

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES and COMINGS AND GOINGS

U. D. C. TO MEET FEB. 12

The Macon County chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. T. J. Johnston on Monday, February 12, at 3 o'clock.

All members are urged to attend. An interesting program has been arranged.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORKERS MEET

The Social Service Workers of the Methodist church met with Miss Margaret Cozad and Mrs. Lester Conley at the home of Miss Cozad on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with 16 members present.

A very interesting meeting was held and plans were made for the "Jitney Supper," which is to be given February 24 in the office of the Nantahala Power and Light company.

Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO GIVE DANCE

A dance for the Macon county clubs of the Young Democrats will be held at Camp Taukeeta, Miss Olive Patton's camp, on Thursday evening, March 8. Music for the dance will be furnished by the Young People's string band. All members in the county are invited, also members from nearby counties.

Plans at this time call for holding a dance at least once a month, thus taking care of the social functions of the club.

GIBSON-JONES

Miss Lona Gibson and Arthur Jones were quietly married in the register of deeds office on Thursday, February 1, with Samuel J. Murray officiating.

Mrs. Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson and Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, both of Leatherman.

BRYANT-LILES

Miss Mary Odessa Bryant and Granville B. Liles were married in Clayton, Ga., on Monday, January 1. Mrs. Liles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Bryant. She is a senior in the Franklin high school.

Mr. Liles is the son of Mrs. J. B. Liles, of Peachland, N. C. He is a graduate of the Peachland high school and for two years attended Louisburg college. He is now supply sergeant in the Civilian Conservation Corps at Camp F-9 near Franklin.

FOOLISH FANCIES

BY ROY L. GRIFFIN
Of N. C. Camp F-9
Civilian Conservation Corps

DID you ever see a dream walking? Well, I did." It was in the shape of a frying size chicken. In fact, if the aforesaid chicken hadn't hurried up a little bit, it would have been a dead chicken. I wouldn't have regretted it at all if the truck in which I was riding had hit the poor thing. Possibly I could have hopped out of the truck, picked the chicken up, and sneaked it in to camp without anyone knowing a thing about it. I didn't, of course, but what if I had? Well, if there is anything that I like better than fried chicken, it's more fried chicken. Believe it or not!

Dear readers, you're, thinking that the joke's on me, but you you're wrong. If there is anything that I simply despise, it's fried chicken. Which brings up that old saying, "Don't count your chickens before they're hatched."

Don't try to figure it out, it's too much strain on the brain.

The snow that we had last week certainly lowered the spirit of our camp. In fact, lots of us were lowered whether we wanted to be or not. You understand, on slick places.

Capt. McIlwaine is leading, at the date of writing, with fifty-four falls out of no attempts. Which is a very fine record, considering that our dear captain hasn't had very much experience in falling.

And that, dear readers, brings up another old saying, altered to fit the occasion. "On any slick places, all that stands on two legs comes down sooner or later."

Which is appropriate enough.

Talking about dreams again, I think D. L. Holt, our company clerk, saw one when he went home Christmas. In fact, I think he fell in love with some girl back at Conner's Cross-roads, or Pumpkin Center, or where ever his home is. After he came back to camp he was in a daze for two or three weeks. He even packed up and started to leave, but was stopped at the gate. He's finally forgotten about it now, though. He can't possibly think about it with all the work he has to do. He shoots pool eight hours a day, and croons the other sixteen.

Capt. McIlwaine and Lt. Pickell were talking with friends in Franklin one day, when Mr. James Porter came by carrying a clock.

"I hope he doesn't drop that clock," said the captain.

"I hope he doesn't either," replied the lieutenant, "because that would certainly be a waste of time."

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

BY ANN PAGE

MARKETING continues to be a pleasure so long as there is a wide choice of foods at reasonable or low cost. This is particularly true of fresh fruits and vegetables at this time but also of meat, fish, eggs, cheese and butter as well. Most staples are still moderately priced although they have felt the upward trend of prices.

Among the vegetables the cabbage family is outstanding in quality and price. Lettuce and celery are plentiful and cheap. Green beans are not as fine as they have been. Spinach is plentiful.

California oranges are very attractive in quality and price. Grapefruit continues to deserve superlatives. Bananas are improving in quality with no change in price. Strawberries are plentiful and low priced.

The Quaker Maid suggests the following Sunday Dinner menus.

Low Cost Dinner
Sautéed Liver and Bacon
Boiled Potatoes
Buttered Carrots
Bread and Butter
Banana Shortcake
Tea or Coffee
Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Beef
Browned Potatoes
Buttered Cauliflower
Tomato Salad with Green Pepper Ring
Bread and Butter
Apple Pie
Coffee
Cheese
Milk

Very Special Dinner
Orange and Grapefruit Cup
Chicken Fricassee with Dumplings
Boiled Rice
New Bees
Lettuce
Peanut Butter Dressing
Rolls and Butter
Vanilla Ice Cream Strawberry Sauce
Coffee
Milk
