MISS NANCY JANE CROCKETT WEDS REV. C. R. McCARTY

The wedding of Miss Nancy Jane Crockett to the Reverend Charles Raymond McCarty was solemnized at the Highlands Presbyterian church at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon.

The church was beautifully decorated in holly, Carolina hemlock and spruce. The altar was banked in the greens with the cathedral candles at either side. The windows were filled with greens and a lighted taper in each one.

Before the ceremony James Carr Ramsey sang, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," and James B. Bartch sang, "Your Song from Paradise," with Mrs. Bartch at the organ.

To the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin little Frances Hedden, dressed in pink crepe, entered carrying the ring on a white satin cushion. Master John Stuart Crockett came next and took his place opposite the flower girl. The bride and groom were met at the altar by the Reverends Stuart R. Crockett and Sidney L. McCarty, both of whom officiated in the impressive ring ceremony. During the ceremony Mrs. Bartch played Lichtheim and for the recessional Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride was dressed in a gown of white satin with veil of net and Brussels lace. She wore her grandmother's antique corals as her only ornament. Her flowers were a shower of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies falling gracefully from a Jerusalem prayer book.

out of the car and carried and had the sensation of going up a bank. Then one of the men said 'We're going to shove you right in front of that train.' As the train approached the two men holding me shoved me, actually turning me loose toward the train. The third member of the party grabbed me by the legs, jerked me, and the train went by. It was very close because I could feel the breeze on my head.

"One of the men cursed the man who jerked me. He probably saved my life."

"I was again taken from the car and laid down on the road about two to three hundred feet in front of the car and one of the men told me 'If you move we'll kill you.'"

"The car was driven toward me with as much speed as possible in that distance and the brakes were applied just as the car neared me and one of the men said 'That's good brakes.'"

"This was repeated again and this time the car rolled up and touched my body."

Farm Recovery

For Governor's Plan and Prosper Campaign

A detailed outline of a program for agricultural recovery in keeping with Governor Ebringhaus' "plan and prosper" campaign has just been prepared by Charles A. Sheffield, assistant extension service director at N. C. State College.

Mr. Sheffield has made a study of the crop acreage and livestock needs of North Carolina, and his findings have been set forth in a special circular just issued by the extension service.

There is still a definite need for more wheat, corn, oats, garden truck, meat, and dairy products than is now being produced within the state, he said. North Carolinians cannot be self-sufficient until they supply their own needs with foods produced at home whenever possible.

The AAA program of reducing the production of basic commodities will leave 600,000 North Carolina acres free for the production of food and feed crops for home consumption, Mr. Sheffield said, and now is the logical time for farmers to begin the production of these feed and food crops.

Let the car speak for itself

HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

come within the Act must be "operated for the mutual benefit of the members thereof, as such producers, and conform to one or both of the following requirements:

First: That no member of the association is allowed more than one vote because of the amount of stock or membership capital he may own therein, or

Second: That the association does not pay dividends on stock or membership capital in excess of 8 per cent per annum, and in any case to the following:

Third: That the association shall not deal in products of non-members to an amount greater in value than such as are handled by it for members."

Associations must comply with either the first or second condition and may comply with both. In addition to the above, cooperative associations must comply with the Statutes of their respective state.

"This means," said President Scarborough, "that cotton, tobacco, truck, livestock, dairy, fruit, nut, and other farm cooperative associations can make application with the Columbia Bank for Cooperatives for loans. The object of the Bank is primarily to assist cooperative associations in financial need and not just lend money for commercial profit. It is well, however, for associations to understand that the bank's loans will be made on strictly a business basis."

Closing over 200 loans daily so far this month the land bank for itself and as agent of the land bank commissioner has issued checks totaling over $4,000,000 for distribution in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. President Daniel of the land bank expects to close over $7,000,000 in loans during December, thus setting a new high record for disbursements. During January President Daniel expects to better the December figure by double or more.
