelve minutes and ended in the same manner as the second.

After losing the match Turner asked Referee McGurley to state for him that he had been defeated fairly by a better man and that he had no excuses to offer. Turner made a fine impression and demonstrated that he is a clever exponent of the mat game. The fans liked his work and many are hopeful that he and Hanson may be seen later in a return match.

There was a large crowd present, composed of hundreds from the city and from the resort. Ladies predominated and they were as much interested in the match as those of the masculine persuasion. Both Hanson and Turner wrestled on a clean, straight basis. They worked hard throughout, but the match was entirely free from unnecessary roughness or displeasing tactics. The wrestlers seemed well content to wage their campaign on a basis of "the better man win." Turner's statement to this effect after the match should be enough corroboration for the remark that Hanson, last night at least, proved his mastery over a worthy and formidable opponent.

Turner's first fall was won with a double arm roll and was taken in spite of Hanson's almost superhuman efforts to get away. There was no breaking the lock, however, and the first session went to the visitor. The latter outweighs the Swede probably

RECRUITING PARTY VERY SUCCESSFUL

Captain Gillette Leaves After Securing Dozen Men For Company A.

After securing enough recruits to bring the strength of Company A, Engineer Troops, of Wilmington, which is now at Camp Glenn, up to the minimum of the National Guard units, Capt. George W. Gillette, who, with Sergeant W. L. Smith, Jr., and Corporal H. F. Gouverneur, have been enlisting men in the city for the past several days, returned to their command this afternoon.

Six recruits that were secured in Wilmington were sent to Company A at Camp Glenn yesterday, and Captain Gillette and his men carried six more with them this afternoon. The recruits who left today were secured in Whiteville yesterday afternoon by Corporal Gouverneur and Private H. H. Watters, of the W. L. I.

With these additional men the strength of Company A is nearly 75, the amount which the officers of the company were striving for. With the single exception of the recruits from Whiteville all of the members of the company are from Wilmington.

Company A members are now hard at drill at the State concentration camp and will be in fit condition for the field when the North Carolina troops are sent to the border for patrol duty. It is understood that full field equipment for the engineer companies has been received from the Philadelphia station and they are receiving their instruction from a regular army officer.

fifteen pounds and his speed was almost that of Han's. Therefore friends of the "localite" were somewhat worried at the prospect.

Hanson soon proved to their satisfaction, however, that he was more than able to take care of himself. He went after his opponent on a business like basis which would not be denied and in sixteen minutes of actual wrestling had taken the second and third falls.

Mr. McGurley, in his concluding remarks, stated that there is a probability that he may not be able to officiate in matches which may be held this fall. He thanked the spectators for the uniform courtesy they have extended him at all times. His clever speeches and thorough work as referee have made his presence quite a valuable asset to wrestling and the entire sport-loving public will hope that his plans will enable him to handle the matches which are planned for the next few months.

OYSTER SEASON OPENS OCTOBER 1

Inspector Montgomery States
That Outlook For Bivalves
Is Fine.

Announcement was made this morning by Mr. W. C. Montgomery, Inspector in New Hanover, Brunswick and Pender counties for the State Fisheries Commission, that the oyster season opened here October 1, instead of September 1 as was erroneously stated a few days ago.

Mr. Montgomery explained that the oyster season opened on the first of next month and continued until April. He stated that it was the Virginia oyster law which allowed the bivalves to be marketed after September 1. There is a law in this State which imposes a fine for each and every oyster where oysters are gathered or marketed out of the season.

According to Mr. Montgomery the oyster season locally will be one of the best the city has enjoyed in some time. Last season was a record-breaker and Mr. Montgomery thinks that the coming one will certainly equal, if not surpass that one.

Mr. Montgomery stated that forecast in many places had been that much higher prices would prevail, but he explained that the conditions which governed the markets elsewhere did not prevail here and consequently he did not expect the price to advance. He was of the opinion that the range would be 60 cents to $1.00 per gallon. It is a well known fact that the racoon oyster which is gathered in the neighboring sounds is one of the sweetest and most palatable oyster obtainable.

WHAT HAREM LIFE MEANS.

The "Holy Place" Is a Tranquil Home,
Not A Prison For Beauty.
(Dorothea G. Shumaker, in Ueber, from Land and Meer.)

The West brought its civilization to the East, but one thing the Western people were unable to drive away from the Orient was the harem. The Oriental will stick to his harem. To overturn this old institution would make an end of culture in the Orient.

The harem is a home for women members of the family, widowed mothers, old maid aunts and others of the family branch. Even old servants, unfit for further service, are taken into the harem.

The word harem means "holy place," a protected home and not what is falsely understood, a place where rich Orientals hide and maintain their many wives. The children born in harems are kept there and carefully nursed by their mothers. Therefore, the death rate in these refuges is very small.

Conversations in the harems are carried on so that the children do not understand what is said in their presence, and as the children are always under the special care of their mothers, servants have no opportunity to teach such children things they should not know.

Western people have accused the Turks of polygamy, which is denied by the Oriental, and the accusation returned with the remark, the Western men are worse, for they flee from flower to flower, but no one brings any of these flowers home to make her his wife.

Turkish men seldom are rude to the female population, but many Euro-
