AT THE "Y"—FORT CASWELL. The soldiers at the fort on yesterday afternoon were highly entertained by a party of college girls from Converse, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shepard.

Miss Dinwiddie, of Tennessee, was the soloist and has an unusually sweet and highly cultivated voice. She delighted her audience, which nearly filled the "Y," with many selections, the one particularly alluring was "Moon," and the "raucous" applause was an indication of the appreciation shown by the audience.

Miss Dinwiddie imitated to perfection a violin solo, using a bayonet on paper, but the music, which appeared to come from the instrument, was made with her vocal chords. One not looking directly at her would have been convinced that the music was being made by a violin. This particular feat captivated the audience.

Miss Vera Furlong made a hit by singing "When Yankee Doodle Learns to Swing" and "You French Boogie Woogie."

Mr. Waller, who is quite gifted as a singer, besides having the air of a professional, sang many catchy and bright selections, among them "Wilson," each letter in the name being used to begin a sentence of significance. Mr. McCoy, secretary, read an original poem on "Womanhood," which he composed the day before, his inspiration being a bunch of water lilies.

Mr. Price, the new secretary, is desirous of having people from Wilmington with musical talent visit the post regularly and give the men the much needed entertainment which they so much enjoy and appreciate.

Wrightsville Breezes

Along with the usual dancing and excellent music by Claude Elam's orchestra, Lumina tonight offers picture fans two big photoplays headed by a two reel Vitagraph production, "Law and Order," a thrilling dramatic piece with Rose Topley playing leads. Ham and Bud will give those who tarry on the east verandas tonight the laugh of their lives in the roaring burlesque, "The Onion Magnate's Revenge."

Both the Oceanic and Seashore hotels are rapidly filling and the same is true of the cottages operating between Lumina and the Oceanic. Practically every car carries guests and the beach is rapidly assuming the air it wore last July.

Paul Mothrke, of Savannah, retained as house detective at the Oceanic for the season, arrived yesterday and has already assumed his duties at the hostelry.

Lumina soft drinks joined the upward trend yesterday and bottled refreshments that could be had for a nickel on the previous Sunday had doubled in price following the official opening of the season.

Guests on the beach yesterday afternoon were unable to understand why ice cream cones should be selling for a nickel when the crowd would have paid ten cents just as gladly. Another of the unanswerable questions.

The usual splash of color, so evident on Sunday afternoons and used for beach decorative purposes, in a manner that would bring the average artist to attention, was sadly diminished yesterday afternoon, although all the colors were there and the bare legged mermaid was not missing.

Invasion of the city by the breezes that are usually to be had only in and around Lumina and down northern extension way, curtailed yesterday afternoon's beach crowds in an unmistakable manner and kept scores of others out of the surf. In fact sun bather were the order of the afternoon, but the most instances bathing suits were just as necessary for this pleasure as for a dip in the deep.

The afternoon and evening concerts of the Elam orchestra were delightful affairs and those assembled for the music festival were very anxious to show their appreciation of the efforts of the artists that Mr. Elam has brought here for the season.

Yesterday afternoon's crowd on the beach was woefully small when compared to the crowd of the preceding Sunday and a soothsayer was not needed to determine the cause of the falling off. The weather was wholly responsible and very few of those who went down cared to take their regular Sunday afternoon dip.

The recently instituted admission charges to Lumina are suspended on Sundays and yesterday afternoon and last night's beach visitors heard concert music without cost that was second to none obtainable.

A Statesville, N. C., visitor on the beach yesterday and one whose business frequently carries him to Charlotte, expressed himself as being unable to understand why the beach authorities should charge only ten cents for the privilege of dancing when up Charlotte way they collect a half dollar for the same privilege.

Davis, recently tendered to the board of county commissioners, became effective today and Mr. Davis, with his title detached, expects to enter the employ of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway company tomorrow. Smith, a quiet but beautiful wedding was solemnized when their daughter, Miss Clara, was united to Harry Lee. The Rev. Peter McIntyre, of the Presbyterian church, officiated. Only a few relatives and special friends were present.

The commencement will conclude tomorrow with the graduation exercises.

CAPTAIN BOWEN QUILTS THE SOUTHERN EXPRESS

One of Biggest Fish and Soft-Shell Crab Shipments Passes New Bern

(Special to The Dispatch.)

New Bern, June 10.—Friends in New Bern will learn with regret that Captain J. J. Bowen, who came to this city one year ago to take charge of the local branch of the Southern Express company, has resigned his position and has accepted a place with the federal bureau of employment, a branch of the department of labor, and will leave shortly for Raleigh, where he will be located.

Captain Bowen has been with the Southern Express company for 30 years and is a valued employe. He came to this city as successor to J. T. White and has made many friends here.

While it is not definitely known, it is understood that Z. W. Taylor, formerly agent here, but who has for some years held the position of cashier, will be made agent and that Paul Roberts will be made cashier.

The closing exercises of the public schools at Pollockville were held yesterday and people for miles around were in attendance at the event.

Rev. Daniel G. MacKinnon, rector of Christ Episcopal church of this city, delivered the graduation address and this was heard with interest and thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present.

One of the largest shipments of fish and soft-shell crabs of the season passed through New Bern yesterday morning, en route from Beaufort and Morehead City to points in the central and western part of the state and to the northern markets.

There was one and a half carloads of the seafood in the shipment and in this there were probably 75 boxes of soft shell crabs.

While Craven county was not mentioned in reports made by the state board of health a few days ago in its survey of the health work being done in North Carolina, it is a fact that in this county unusually diligent efforts are being made to eradicate and prevent disease and this is having the desired result.
