Italian Vessel Celebrated Recent Allied Successes in Europe.

The Italian steamer Dora Baltea, was dressed in holiday attire yesterday in honor of recent allied successes on several of the war fronts in Europe. The vessel was bedecked with flags and all were merry on board while just across the river lay the German steamers Kiel and Nicaria. The Dora Baltea arrived here several weeks ago and was moored up the river at the Wilmington Com-Market from Third to Water press until Monday, pending instructions as to the loading of her cargo. Much Interest Manifested in Connecting Links Between Debate That May be Staged in Boone Raleigh, Sept. 19.-H. S. Williams the Republican candidate for Congress in the Eighth, declines to find in the impending Doughton-Williams debates in the present campaign, any thing to make him "back flat-down. Mr. Williams declared that imme diately upon receiving the Doughton invitation to joint debate the "invite" was accepted and agreement to meet him at any place to arrange the series was offered. "He wrote back that he did not know when he could get away from Washington and would write later as to time and place he could meet me." Mr. Williams says.

"He said he had an appointment in Boone and if I would come there he to speak at the Republican county to agree on several points. convention in Jefferson, Ashe county on the same date he was to be but told him if he would his time in Boone day or so later I would meet him there, and in his reply to that letter he never mentioned Boone. Judge Bond, who tried the Thomas case and sentenced the young fellow to a term of one year for assault upon Miss Eula Nunn while she occupied a berth on a Pullman car, said) today in reply to interrogatories based upon newspaper editorials discussing the case, that his charge was based upon old law.

"I had the opinion of the Supreme Court before me when I charged the jury," Judge Bond said, "and what I said was almost in the identical language of that court. I did not say that 'intent is one of the qualifications of crime.' I did say it is one of the ingredients. I did not say either that drunkenness is any excuse for crime. If a man sets about to commit an offense and then gets drunk. the courts do make a distinction between that conduct and that of a man who, while drunk, commits an offense in which the very condition of the man made a criminal intent impossible. The intent was absent, in the opinion of the jury, because intelligence was absent.
