

REMARKABLE EXHIBIT OF GOLF IS GIVEN

London, Oct. 27.—A remarkable exhibition of golf, under extreme handicap, was recently shown at the Cambridge Park course during a four-day tournament in which the leading English professionals were the contestants. Previous to the match in which Edward Ray and James Braid were opposed by Harry Vardon and J. H. Taylor, in play for the benefit of the Lord Kitchener National Memorial Fund, Ernest Jones, balancing himself on one leg, repeatedly drove the ball for distances well over 200 yards.

Timing of the perfect professional swing were there, and many amazed golfers discovered that "form" is really the thing after all, whether you are standing on two legs or one. Jones naively remarked that he hoped to do much better after he gets an artificial leg fitted. So far he has only been able to make a 69 on his home course. The spectators also witnessed some wonderful play in the foursome which followed. The match demonstrated that whatever may be its other vicissitudes war has not taken a single ounce from the tremendous driving smash of Ray, nor has it dulled in the slightest degree the keen edge of Vardon's wonderful machine-like play. These two masters of golf fought out a wonderful match. Vardon made a 68, ten strokes under the standard for the course, but Ray was a miracle man that afternoon. The witchery of his niblick play finally set at naught the wizardry of Vardon's woods and irons, and he rounded out the eighteen holes with a 65. Braid and Taylor were more or less eclipsed and it is no ordinary golfing contest when players of their type can be all but forgotten. The foursome had not moved beyond the third hole when the big gallery, which included a host of Americans, began to realize that what they

THEATRICAL GOSSIP FROM MERRY GOTHAM

New York, Oct. 27.—New York theatres presented numerous changes this week. Monday night Henry Miller presented "Come Out of the Kitchen," with Ruth Chatterton, at the Cohan, a "Seven Chance" being transferred to the Belasco to succeed "The Boomerang." Tuesday night, John Drew began his engagement at the Criterion in "Major Pandennis," by Langdon Mitchell. One the same night "Object—Matrimony," the new play by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman, was put on at the Cohan and Harris, succeeding "The Intruder." Thursday night the new offerings of the week were rounded out with the first performance of the new Winter Garden show.

The coming week also promises to be a notable one. It will bring Cyril Maude to the Empire, not in "Jeff," as originally proposed, but in "The Basker." The same night New York playgoers will be given their first opportunity to pass judgment on "Good Gracious Annabelle," which has been well received in Boston. John Craig is to conduct a resident stock company at the Garrick, beginning in December, for the production of new plays to determine their commercial value. Mr. Craig has had considerable experience producing new dramas at the Castle Square theatre in Boston, particularly in the Harvard prize plays, some of which have become well known in the theatrical world.

The Shuberta announces 23 new productions with 21 old ones on the road. Prominent among the new pieces to be staged are "The Fugitives," by John Galsworthy; "Gambler's All," by Mrs. May Martindale and Percy Burton; "The Cry of a Child," by Wilson Nizner, from the German of Alexander Engel and Julius Horst; "The Stampede," by Lincoln J. Carter, and "The Love Thief," a comedy which had a run in London last season. As actress-manager Mme. Nazimova will present this season three plays never before seen in New York and several revivals. The first play will be "Caption Shoes," by Austin Adams. Others to be played this season will be "The Price of Life," "The Fairy Tale," "A Doll's House," "Hedda Gabler," and "The Master Builder."

With striking scenic decorations, beautiful girls in attractive costumes and lively music and dancing, the new Midnight Frolic which Florence Ziegfeld, Jr., is presenting in his after-theatre playground above the New Amsterdam theatre, surpasses all his previous entertainments in popularity. Another lively resort for entertainment seekers after the regular theatres close for the night is "The Bull Ring," situated in a roof garden decorated in the Spanish style, at the Forty-fourth street theatre. "Less Than Dust" is the title selected for Miss Mary Pickford's first appearance as an independent motion picture star at the head of her own company. It is scheduled for production early next month. Miss Ethel Clayton and Carlyle Blackwell are co-stars in "The New South," to be released next month, and in "The Wall Beyond," which will an dTaylor were playing magnificent golf all the way through. Taylor was a trifle handicapped by a sore hand and had most of the bad luck in the match. Braid did some remarkable putting. He was constantly down in three or four, but Vardon or Ray were always on hand to halve the hole and share the honors. Once Braid sank a 30-foot put for a two, but Ray with an air of supreme carelessness, ran one down from fifteen feet away and took a similar score. The driving was always wonderful. Taylor and Braid were seldom more than a couple of yards apart. Vardon generally was ten yards in advance of these two, but Ray, a little off in direction, always had from ten to twenty yards the best of the cannoning from the tee. It was a foursome in which it took a 3 to win and oftentimes a 2. Ray made a 3 on a 454-yard hole after driving well into the rough.

roof of from five to twenty-five feet. He penetrated its full length and found a great unevenness of the base, evidently caused by falling rocks from the roof. The country in which the cave occurs is a series of lava beds and the cave is a lava formation. There are no stalactites or stalagmites and Mr. Spofford suggests that the ice formations are due to seepage water that has frozen. Ice is present all the year. Settlers in that region are taking ice and water from the cave for domestic use.

not be ready until February. In her new photoplay, "The Glided Cage," Miss Alice Brady has been surrounded by a company comprising Montague Love, Irving Cummings, Arthur Ashley, Miss Gerda Holmes and Miss Clara Whipple. Miss Enid Markey and Frank Kenan are soon to be seen in Thomas H. Ince's production of "Jim Grimby's Baby," by Lenoir Bartlett. Kitty Gordon, whose illustrious beauty and far-famed name are known to theatre-goers and picture patrons throughout the world, is soon to be seen in a screen version of the novel, "Vera, the Medium," by Richard Harding Davis. Norma Talmadge, who recently organized a film producing corporation of her own, is already hard at work upon the first of her new productions, an adaptation of "The Price She Paid," by David Graham Phillips. Clara Kimball Young and the principal members of her company have been in the Catskill Mountains making exterior scenes for the film version of Thomas Dixon's famous novel, "The Foolish Virgin."
