

LINCOLN'S FARM TO BE NATION'S MEMORIAL

Louisville Ky., Sept. 2.—The little farm near Hodgenville where Abraham Lincoln first saw the light of day has been the scene of some notable gatherings and ceremonies in the past, but all of these occasions promise to be outdone next Monday when many of the great men of the nation will assemble for ceremonies that will mark the acceptance of the old farm and the log cabin in which the martyred President was born as a gift to the nation, to be preserved as an everlasting memorial. President Wilson will be the central figure in the ceremonies and will deliver the address formally accepting the memorial in behalf of the people of the United States.

The general committee in charge of arrangements, of which William Marshall Bullitt of this city is chairman, completed the final details of its work today. President Wilson and his party, which is to include several members of his cabinet and other notables, will arrive in Louisville early Monday morning. They will be met by Chairman Bullitt and members of the general reception committee from Louisville and other sections of the State. A special train will convey the party to Hodgenville, where arrangements have been made for a demonstration by citizens of that town and vicinity, who will act as an escort to the Lincoln farm, three miles from the town.

Among those to be in the President's party will be Vice President Marshall, Secretary of War Baker, Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, the officers and trustees of the Lincoln Farm Association, and a number of United States senators and representatives who have taken an active part in preserving the birthplace of the nation. The formal exercises of the day will include the following features: Invocation by the Rev. Charles R. Hemphill of Louisville, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary; opening address by Gen. John B. Casteian of Louisville; address by Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, president of the Lincoln Farm Association; address by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi on "Abraham Lincoln and the South"; presentation of the deed to Lincoln farm by Robert J. Collier, chairman of the executive committee of the Lincoln Farm Association; acceptance of the deed in behalf of the nation by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker; formal speech of acceptance by President Woodrow Wilson; benediction by Archbishop J. J. Glennon of St. Louis.

The conversion of the old Lincoln farm and birthplace into a national memorial will mark the culmination of efforts extending over a period of more than ten years. The farm was purchased by Robert J. Collier August 23, 1906, at a commissioner's sale at the court house door at Hodgenville for $3,600, it having been sold by order of the court for taxes. Shortly thereafter the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born and which had been exploited over the country by a showman, was purchased by Mr. Collier and returned to its original position on the farm. It was then that the Lincoln Farm Association was organized, to which Mr. Collier deeded the farm and log cabin, to be held in trust for the nation.

The first exercises in connection with the farm after it was proposed to give it to the country were held February 12, 1909, the centenary of the birth of Lincoln. Theodore Roosevelt, then president, laid the cornerstone of the Lincoln Memorial Hall. In November of 1911 President William H. Taft presided at the ceremonies incident to the dedication of Memorial Hall within which the log cabin is forever enshrined, and the exercises of next week will witness the third ceremony participated in by a President of the United States.

Over the entrance of Memorial Hall are inscribed the following words: "Here—over the log cabin where Abraham Lincoln was born, destined to preserve the Union and to free the slave, a grateful people have dedicated this memorial to unity, peace and brotherhood among these States."

SENATOR JAMES HANDS WILSON THE STANDARD

three billion dollars their earnings under four years of the administration of your predecessor; the savings of the people deposited in the banks of our country amount to six billion dollars more than was deposited under the four years of the administration of Mr. Taft.

"Our exports for the first time in our history lead the world; our farmers are more prosperous than ever; business is free; individual endeavor is no longer denied its reward. The increase in the business of the commercial world is so great that it almost staggers the mind to contemplate it, notwithstanding a world's war has called for legislation to stay the process of the courts in debt collection in all the neutral countries of the world except here, where plenty blesses and prospers our people. Your beloved country marches forward to a prosperity never dreamed of. Your opponents are unwillingly forced to admit this happy condition of our people, which they say is not permanent, but they shall be no more regarded as prophets now than they were when they said it could not come.

"Four years ago in accepting the nomination of the Democratic Party for the Presidency you stated that you would seek advice and counsel wherever you could obtain it upon free terms; this you have done. You uncovered and drove a mighty lobby out of the Capitol and invited Americans of all stations to come and counsel with you. The laborer with his grimy hand, the farmer with the tan of the blazing sun upon his face, the railroad man who hold the throttle, the rolling wheels of commerce, the toiler from the damp and darkness of mine, from the shop, the mill, and the factory; the business men from their offices, the clerk from the counter, the banker, the artisan, the lawyer, and the doctor have come and found welcome and shared counsel with you. They knew you were free to serve, that you were unbosomed, unowned, and unafraid. They knew you only sought the truth, and when you found it you were ready to challenge all of its adversaries to any conflict.

"When peace shall spread her white wings over a charred and bloody world, in the quiet of the chamber of the just historian, when the din and roar of political antagonism shall have ceased, when the prejudice and passion of partisanship shall have died away, when principle shall actuate men and parties rather than appetite, when ambition shall no longer lure men and parties to unjust attack, the historian will accord to you and your administration a foremost place in the Republic's life.

"Americans are no ungrateful; the people are not unpatriotic; they recognize the thousands of difficulties that no man could foresee which you have encountered and mastered. Their verdict is already written; it has been agreed upon at the firesides of the land and has been molded in the schoolhouses, the places of worship, and wherever Americans meet to take over the affairs and good of their country. That verdict leaps forth from almost every American heart in undying gratitude to you for the service you have rendered, for the peace, prosperity, and happiness your leadership has given, and I but voice this day the overwhelming wish of Americans everywhere for your triumphant re-election.

"This great convention which nominated you was neither controlled nor intimidated by any un-American or foreign influence. It had the heart beat and spoke the true sentiment of our country.

"A committee composed of the permanent chairman of the convention and one delegate from each State and Territory was appointed to inform you of your selection as the nominee of the Democratic Party for President of the United States and to request you to accept it, and the convention did me the honor to make me chairman of this committee charged with such a happy mission.

"Therefore, in compliance with the command of that convention this committee performs that pleasing duty, and, as the appointed agent of that great National Democratic Convention, I hand you this formal letter of notification, signed by the members of the committee, accompanied by a copy of the platform adopted by the convention, and upon that platform I have the honor to request your acceptance of the tendered nomination. And, on behalf of the Democrats of the whole Republic, who are proud of your great administration, we pledge you their enthusiastic and united support, and our prayer is that God, who blesses the peacemaker, may guide you to a glorious victory in November."

Twenty Three Failed to Pass The Supreme Court Test This Time

(Special to The Dispatch.)
Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 2.—Twenty-four candidates for law license found the Supreme Court in their way, but 79 passed the fall examination given Monday of the present week and one of the largest classes ever passed by the court is admitted into full State and Federal practice.

The successful applicants were announced yesterday evening and the 20 returned to those who failed to make the mark. Among the successful ones are some interesting names. James S. Griffin, clerk and stenographer in the office of the Corporation Commission, and Allen J. Maxwell, whom the Greensboro Daily News—once denominated Travis Boswell, took Judge Pell's course and got by, as did all 'save one of the dozen or more.

Whether this disturbs the official relationship of the two men does not yet appear. Mr. Maxwell is chief clerk to the commission and came near being a member of it four years ago. It would be no wrong to him to say that the court's license is appreciated by him. He was betting that he bone-headed it enough at one or two places to wreck his chances. Everybody in Raleigh will be glad that merit and modesty worked so well.

George Winston Craig, Governor Craig's future partner, made the court successfully. He and his father will practice together when the elder Craig gets away from Raleigh by the limitations of the one term. Governor Craig persuaded the boy to keep away from Mexico. The Governor held out the prospects of the two in the law and George Craig buckled down to the Wake Forest quizz. The Governor has been notified of his partners success and will be delighted that paternal advice triumphed over the glamor of military life.

Those who successfully passed the examination are the following:
Arthur A. Aronson, Raleigh; William F. Midgett, Elizabeth City; Conrad W. Sandrock, Fayetteville; Alan Turner, Statesville; Peter R. Hine, Ayden; Leon G. Stevens, Smithfield; William S. Reitzel, Greensboro, and James H. Gray, Wake.

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Governor, seeking the pardon of C. T. Lewis, on condition of good behavior thereafter, condition of good behavior thereafter, please file notice of same with the Governor immediately.
