FISH POTATOES ARE BEING DUG IN CRAVEN

Rawls and Horton Both Confident of Being the Next Solicitor

(Special to The Dispatch.)
New Bern, June 13.—Diggings of fish potatoes in Craven and adjoining counties continues with unabated activity and, in consequence, many loads of those are each day going to the north from this section and the growers continue to receive good prices for them.

While every effort is being made to get the potatoes out of the ground quickly, the shipments to the north are not being rushed to the limit, the shippers knowing that if this is done the bottom will fall out of the prices. The digging will continue for at least two weeks or more and by that time it is believed that the crop will have been moved.

Farmers all over this and adjoining counties are calling for laborers and there is no need for any man to be at the present or any other time, for that matter. One farmer who came to New Bern yesterday from Pamlico county stated that there work there for at least 500 colored men and women and that the farmers would be glad to employ them at high wages.

Among the visitors in New Bern yesterday was Hon. Z. V. Rawls, of Robeson, Pamlico county, and who is candidate for the solicitorship of the fifth judicial district. Mr. Rawls has been down in Carteret county, seeing the people and looking over the situation, and in an interview given out stated that he had been assured of 90 per cent of the votes in that county.

"I feel positive that I will secure this place," stated Mr. Rawls, and added that he was being given even greater support in the campaign preceding the second primary than was given him in the first.

"Everything looks good to me and I feel that I will be the winner," was the statement made by J. Lloyd Horton, of Farmville, Pitt county, and who is a candidate for the solicitorship in the fifth district.

Mr. Horton has been making a campaign trip over the district and he states that the conditions as he finds them in regard to the support which will be given to him in the second primary are very encouraging.

Theatres

"WITH THE LAW."

The New York Tribune has the following as a part of their criticism of Vitagraph's film version of "Within the Law," coming to the Grand next Monday and Tuesday:

"'Within the Law,' which had its screen premiere at the Broadway theatre last night, involuntarily sets itself the task of proving that the silent drama is better medium for telling a story than the spoken drama.

"Every one in the audience was bound to contrast the screen version with the play, and if the rest of the audience agreed with the writer, they decided in favor of the silent drama.

"It is possible on the screen to break that gap which came between the time when Mary Turner left her employer's office, a convicted thief, and the time she appeared, resplendent, in her own home, three years later. In the play the events were, of necessity, only talked about, and in the picture they form some of the most interesting scenes.

Mary's release from prison, her subsequent search for honest employment, her attempted suicide, from which she is saved by Joe Garson, and her first dishonest deal with a land agent, which nets her $30,000, and is still within the law, make wonderful material for the scenario writer.

Alice Joyce is charming as Mary Turner, and in many of her scenes she is not unlike Janet Cowl, who created the part. But in the scenes where she denounces her employer, who has sent her to prison, her manner suggests despair rather than anger or vindictiveness. She is not a self-reliant Mary Turner, for, although she is the brains of the combination, she does not seem really to enter into the spirit of the wrongdoing.

RAPID CHANGES IN APPAREL.
Wearing apparel changes mighty fast during the progress of "The Fighting Grin," coming to the Grand theatre tomorrow with Franklyn Farnum, the star of this Bluebird farce-comedy. There is the hero, a bandit, a tramp and a clergyman engaging in forced exchanges of raiment under the most ridiculous circumstances. In these compulsory disguises the tramp becomes a well-fed guest of honor; the bandit turns clergyman and performs a "marriage"; the hero is forced to hide behind hedges and underbrush while the girl he loves has visions of her ideal gone mad; the clergyman becomes a prisoner and the tangle is not raveled out until five acts of hilarious farce comes to a "surprise finish" in a climax of astonishing revelations. The rivalry for the hand of a girl who lets duty govern her decisions, the enmity that has long existed between two staid old business men and the determination of a venturesome chap to win a $10,000 bet are undercurrents that keep the complications stirring and the comedy situations multiplying. "The Fighting Grin" promises great fun for the "fans."

NEW SOCIAL LECTURE LEAGUE

"It reads like a story book," is the way one of America's most happily married society leaders opened the subject of her remarks on Hair Culture at the first annual lecture of her newly inaugurated Course on Timely Topics at her home on the Hudson just outside of New York city.

"I have been a great outdoor enthusiast all my life and I make it a rule to do without my hat whenever possible, both in the daytime as well as evening. Jack, my husband, some years ago remarked that I would have to probably give up my running about bareheaded now that I was getting a bit gray. But I am not to be outdone simply by a few or many gray hairs. I went right to the most reliable authority I could get on the subject. The result was I avoided putting a lot of harmful dyes on my hair and I began using a Hair Color Restorer called Q-Ban and in no time Jack had to confess he didn't understand how my hair got so beautiful. Was I dressing it different, or what?"

"You may rest assured I haven't told him anything about it, although he very often remarks my hair certainly does look fine. Q-Ban is our little secret."
